YOUNGSTERS HIT THE CENTENNIAL TRAIL

Israeli Forces Slay Arab Guerrilla Trio

Schoolchildren Held As Hostages Rescued

MAALOT, Israel (UPI) — Israeli forces today stormed a schoolbuilding in this Galilee village near the border of Lebanon and killed three Arab guerrillas who had been holding about 75 Israeli schoolchildren as hostages. At least 16 children were wounded.

One boy, his face bloodied, held a yellow rag to his wound. Beside him lay 15 other students, all on stretchers.

"They started shooting," he said. "They just shot at us and we ran."

The Arab guerrilla unit had moved into the village in a predawn raid in which they killed seven persons and wounded 12 others, seized the children who were visiting here on a tour of Biblical lands and threatened to kill them unless Israel released 20 Arab guerrillas held in Israeli jails.

The Israeli government interrupted its peace talks with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and went into emergency session to study the threat. Soon afterwards a government spokesman announced that Israel was agreeing to the Arab demands —the first time in four years Israel had yielded to terrorism.

While the guerrillas were warning against Israeli trickery witnesses said the Israel troops charged the front of the gray concrete building, shooting into the wall and windows with light arms as they ran. Children jumped from the windows during the assault, they said.

The smoke of grenades billowed through the western Galilee air around the school building in the battle that lasted four to six minutes. Two explosions rocked the area immediately afterwards, possibly from explosions laid by the guerrillas themselves to blow up the schoolhouse and the children as they had threatened to do.

"There are about 10 wounded, some of them soldiers, but I don't know if there are any other losses in life besides the terrorists," a local newsman told Israeli national radio in a telephoned interview before the students were laid out on stretchers.

The shootout occurred minutes before a 6 p.m. (noon EDT) deadline was due to expire for the release of the 20 Arab guerrillas held in Israeli prisons. Some of the prisoners already had arrived at the school building in this town four miles south of the Lebanese frontier.

French ambassador Jean Herly was on the spot outside the building when the Israeli troops stormed the building. He had been commissioned by the guerrillas to handle the exchange of the students for the prisoners and fly the Arabs to Damascus.

Israeli Information Minister Shimon Peres, in a national radio interview, said the government of Prime Minister Golda Meir was forced to authorize the operation because the guerrillas had not agreed to postpone the deadline and no word had reached the French Ambassador or his Romanian counterpart, Ion Covaci, on instructions for the transfer.

"Up until 6 o'clock, the ambassadors had not been able to establish any contact with the terrorists, and they refused to delay blowing up the building." The operation began at 5:25 P.M. (11:25 a.m. EDT).

Survivors among the children said the troops, 25 on one side of the building and 25 on the other, rushed in firing.

Helicopters and ambulances rushed to the scene and took the wounded to hospitals throughout the north of the country.

Two New Subpoenas Are Voted On Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee voted overwhelmingly today to serve President Nixon with two subpoenas seeking tapes of 11 more of his Watergate conversations and nine months of daily entries in his diaries for 1972 and 1973.

Despite Nixon's contention that the impeachment inquiry has "the full Watergate story," only one Republican, Rep. Edward Hutchinson of Michigan, opposed issuing a subpoena for tapes of Nixon conversations.

The dates were for April 4, 1972, after John N. Mitchell allegedly approved a plan for Republican surveillance, and for June 20 and June 23, 1972, shortly after the Watergate break-in.

Four roll calls were required to approve the four separate parts of the second subbpoena for Nixon's diaries. The President picked up as many as nine supporters on one of those roll calls.

John M. Doar, the committee's special impeachment counsel, said the committee would be asked to subpoena more tapes tomorrow — about 40 on contributions to Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign by milk producers and about 22 concerning settlement of an antitrust suit against International Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Gerald L. Warren, White House deputy press secretary, hinted today that Nixon will refuse to comply with any new subpoena. He declined comment on the committee vote but told reporters, "the President believes the House Judiciary Committee has all the information it needs to proceed with the impeachment proceeding."

He said Nixon's chief Watergate lawyer, James D. St. Clair, is standing by his earlier statement that Nixon will refuse to hand over any more Watergate tapes to either the committee or special prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

After the committee voted it adjourned until the afternoon when it was to resume closed hearings and possibly listen to some of the tapes already in its possession.

The committee voted:

36 to 2 in favor of subpoenaing Nixon's daily diaries including memos from his staff and dictabelt recollections of conversations for the period April-July 1973, when documents were removed from E. Howard Tunt's White House safe and destroyed.

32 to 6 to subpoena diaries covering February-April 1973, when the cover-up was becoming unraveled and Hunt's demands for hush money intensified.

29 to 9 for the diaries from July 12-July 31, immediately before and after the existence of the White House taping system was disclosed before the Senate Watergate hearings.

32 to 6 on subpoenaing diaries for October, 1973 covering the period Archibald Cox was fired as special Watergate Prosecutor.

All the votes against the subpoena were cast by Republicans with the exception of one, Rep. Ray Thornton, D-Ark., who joined eight Republicans in the 29-9 vote.

Today's subpoena for 11 Watergate tapes was only the third ever voted by a committee of Congress on a president.

The first was issued by the Senate Watergate committee last summer but the courts refused to enforce it. The second was issued by the House Judiciary Committee on April 11.

Hutchinson has taken the position that the committee should serve no subpoenas on Nixon since it cannot enforce them and since subpoenas only provoke confrontations.

Arriving at 10 a.m. EDT, 40 minutes after the debate started, Nixon's Watergate lawyer, James D. St. Clair sat at a table at the open meeting and listened to the debate but was forbidden to participate.

St. Clair submitted two memos, however, opposing issuance of any new subpoenas.

One committee member, Rep. John F. Seiberling, D-Ohio, called St. Clair's reasoning "the most incredible mishmash of irrelevancies I've ever seen."

During discussion of the subpoena issue, Rep. Tom Railsback R.-Ill., said he would vote for it but asked the committee to consider what it would do if Nixon defied it.

"At some point, we're going to have to bite the bullet and decide what action we're going

Demo Voter Registration On Increase

A sharp gain in Democratic voter registration, contrasted with a drop in Republicans, has been reported by the Marin County elections office.

At the same time, however, the number of persons declining to state a party preference shot up by 40 per cent, from 7,353 in the 1972 primary to 10,294 for the June 4 primary this year.

Democratic registration went up 12 per cent, from 52,544 to 59,138 for the same period. The GOP figure dropped 1 per cent, from 45,235 to 44,782.

The Peace and Freedom Party's count dropped by 34 per cent, from 902 to 599, and the American Independent Party fell by 20 per cent, from 157 to 125. "Other" gained, from 52 to 54.

Nixon Nominates Navy Secretary

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today nominated New York investment banker J. William Middendorf II to be Secretary of the Navy.

Middendorf, 47 has been serving as undersecretary of the Navy since last July and will succeed John Warner, who was named by Nixon to be administrator of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration.

Action Will Cut Homes On Mountain

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Blanket rezoning to reduce the number of possible homesites on Ring Mountain and the Tiburon Ridge was approved yesterday by the Marin County Board of Supervisors. (See other Marin supervisors' stories, page 10.)

The action ends more than a month of controversy which was touched off when three supervisors agreed to delete Ring Mountain from the proposed Strawberry Community Plan and leave its present zoning untouched.

That decision to leave the zoning as is, thus allowing more than 700 units on the 352-acre Deffebach property, was based on arguments that it shouldn't be rezoned, pending negotiations for its acquisition as open space.

Under intense community pressure, supervisors later agreed to proceed with rezoning Ring Mountain, in effect reversing their earlier decision.

The zoning placed on the Deffebach's land yesterday permits one dwelling for every 10 acres for a total of 35 homes. Similar zoning was placed on the Dudec-Stevenson lands which are adjacent to the Deffebach acreage.

San Rafael attorneys Roderick P. Martinelli and Leland H. Jordan, representing the property owners, unsuccessfully attempted to get a policy statement attached to the action,

MANAGER'S PROPOSAL

$3 Million Budget In Mill Valley

By REBECCA LARSEN

A preliminary budget of $3,077,025 for Mill Valley, up $146,401 or 5 per cent above this year's budget has been proposed by City Mgr. Ronald L. Usher.

The city manager estimated that the spending program will require $1,549,700 in property taxes compared to $1,504,040 this year.

Usher said he could not yet estimate whether the 1974-75 tax rate would be higher than this year's rate of $2.883 per $100 assessed valuation because assessed valuation figures for next year have not yet been computed.

State law normally limits all tax rates to no more than those of the 1971-72 fiscal year. But the city was given authority by voters in an election last fall to raise the tax rate by as much as nine cents to cover a bond issue for police quarters in the new public safety building now under construction.

The budget will require dipping into reserves by about $60,000, according to Usher.

Other fund sources he is expecting include: other taxes, $381,000; revenue sharing, $82,400; gas taxes $62,000; parking meters and fines, $86,000; golf course fees and recreation department programs, $115,300; permits and licenses, $24,050; library fines and fees, $12,400.

Another intangible in the budget is that it does not include cost-of-living pay boosts for employees belonging to the Mill Valley Employees Association, representing aobut half the city employees. Their pay settlement will be negotiated this summer.

The budget does allow for cost-of-living salary increases agreed on last year in wage negotiations with fire and policemen.

The budget includes some salary increases for department heads, including a $3,028 annual raise for Usher which would bring his salary to $25,000 per year.

One major proposal in the budget is the funding of a new city engineering department including an engineer-director of public works and two technicians under him. According to Usher, the total cost of this department would be $75,480. However, he said, if this department's work is done by the outside engineering firm of Bala and Strandgaard as in the past, the cost to the city would be $95,480.

Usher recommends hiring two more policemen and one more fireman. He also proposes spending $6,000 on janitorial service to improve upkeep of city buildings and $10,000 to remodel the city council chamber.

He eliminates a post of administrative assistant to the city manager.

The city council set aside $13,452 last year for this post at the request of former City Mgr. William H. Cunningham. The position was never filled and Usher is now asking to abolish it.

Capital improvements totaling $46,700 for parks and recreation facilities are requested, including $31,200 for two new tennis courts at Boyle Park, $8,000 for bike path paving on Sycamore Avenue Bridge, $3,000 for a new golf clubhouse roof, $2,000 for a new bridge at the golf course and $2,500 for converting Edgewood Reservoir to a park.

Nixon Denies Watergate Link Because 'I'm Not That Stupid'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon told nine congressmen last night that he was not mixed up in the Watergate burglary or coverup because, "My God, I'm not that stupid," one of the representatives said today.

Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Oo., said the President looked "amazingly well" as he took several "good friends" in the House on a two-hour outing aboard his yacht.

"He certainly hasn't lost his ability to joke," Ichord said.

Ichord said the President discussed the Watergate problems extensively, and repeated several times his vow not to resign.

"He said he had nothing to do with Watergate," Ichord said. "I remember that one time he said, "My God, I'm not that stupid.'"

Rep. Elford A. Cederberg, R-Mich., said the President "emphatically stated that he wasn't guilty of anything that he didn't know anything about Watergate and that he absolutely wasn't going to resign."

Cederberg added, however, that Nixon stated "he was aware of the call for his resignation."

Rep. Leslie Arends of Illinois, the minority whip, said Nixon was in good spirits and conducted a "general conversation about many things." He added that there was "very little said" about politics.

Other lawmakers who went on the outing were Republican Reps. Samuel L. Devine, Ohio.; Glenn R. Davis, Wis., and Robert H. Michel, Ill., and Democratic Reps. F. Edward Hebert, La., Olin E. Teague, Tex., and Joe D. Waggonner, La.

As Nixon began his personal lobbying campaign against impeachment, his congressional aides also sought to line up support for him.

The flurry of activity moved into high gear yesterday as Nixon lieutenants began buttonholing lawmakers by the dozens to enlist their support against demands that he step down by either resignation or impeachment.

As part of the campaign, White House speechwriter and special consultant Patrick J. Buchanan warned fellow Republicans calling for Nixon's resignation that if the President is stampeded into quitting it would be "close to fatal" for the GOP and would "poison the well" of American politics for decades to come.

He insisted that even if a delegation of Republican lead-

'Research' Tax, A Super Energy Panel Nod Near

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Landmark energy legislation, imposing a $16 million "research" tax on electricity and forging a mighty state energy commission, today moved just a final step away from Gov. Ronald Reagan's desk.

The bill passed the Senate last night by a bare majority, 21-14, bipartisan vote. Recorded as absent or not voting was Sen. Peter H. Behr of San Rafael.

Supported by Reagan, the 20,000-word measure (AB1575) by Assemblyman Charles Warren, D-Los Angeles, was sent back to the Assembly for review of primarily technical amendments.

Emphasizing energy conservation, the bill would vest in the five-member commission sweeping authority to cut red tape in choosing nuclear and conventional power plant sites, establish energy efficiency standards for homes, buildings and home appliances, and require development of plans for energy emergencies.

Soviet Offer Of Summit Rejected

MOSCOW (UPI) — The government newspaper Izvestia disclosed today the Soviet Union offered last June to hold a summit meeting with Mao Tsetung in an attempt to bridge its widening rift with China.

It said Peking never replied, but that the offer was still in effect.

Western diplomats specializing in Sino-Soviet relations said the article in the government newspaper was the first indication such an offer had ever been made.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Gurney Fund Probe Completed

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — A grand jury has completed its investigation of a $300,000 political slush fund collected in behalf of Watergate committee member Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., and will return to its related probe of the Federal Housing Administration, federal courthouse sources said.

Gurney

Gurney testified for nearly two hours yesterday morning, completing some eight hours of sessions with the federal grand jury in two days. Gurney's appearance was voluntary.

Gurney remained somber and tight-lipped about his appearance when he emerged yesterday. He again refused to talk to newsmen and walked into a suite of law offices to await the arrival of his lawyer's limousine, in which he was driven away from the courthouse.

Federal prosecutors declined to discuss Gurney's testimony.

Scheel Elected

BONN (UPI) — The two-party ruling coalition, shaken by the spy scandal resignation of Chancellor Willy Brandt, united today to elect Foreign Minister Walter Scheel president of West Germany.

Scheel, the 56-year-old chairman of the liberal Free Democratic party, won election on the first ballot of the federal assembly by a 530 to 498 vote. His opponent was Christian Democrat Richard von Weizsaecker.

Scheel's election paved the way for parliament to appoint Finance Minister Helmut Schmidt to Brandt's old job.

Tornadoes Strike

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Tornadoes rolled through the South late last night and early today, causing property damage, disrupting power and telephone services but causing no injuries.

During the past 24 hours seven tornadoes touched down in Arkansas, according to the U.S. Weather Service. Four hit Oklahoma, while other tornadoes were reported in Texas, Mississippi, and Florida.

Two tornadoes destroyed barns and mobile homes in McCurtain County, Okla., and a small tornado destroyed a barn and mobile home in LeFlore County, Okla.

Near Little Rock, Ark., tornadoes destroyed several homes, uprooted trees, and disrupted power and telephone services.

Convoy Attack

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Rebel gunners set ablaze an oil tanker and an ammunition barge on the Mekong River today in the most serious attack on a ship convoy since the start of Cambodia's dry-season offensive.

The blazes were quickly extinguished and neither vessel was reported seriously damaged. Port police said there were no reports of injuries.

Vesco Ruling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge has ruled that the Internal Revenue Service was too vague in its charge that fugitive financier Robert L. Vesco is delinquent by more than $833,000 in back taxes and penalties.

In an unnoticed ruling last week in Newark, N.J., U.S. Tax Court Judge William M. Fay said the IRS did not properly specify charges that Vesco received "certain payments" totaling about $1 million from International Controls Corp. (ICC) and failing to report them on his 1971 income tax return. Vesco was chairman of ICC at the time.

The IRS complaint "left a little bit to be desired," Fay said.

Bomber Pullout

UTAPAO AIR BASE, Thailand (UPI) — The United States began withdrawing giant B52 bombers from Thailand today, closing the curtain on an eight-year era of deadly air strikes across the skies of Indochina.

Three of the strategic bombers — each painted in camouflage colors — lumbered down the runway today and lifted into the air at 20-minute intervals, headed for unidentified bases in the United States.

Six more of the approximately 50 bombers based at U Tapao were scheduled to leave later this month and another 20 or so were to go by year's end, U.S. military spokesmen said.

At the same time, a U.S. spokesman said a squadron of 18 A7 Corsair attack aircraft began to withdraw from Korato Air Base in central Thailand.

The withdrawal of the aircraft was part of a plan to reduce by a third the estimated 35,000 troops still in Thailand.

Noise Dangers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Factory workers and school children are exposed to daily noise levels that could cause hearing impairment the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) says.

EPA said long and continued exposure to average daily noise levels of more than 70 decibels can cause impairment of hearing.

EPA said in a report that city and surburban factory workers are typically exposed over 24 hour periods to average noise levels of 87 decibels. This means that during their work day, the level is over 90 decibels, which violates federal standards set by the Department of Labor and punishable by civil and criminal penalties.

The "typical noise exposure pattern of a school child," is 77 decibels over 24 hours. This average includes the 35 decibel level encountered during sleep and the 80 plus for outdoor play, going to and from school and listening to records, the report said.

Smoker Penalty

CINCINNATI (UPI) — A physician says that if a national health plan is enacted, cigarette smokers should foot the bill for all medical expenses stemming from smoking related diseases — to the tune of $11.5 billion.

The doctor figures that is almost 20 per cent of the money now spent on health care in the United States.

"It's wrong for nonsmokers to pay medical bills caused by smokers, said Dr. Stephen M. Ayres.

Irish Power Cut

BELFAST (UPI) — Power cuts were ordered in strife-torn Northern Ireland today but a Protestant called general strike built up slowly.

The Protestant Ulster Workers Council predicted 200,000 workers would walk out in the strike it called to protest "a sellout" of the Protestant cause. It said the strike would bring Northern Ireland to a standstill.

Electricity officials said they expected to provide only 60 per cent of normal power. The first power cuts hit this morning.

But buses and trains ran, Belfast airport was open and most factories operated as usual.

Emission Rules

DETROIT (UPI) — Congress was urged by U.S. auto industry executives today to complete action quickly on a law that would give them until 1978 to meet the original clean air standards set for 1975-model cars.

With that further delay the American motorist can expect catalytic mufflers — at a cost of about $150 — on the 1975 models this fall and nearly standard through 1977.

The Senate yesterday approved a measure that would extend the interim 1975 emission standards through 1976 and permit the Environmental Protection Agency to carry those standards through 1977.

Busing Charge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., today accused President Nixon and members of Congress who back antibusing legislation of pandering to the anxieties of some Americans, black and white.

"I am saddened because I know that while the President and members of Congress pander to the anxieties of some Americans, black and white, they play into the hands of those who seek separatism, thrive on strife, and flourish on divisive rhetoric," Brooke said in a speech prepared for Senate delivery.

Tax Bill Loses

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — Parliament rejected a government tax bill today in the first of three votes threatening to topple the minority Liberal government of Premier Poul Hartling.

Parliamentary sources said Hartling's three-year-old government would resign if the opposition parties spurn the bill in the two remaining parliamentary votes scheduled for later in the day.

The tax package cuts income levies an average of 17 per cent, but raises duties on luxury items and imported goods some 20 per cent.

Reason For 'Zebra' Hunt Information

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An attorney for an informer in the "Zebra" killings case said yesterday his client was looking for protection for himself and his family against a terrorrist group that already had killed his brother.

The lawyer said the informer was not interested in the $30,000 reward.

Irving J. Hurd Jr., an Oakland lawyer, told reporters he arranged a secret meeting April 27 with San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto for the informer, Anthony C. Harris, 28, a state prison parolee.

Seven blacks were arrested as a result of Harris' talks with Alioto but four were released because of insufficient evidence. The other three suspects pleaded innocent to the charges.

The "Zebra" killers are believed to have been responsible for the random street slaying of 12 whites in San Francisco since last November.

Hurd said he became involved in the case when Harris contacted Laurence Kaufman, his law partner.

Asked about the reward, Hurd said: "That wasn't what he wanted. He wanted protection for himself and his family. He claimed the terror organization had already killed his brother for infraction of strict rules by which the group lives."

The group referred to in the attorney's statement was identified as the "Death Angels."

Hurd said Harris had been recruited into the terrorist organization while in prison. Once paroled, he said, his client became involved in its activities "so deeply he couldn't get out."

Harris was troubled by nightmares about the "Death Angels" and decided to talk with police, Hurd said.

Harris, released from San Quentin Prison last October after serving a term for second-degree burglary, was in police protective custody.

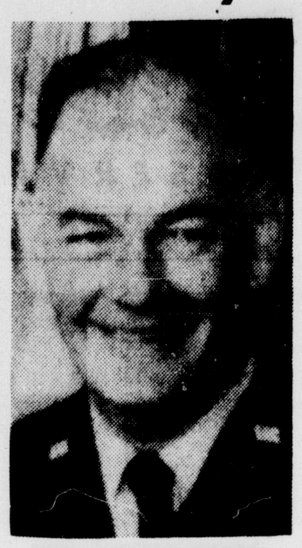
Air Force General Gets Highest Military Post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Air Force Gen. George S. Brown has been chosen as expected by President Nixon to the nation's highest ranking military post, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Brown, 55, a native of Montclair, N.J., has been Air Force chief of staff and his nomination had been anticipated although he is the junior of the four service chiefs.

Brown will take over the leadership of the board composed of chiefs of the military services on July 3, succeeding Adm. Thomas H. Moorer who will move quietly into retirement after being stained by allegations he ran a White House spying operation on Henry A. Kissinger.

Brown flew bombers in World War II and has spent years in the Pentagon bureaucracy, serving as executive oficer to Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Thomas D. White in the 1950s and as military assistant to Defense Secretaries Thomas S. Gates and Robert S. MacNamara.



GEN. GEORGE BROWN
To head joint chiefs

Earlier this year there was speculation Nixon would ask Congress to extend Moorer bezond the scheduled end of his term. Subsequently, it was revealed Moorer had received documents purloined on trips Kissinger made to Peking while national security adviser to the President.

While it was never established that Moorer had prompted the thefts, his image suffered from the incident and nothing came of the reported plan to keep him as chairman.

To succeed Brown as Air Force chief, Nixon nominated Gen. David C. Jones, 52, of Minot, N.D., a college dropout who becomes the first Air Force chief without either an academy degree or World War II combat experience. Jones is now commander of the U.S. Air Forces in Europe.

Records Say Milk Executives Took Part In Illegal Lobbying

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Executives of the Associated Milk Producers Inc. (AMPI) lobbied on behalf of Lyndon B. Johnson, Hubert H. Humphrey, Richard M. Nixon and Wilbur D. Mills —often "in secret" and in violation of law, court records quote AMPI Staff members as saying.

The AMPI executives allegedly arranged to give $100,000 for President Nixon in 1969 in the belief Nixon had left-over campaign debts, the documents show. Herbert W. Kalmbach, Nixon's personal lawyer, testified last summer, however, that there was $2.4 million in surplus campaign funds in 1969.

The allegations were contained in documents turned over by Edward L. Wright, of Little Rock, Ark., to U.S. District Court in Kansas City, Mo., in the Justice Department's antitrust suit against AMPI. Wright's law firm was hired by AMPI to make an independent investigation of the big co-op's political contributions.

Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski, the Senate Watergate Committee, the House Judiciary Committee and consumer advocate Ralph Nader are investigating whether the Nixon administration increased the federal price support for raw milk in 1971 after the milk co-operatives promised $2 million to Nixon's re-election campaign.

Political contributions by corporations are illegal.

Wright quoted Robert O. Isham, former AMPI comptroller, who has been granted immunity by the Senate committee for his testimony, as telling him in an interview last Oct. 9:

"The first questionable transaction of which I was aware occurred in 1969. During 1967 and 1968 Harold Nelson and Dave Parr (then AMPI general manager and his counsel, respectively) had spent all of their time for the election of Democrats, first LBJ and then Hubert Humphrey.

"After the election of Nixon, Nelson stated that it was time for us to begin to make some inroads with the Republicans and to that end we should give $100,000 to help retire Nixon's unpaid 1968 campaign debts."

Spending Report Charge Against Prop. 9 Foes

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A public relations firm retained to conduct a campaign to defeat Proposition 9, the political reform initiative on the June ballot, has been accused by the measure's supporters of failing to file a campaign spending report.

Ed Koupal, a director of the pro-Proposition 9 People's Lobby, yesterday said failure to file the report put Clem Whitaker, a partner in the firm of Whitaker and Baxter, "outside the law at this time."

But Whitaker, contacted at his San Francisco office, said no campaign report was filed by the May 3 deadline because "we had received no money and we spent no money."

However, Whitaker disclosed that his firm has since been retained to mount a $200,000 drive to defeat Prop. 9. He said backers of the effort would be revealed "within seven days."

Koupal told a news conference the company was engaged in anti-Proposition 9 activities last month and was therefore required by law to file a May 3 campaign spending report with Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr.

Koupal produced what he said was an April 19 Whitaker and Baxter memo disclosing that Alfred Cinelli, vice president of Security Pacific National Bank, "had agreed to serve as treasurer" of the campaign against Proposition 9.

Attached to the memo was a 19-page report from Whitaker and Baxter which was highly critical of the ballot measure, declaring it would infringe on such basic rights as freedom of speech.

A New Heart Attack Drug Being Pushed

CHICAGO (UPI) — Heart attack patients have responded so successfully to an experimental drug extracted from human urine that a surgeon-researcher said yesterday he will ask the federal government to approve its use.

Dr. Maurice S. Mazel, medical director and chief surgeon at Edgewater Hospital, said the drug, Urokinase, dissolves blood clots that trigger heart attacks and damage heart muscles when administered promptly to patients.

"This should mark an entirely new era of saving lives," Mazel said. At a news conference announcing results of research on the Italian-manufactured drug.

The drug is "so safe, so pure" that none of the 34 patients treated with Urokinase at the Chicago hospital suffered any side effects, Mazel said.

"We do not claim to treat the (coronary) disease," he said, "but open up the blood vessel."

Antonio Montoya, a 40-year-old Chicagoan successfully treated with Urokinase for an acute heart attack, said the next morning, "I felt like nothing had happened. No pain. After two or three days was ready to go home."

Mazel said in a study of 81 heart attack patients, 27 were given Urokinase and of those 27, one died. Twenty-seven other heart patients were treated with an anti-coagulant drug and 10 died. Of the 27 remaining cases—given standard therapy—six died.

When he was asked about research on the drug in Europe that indicated less glowing reports, he said, "I don't know what they're getting there. As far as I know, there are no cases showing what we have done here."

The National Heart and Lung Institute has conducted previous research on the drug with what Mazel described as "satisfactory results." He said Edgewater was the only U.S. medical facility given permission to investigate the drug at this time by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Urokinase, a clot-dissolving enzyme extracted from fresh human urine, must be administered within several hours to be effective, he said, but researchers have successfully treated patients six to eight hours after an attack. The drug, which requires 300 gallons of human urine to produce one treatment, can be used for heart attacks or other diseases stemming from blood clots.

Little League Sex Barrier Dented

By GEORGE NEVIN

Girls who want to break the Little League baseball barrier got a boost yesterday from a Marin Superior Court judge and a San Rafael psychiatrist.

The judge, Henry J. Broderick, ruled in favor of an 11-year-old girl who wants to play in Mill Valley.

And the psychiatrist, Jean Pouteau, said preadolescent girls make just as good players as boys, and keeping them from the field is akin to "saying blacks should sit at the back of the bus."

The actions came in two separate cases in which girls asked for court orders to permit them to play junior baseball in Marin.

Broderick yesterday ruled that Jenny Fulle, 11, of Tamalpais Valley, cannot be kept from the Mill Valley Little League just because of her sex.

In granting a preliminary injunction, he also barried Little League Baseball, Inc., of Pennsylvania, from lifting the Mill Valley League's charter for letting Jenny play.

The national organization has a boys-only rule.

Broderick's three-page order stressed that his decision was based less on the issues of the case, brought by the American Civil Liberties Union, than on a consideration of which party would be hurt the most by his ruling.

Noting that this is Jenny's last year of eligibility before she is too old for Little League, Broderick wrote:

"If the plaintiff (Jenny) is denied a preliminary injunction and later proves herself to have been entitled to permanent injunctive relief, her loss or damage is singular and irreparable.

"On the other hand, should it ultimately appear that the plaintiff is not entitled to injunctive relief, the damage to the defendants. . . is not immeasurable."

The next and final step in Jenny's suit is a hearing on making Broderick's preliminary injunction permanent. No date has been set for that.

In the other case, Judge Charles Read Best heard testimony from Dr. Pouteau in a suit on behalf of two West Marin girls who have been playing on the Inverness merchants' team.

Best took the matter under submission, but in the meantime a temporary order under which the girls have been playing since April 25 remains in effect.

Pouteau testified that 9-year-old girls are just as physically capable as boys.

"In the 9 to 12 age group, girls and boys are pretty equal pound for pound," said the psychiatrist. "After puberty, boys begin to forge ahead."

Under questioning by Point Reyes Station attorney John D. Burroughs, Pouteau likened the barring of a girl from Little League on the basis of her sex to "saying blacks should sit at the back of the bus."

A prohibition based on sex would tell the girls that "the community is saying they're inferior," he said.

Burroughs filed suit on behalf of Marie Norman, 9, and Lisa Divito, 10. A third girl, Mariah Beebe, 12, was named a plaintiff in the suit but has been dropped because she now is too old for Little League, said Burroughs.

Novato Lions Elevated To District Jobs

Robert J. Eddy of Novato has been appointed a deputy district governor in the Lions Club's District 4-C2, covering the coastal area from Sausalito to the Oregon border.

Other officers appointed by Dist. Gov. Edwin H. Sterrett Jr. of Napa are John Craig of Novato, a zone chairman, and Donald M. Shank, also of Novato, chairman of the district's student speaker contest.

Regional officers will be installed at 7 p.m. June 5 at the Alvarado Inn, Ignacio, with the Novato Lions Club as host. Past Dist. Gov. Jack M. Barnes of Woodacre will be the installing officer.

KISSING CONTEST — Darlene Besset of Hawthorne, N.J., seemed more interested in a paperback volume of horror tales than in the osculatory efforts of her partner, Lloyd Gensel, also of Hawthorne, during a kissing contest at a Manhattan Hotel yesterday. Of the 30 couples who started in the competition Saturday, only three remain.

(UPI Telephoto)

Kissing In Competition Found To Be Not All That Much Fun

NEW YORK (UPI) — If you have been kissing your girl friend all day long, what do you do at night?

Play monopoly. Deal a game of rummy. Read "The Exorcist." And fight a lot.

"The hardest part is during the night," said Lloyd Gensel, 18, of Hawthorne, N.J., one of six remaining contestants in a kissing marathon.

To help stay awake he read "Death Not Be Proud." His partner, Darlene Besset, 15, also of Hawthorne, fidgeted through "The Exorcist."

Other couples turned to card playing and games. And almost all managed to mumble a lot since entering the contest Saturday.

"We've had plenty of arguments," said 23-year-old Ed Leppert of Sommerset, N.J. "Too many arguments. It's a pain in the neck."

Leppert spoke as he and his girl' Linda Joy Louth, 21, of Highland Park, N.J., took a five-minute break. Couples are allowed one such break each hour.

Some 30 couples initially entered the competition, but sore lips, charley horses, raw tempers and a variety of other ills whittled the field rapidly. The goal was the alleged world kissing mark of 96 hours, 32 minutes and 4 seconds set by a couple during a similar contest in Florida about a month ago.

Sonoma Board May Back Petaluma Court Appeal

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Sonoma supervisors may decide next week whether to support Petaluma's appeal of the federal court decision which eliminated the city's growth limiting policy.

During discussion this week, the supervisors were told by county counsel James Botz that he will need at least one more week to finish studying the possible effect of the Petaluma decision on the county's own planning efforts.

The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors also:

BRIDGE — Notified Marin supervisors that Sonoma has no objection to Marin's abandonment of a bridge on Slaughterhouse Road, over San Antonio Creek. The bridge will be kept open for pedestrians and cyclists but barred to motor vehicles.

CONTRACT — Contracted with the Reichold and Jurkovich Construction Co. to widen and straighten Petaluma Boulevard north at Gossage Avenue at a cost of $109,550.

PARK — Agreed to apply for about $101,000 in federal land and water conservation funds for the proposed regional park east of Rohnert Park on the old Rapozo ranch. The amount is half of the current price of the 147-acre site and the balance is to be paid by the county and Rohnert Park.

VOLKSWAGEN INTRODUCES THE PERFECT CAR FOR ITS TIME.

The new Volkswagen Dasher does everything you want a car to do, and does it on about 25 miles per gallon. That's why it's the ideal car for today.

Dasher does a powerful 0-50 in only 8.5 seconds. It holds five comfortably. It has front-wheel drive and gives you control you've never felt in any conventional car.

It has the amazing Skidbreaker. When one side of the car is riding on a slippery surface, Skidbreaker forces Dasher to move in a straight line as you brake. It needs maintenance at only 10,000 mile intervals. And it's covered by the Volkswagen Owner's Security Blanket.

Kissinger Outraged By Attack

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger expressed outrage today at a "mindless and irrational" terrorist attack on an Israeli town and said the raid threatened to disrupt his Middle East peace mission.

In a strong statement, Kissinger said such violence undermined prospects for peace in the region and appealed to the Arab governments to deal severely with the Arab guerrillas.

"The United States government strongly condemns this mindless and irrational action and appeals to those holding innocent hostages to release them," Kissinger said.

The guerrilla action diverted the Israeli cabinet from consideration of new concessions to Syria for a troop disengagement on the Golan Heights.

It also postponed a meeting with Prime Minister Golda Meir and Kissinger's subsequent departure for Damascus. He canceled plans to spend the night in the Syrian capital.

The raid on the Galilee town of Ma'alot also further threatened a mission already deadlocked and increased the possibility that Kissinger will have to leave the area without agreement on even a cease-fire on the Golan Heights. If so, he would have to return later.

Kissinger's mission may be further complicated because the Arab guerrilla group claiming responsibility for the attack—The Popular Democratic Front—made the announcement from Damascus and demanded that guerrillas held by Israel be taken there.

Kissinger has been negotiating with Syrian President Hafez Assad in Damascus and it could cloud Kissinger's mission.

Kissinger rescheduled his departure to Damascus for Thursday and told newsmen as he walked out of the King David Hotel to sit on the grass beside the swimming pool that "both sides are moving toward each other and not from each other."

He said the original prediction that he would know by Thursday whether he could succeed in his mission also would have to be put back because of the delay, but that he still had to be back in Washington by Sunday night.

Am American spokesman said Kissinger was still waiting to know when he could see Mrs. Meir.

High Costs Told Of Illegitimacy

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — It cost California taxpayers $500 million for the care of an estimated 40,000 illegitimate children born in the state last year, according to the state Health and Welfare Agency.

"It is clear that the social and fiscal magnitude of the illegitimacy problem in this state has reached enormous proportion," the agency's Social Welfare Board said yesterday in a report.

The report, titled "Unplanned Parenthood," was started two years ago to seek solutions to California's illegitimacy problems.

Plane Controls System Rapped

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The radar heart of the Air Force's expensive new AWACS command plane can be jammed from 200 miles away by cheap and simple enemy electronics, making it useless for its primary mission, Sen. Thomas Eagleton charged today.

Eagleton said he based his statement on an analysis by a General Accounting Office (GAO) technical consultant of the Air Force's own figures on the radar's performance.

The Air Force in a rebuttal statement conceded the radar in question could be jammed, but said it would take "many jammers of this type" (described Eagleton) to do so.

The Air Force also said the figures to which Eagleton referred had come from a study "designed to test operations in a situation highly unfavorable" to the AWACS or Airborne Warning and Control System plane.

Fund Set Up To Buy Equipment

A fund to be used for life saving equipment has been established in the memory of Elmer Fraass by the Belvedere Volunteer Firemen's Association, according to group president Roy Ashley.

Fraass became ill and died while on a business trip to North Carolina earlier this month. He had been a resident of Belvedere since 1947 and was a member and past president of the Belvedere Volunteer Firemen's Association.

Weed Struggle Is Lost Again

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (UPI) — Joseph Sobocinski has lost another battle to let weeds grow in his yard.

Lycoming County Court found Sobocinski guilty of violating a local weed ordinance in 1973 and fined him $475. He appealed to Commonwealth Court which upheld the lower court decision yesterday.

Sobocinski argued the plants, between 13 and 16 inches tall, were not actually weeds, because they did not fit the definition: "Any plant which grows where not wanted."

Lee Citizenship Backer Hopeful

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr., D-Va., is trying to get congressional approval of legislation to restore the citizenship of Gen. Robert E. Lee and says he is optimistic of Senate approval.

Byrd's resolution is awaiting action by the Senate Judiciary Committee, and he said, "I think we can get it passed if we can get it out of committee." It could create a side controversy however because Sen. Phillip Hart, D-Mich., plans to offer an amendment to grant amnesty to draft evaders.

HOMES

Their proposed statement read, in part, that the board "will welcome proposals from the landowners for development of their lands, including development to densities greater than those allowed (under the new zoning)."

On advice from County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, supervisors rejected the "policy statement."

He said it would be improper "to adopt a zoning ordinance which says one thing and a policy statement which says another."

Another major holding included in yesterday's action was the 93-acre Martha Co. land on the eastern tip of the Tiburon Peninsula, overlooking Keil Cove.

Prior zoning allowed 370 homes on the land but the rezoning drops that number to 19. A spokesman from the firm, citing a recent federal court decision declaring Petaluma's growth control ordinance unconstitutional, said the rezoning also may be illegal since it restricts population.

In all, some 960 acres were rezoned yesterday reducing the number of possible homesites from about 3,000 to about 650. Several small parcels were allowed one-acre zoning.

The 48-acre Strawberry Spit was zoned to allow one home for every five acres and the 20-acre Strawberry Point area was zoned to allow four homes per acre.

Inflation Drop?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John Dunlop, director of the Cost of Living Council, forecast yesterday that inflation would decline in the middle of this year but rise again in the final quarter. He told a congressional group that reductions in food and fuel prices will trigger rates of inflation below the present 10.2 per cent annual rate for much of the rest of the year.

ENERGY

speak on its behalf, declared it would "balance" the needs of producers and users during the energy dilemma and curb "the wanton, wasteful use of energy that brought us here."

Energy savings by 1980 could amount to the equivalent of 16 million barrels of oil each day, Alquist said.

But a string of opposing views questioned whether such drastic steps really were needed, whether the proposed energy commission would be too awesomely powerful and whether local governments would lose control over local development.

"The homeowner will get it in the neck again. The homeowner gets it in the neck every time, not business, not industry, not the legislature, not the Public Utilities Commission," argued Sen. James Q. Wedworth, D-Hawthorne.

He said the proposal meant a "guaranteed increase" in electrical rates.

Three attempts by Republicans to water down the bill were rejected during a two-hour floor struggle.

Warren, who said the legislation might become a model for other states, has predicted enough support for final passage in the Assembly, where it earlier was approved by a minimum 41-32 margin.

A final vote could come as early as tomorrow.

A similarly-sweeping measure passed the Legislature last year but was vetoed as "incomplete" by Reagan. The governor's position changed to support this year after long negotiations with supporters.

NIXON

ers were to visit Nixon and ask him to resign, he would "respectfully decline."

According to Buchanan, Nixon will not resign even if the House impeaches him, as predicted by Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, leader of the conservative wing of the party.

"If the President is forced to resign and in six months it turned out that he did nothing wrong, it would be close to fatal for the Republican party," Buchanan said.

Buchanan took issue with Transportation Secretary Claude Brinegar who said he was "shocked, offended and discouraged" by the Watergate scandals, but did not want Nixon to resign. Buchanan said he did not agree with the assessment, nor was he "shocked," he said.

Buchanan said nothing in the 1,300 pages of presidential transcripts indicates Nixon committed an impeachable offense. He said Nixon released those transcripts so his "adversaries" in the House Judiciary Committee wouldn't release such material first.

While concurring in Nixon's decision to disclose his Watergate discussions, some friends of the President believe the strategy has boomeranged.

Rights Agency Backs Busing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U. S. Civil Rights Commission has reasserted its support of busing as a desegregation tool.

Chairman Arthur S. Flemming has made public a letter by the commission to Sen. Harrison Williams Jr., D-N.J., recommending defeat of proposals to ban use of federal funds for busing to achieve racial balance.

The commission said the proposals would recreate statesacntioned segregation.

Assembly Line Workers Return

DETROIT (UPI) — About 3,100 assembly line workers at a General Motors Corp. plant in Leeds, Mo., returned to work late yesterday but strikes at two other GM facilities forced a halt in the production of some cars.

Strikes curtailed production at the Cadillac assembly plant in Detroit and at the Oldsmobile plant in Lansing, Mich.

The disruptions were caused by walkouts over local contract issues and a dispute over GM production plans.

IMPEACH

to take to enforce the subpoenas," Railsback said.

There was no further discussion on that point. Committee members had ackowledged previously they had no power to enforce a subpoena but some members have suggested that defiance by Nixon could be an impeachable offense.

St. Clair argued in a five-page memo Tuesday that the panel has "conclusive" evidence that Nixon had no advance knowledge of the Watergate burglary and expressed "shock upon first learning about the break-in."

Other developments:

—The Senate Watergate committee voted to seek approval from the Senate to put off its final report until June 30. It had been due May 28. Chairman Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., said more time was needed to "put the report in shape" and to wrap up "a few loose ends" such as questions about a $100,000 gift to the President from Howard Hughes.

Nixon's chief of staff, Alexander M. Haig, was summoned to a second appearance before the Watergate committee this afternoon and some members indicated he might be cited for contempt if he refused, as he did previously, to answer queetions about the Hughes matter on grounds of executive privilege.

OBITUARIES

PIETER KIEVENAAR

No funeral is planned for Pieter F.M. Kievenaar of San Rafael, who died Friday in a San Francisco hospital. He was 83.

A native of Holland, Kievenaar came to the United States to attend college, and graduated from the University of Pennsylvania.

After serving in the Dutch Army during World War I, he took his auto agency business that he had been running in the East Indies to Japan.

In 1923 he and his family were nearly killed by the great Japanese earthquake, and were rescued by the crew of an American destroyer sent to find survivors.

He returned to Holland after the quake, and remained there until the early 1930s when he moved to the United States to stay. He continued his career as an auto salesman here, his occupation nearly all his life.

In 1941 he became an American citizen, and was sent overseas to Chunking as a member of the Office of War Information.

He was a great sportsman all his life, having been a pilot and a balloonist in the early days of these activities. He raced bicycles and cars in the days before World War I. He was a member of the Sports Car Club of America and the United States Auto Racing Marshals for many years.

He is survived by his son, Gerard Pieter Kievenaar, and daughter, Jacqueline Tapscott, both of San Rafael, three grandchildren, and one great-grandchild.

He lived with his son at 45 Mount Lassen Drive.

DANIEL McDERMOTT

Daniel Sullivan McDermott, 50, of 215 Bayview Street, San Rafael, died yesterday apparently of a heart attack, according to the Marin County Coroner's office.

McDermott, a cab driver for Yellow Cab, was found slumped over his kitchen table by a friend John Doyle of San Rafael. He had a history of heart disease, the coroner reported.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. John Murphy of Alston, Mass., and a brother, George McDermott of Quincy, Mass.

Body will be taken to Massachusetts for burial. Keaton's Mortuary is in charge of the local arrangements.

CLARENCE ELLIS

Funeral for Clarence Raymond Ellis of Healdsburg, former Marin resident, will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Russell and Gooch Funeral chapel.

Ellis, 84, died Monday in a Healdsburg hospital after a short illness.

He was a retired jeweler and owned his own shop, Ellis's Jewelry Store in Sausalito for 40 years until 1958. He lived in Sausalito until moving to Healdsburg eight years ago.

His wife, Anna, died in 1956.

Ellis was a native of North Carolina and moved to California and Marin in 1907.

He was a life member of the Knights of Pythias, Muir Lodge No. 136 and the Knights of Khorassan, Zerin Kapi Temple No. 52.

Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

HERMAN VOSS

Funeral has been held for Hugo Herman Voss, delicatessen owner and father of Margaret E. Bjork of Almonte.

Voss, 85, died May 8 in Burlingame at a convalescent hospital following a long illness.

He was the founder and owner of Herman's delicatessen in San Francisco which is still operated by the Voss family.

He came to the United States from Germany in 1913 and arrived in California in 1919. He had resided in Burlingame for about 30 years.

He was past president of the retail Grocers Association of San Francisco and was a member of the San Mateo Elks Lodge No. 1112.

Survivors include his wife, Else Voss of Burlingame; his daughter, of Almonte; a son, Herman E. Voss of Milbrae; two sisters in Germany, and four grandchildren.

A HOSPITAL VIGIL ENDS

Sixteen-year-old Leonard Macchiarella died without knowing his last conscious wish was fulfilled — a visit from his convict father. The youth died yesterday of a rare kidney disease at the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco following a visit from his father, Phillip Maccharella, 35, an inmate at the California Training Facility in Soledad. Members of the family maintained a vigil outside the hospital during the youth's final hours. San Anselmo Council Will Wait Until August On Sewage Solution

After grumbling again about raw sewage leaking into the city's streams, San Anselmo city councilmen last night decided to do nothing until Aug. 13 — in hope the Ross Valley Sanitary District will solve the problem before the winter rains begin.

Councilmen criticized a letter from Fred H. Dierker, executive officer of the Bay Regional Water Quality Board, who turned down the city's request last month for a ban on all new sewer connections in the sanitary district until the leakage is halted.

"... We are legally authorized to prevent increased violations... but we cannot prohibit additional discharges (hookups) as a punitive measure..." Dierker wrote. He refused to put the San Anselmo request on the control board agenda.

Councilman John H. Colteaux branded Dierker's letter "gibberish" and said its interpretation of water pollution law was obsolete. Mayor Martin G. Blinder charged that the water board was a "typical environmental agency" and was accommodating violations.

City Atty. Hadden W. Roth suggested that the city has three possible courses: sue the sanitary district to block new sewer hookups in San Anselmo or upstream areas where sewage overflows can affect San Anselmo; impose its own ban on new sewer hookups within the city, or try again to persuade the water quality board to act.

George Davis, a sanitary district spokesman, said the district's contractor is working to replace sewers and clean up leaks and overflow points as fast as possible, but councilman Pieter Toal warned of a possible construction labor stoppage in June.

The regional water watchdogs in 1971 told the sanitary district it could add no new sewer hookups until it took steps to reduce the periodic bypasses and leaks of raw sewage into Corte Madera Creek.

GARBAGE — Postponed second reading and adoption of garbage ordinance revisions providing special rates for recycling, to Tuesday because garbage firm spokesmen were unable to attend last night.

SPRING CLEANUP — Added $300 to the $1,300 budget for the annual citywide clean-up drive later this month, because the San Anselmo Garbage Disposal Co. asked $269 more than originally budgeted.

TOWN — Referred Colteaux's motion to change the title from "City of San Anselmo" to "Town of San Anselmo" to Roth for a report Tuesday on legal complications. Roth said he believes there are no restrictions.

MEETINGS — Postponed to Tuesday, a decision on the request from Frank Turner, publisher of the Ross Valley Reporter, that the council change its meetings to Monday nights so the weekly can publish reports of council actions without having to wait eight days. The Wednesday edition's copy deadline is 5 p.m. Tuesday.

DRAINAGE — Ordered Roth to clarify wording of an ordinance recommended by the planning commission to ban fences or other construction within 35 feet of the center of any stream in the city.

NOMINEES — Nominated George Stump, Harry Belgrade, Jan Fairchild and Turner to fill two vacancies on the San Anselmo Library board, and Edward Henley, Everett Farey and Verna Fairchild for the one vacancy on the city parks and recreation commission. Councilmen will ballot on the vacancies May 21.

ADMINISTRATOR — Heard from City Administrator Albert C. Kaeppel that 75 applications have been received to succeed him when he retires. The council decided to inspect the applications individually. Unless at least two councilmen want further consideration of a specific candidate, he or she will be notified the application is no longer being considered.

HAZARDS — Approved a notice requiring property owners to remove weeds, tall grass and other fire hazards by June 15, or have it done by city crews at the owner's expense.

BUILDING — Put off to budget considerations next month a decision on whether to spend $10,000 to replace the roof on the aging corporation yard building, or build a new structure elsewhere at an estimated cost of $80,000. Carriers no longer will insure the building's contents against rain, vandalism and other damage, Kaeppel said.

PROPOSITIONS — Unanimously endorsed three measures on the June 4 ballot — Proposition 5 on mass transit financing, Proposition 9 on political reform and Proposition 2, the so-called clean water act. Also endorsed a City of Chino resolution seeking state tax relief to assist conservation and open space efforts.

STATION — Approved a use permit for Standard of California to raze a closed Gulf station at 700 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and build a new Standard station on the site.

POSTPONED — Postponed decision on a proposal from the Council of Mayors and Councilmen to double the fines for most traffic violations. Kaeppel reported Police Chief Raymond Buchignani refused to comment on the proposal, saying his men simply would issue the tickets regardless of the fines.

ADJOURNED — To 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Dinner Tabs Deadlock Hub Council

San Anselmo city councilman John H. Colteaux unsuccessfully argued last night that his fellow councilmen and other city officials should pay their own dinner tabs at the monthly meetings of the Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen.

His motion failed on a 2-to-2 deadlock with Mayor Martin G. Blinder his sole backer. Councilman Pieter Toal abstained.

"I enjoy it more, paying for myself," Colteaux said. "It's a function at which some city business is done — but in a social atmosphere." He added that he objected to cable television cameramen filming recent meetings of the group.

He said he's paid his own dinner tab at the two meetings he's attended since he was elected in March. It makes him feel he can converse with other cities' officials at his table more as if at "a private dinner," he explained. The gatherings are valuable for getting to know other Marin leaders, he said.

Toal said he's not yet sure of the value of the meetings and that he didn't want to pay his own way until he makes up his mind. If he decides the sessions are less worthwhile than "being with my family," he will shun the dinners, the freshman councilman added.

Councilman Woodrow V. Capurro argued that the city budgets funds for the dinners because "it's an official function and a chance to meet other councilmen." Blinder said he saw the meetings as official functions, but that he also will begin paying his own way.

Councilman kenneth Anderson said the dinner meetings' value varies considerably from month.

Sarah Nome, unsuccessful council candidate in March, complained that the countywide gatherings aren't really public "because they're held in a restaurant — I think they're limiting it and holding it closed."

Colteaux complained that if television coverage continues, the meetings are in danger of becoming "a formal super council meeting" rather than mainly a social get-together.

Morton Likely As Ambassador

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Walter Annenberg, who has served for more than five years as U.S. Ambassador to Britain, is anxious to return home and may be replaced by Thruston Morton, former member of Congress and former Republican national chairman, according to congressional sources.

The sources said yesterday that a final decision has not yet been made, but that Morton's name has apparently been sent to London for unofficial approval, according to protocol. The nomination, if made, would have to be approved by the Senate.

Sausalito Will Continue To Find Hotel Solution

The Sausalito City Council last night decided to continue looking for ways to save the aging Casa Madrona Hotel from slipping off its site even after learning that the cost of saving the building would be at least $230,000.

Public Works Director Norman Wohlschlaeger reported that the price quoted by engineering firms was based on the need for a huge retaining wall at the site and for construction of concrete piers under the hotel.

Attorney Frederick Lorig representing the owners of the property and Crocker Bank said that the cost was too high for his clients and asked that the city order the building vacated. "The hotel is unsafe for occupancy because of the slide and deteriorated conditions. People may be killed or hurt there."

He did not say what the owners planned to do with the building once empty.

Attorney Peter Laird representing the Deschamps family which has operated the hotel for 15 years insisted that there is a buyer for the hotel who would make the needed repairs. The owners, he said, are unwilling to sell. "They have in mind replacing the hotel with a dense residential or commercial property," he said.

His own estimates of repair costs ranged from as low as $7,000 to $100,000.

Councilman Robin Sweeny said she also had heard of a buyer for the hotel.

She and Mayor Evert H. Heynneman said they would be interested in the city possibly condemning the hotel and then reselling it to someone willing to repair it.

They asked the city attorney to explore that possibility. They also suggested that he prepare an historical landmarks ordinance to use in preserving the building erected in the late 1800s.

A Change In Attitude On Ferry Is Possible

A favorable environmental impact report on a permanent downtown Sausalito ferry terminal might persuade Sausalito to drop its opposition to the project, some councilmen said last night.

State law, in any case, prevents the city from blocking district plans for the terminal.

That possibility was opened up by councilman Violeta Autumn who suggested that the council amend its original stand against the Golden Gate Bridge District terminal. "If the environmental impact report says differently from what we think, we'd change our minds," she said. "Provided that it's an objective document."

However, councilmen agreed that before changing their stand, they want the matter discussed in a citizen-council committee which has been debating the terminal issue with bridge district representatives.

The council voted against the terminal last month because it will handle 750-passenger boats which councilmen claim will draw a heavier than ever influx of tourists to the city. Existing vessels carry 675 passengers.

Councilmen claim the scale of operation would clash with the city general plan adopted in 1970.

During discussion, the council heard from a long line of opponents of the new terminal, many of whom urged the council not to modify its stand.

"Don't put an amendment on it," said Anthony Campodonico. "An environmental impact report would have no effect on the Golden Gate Bridge District."

The first draft of the impact report is expected in about two weeks.

Also last night the council agreed to leave Wolfback Ridge in a zone of one dwelling unit per half-acre, but said that the total density on the roughly 220 acres involved should be no more than 220 units. The decision was designed to reconcile differences between the city general plan and zoning ordinances. The matter was referred to the planning commission for endorsement.

Councilmen also agreed that other discrepancies between zoning laws and the general plan will be considered at a special meeting May 30.

They then adjourned until 5 p.m. today at city hall to take up the rest of the agenda not covered last night.

GROWING, GROWING, GONE.

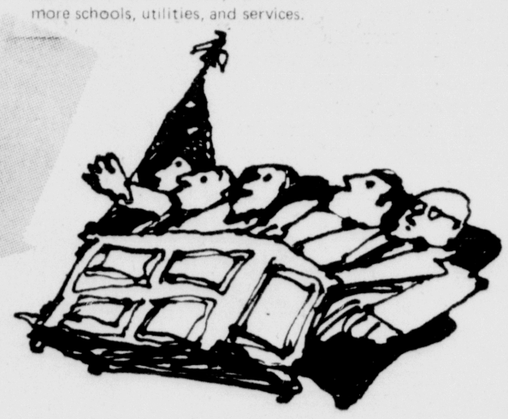
San Francisco is building over one million square feet of high priced office space. This helps the San Francisco tax base as offices produce greater property tax than they consume services, especially if those who work there live outside of the city.

For many who work in such expensive space are high income executives who WANT TO LIVE and CAN AFFORD THE PRICE in the suburbs.

The pressure on housing in Southern Marin with an ever increasing demand and a static supply of residences caused by water and sewage moratoriums forces the prices of homes to escalate beyond reason.

Increased taxes follow increased property values, forcing those with fixed incomes or low incomes, the elderly and the young, out of their homes. As a result these groups are forced out or cannot enter and must move north to Novato or Sonoma County. Southern Marin then will become an exclusive enclave where the parents and children of the residents can no longer afford to live.

The unanimous vote of the council was appealed by the developer and Federal Judge Burke ruled the ordinance unconstitutional stating that no community has the right to limit population in any way and thus leaves it exposed to outside determination of its future.



In Novato the cycle is repeated forcing the young and the old further north. In Petaluma the growth pressure reaches a climax. In desperation the council tried to limit the disruptive growth to 500 units a year to preserve the small town character and to remove pressure for more schools, utilities, and services.

WHEN SHOULD GROWTH CONTROL BECOME PLANNING?

Right now! We've all been affected by the result of no planning – or by special interest groups in conflict because of a lack of planning policies. The result is always alienation and confusion – that costs!

WHOM SHOULD PLANNING CONSIDER?

It's always easier to choose sides than work for a common solution. Yet, that is the very heart of planning – the ability to construct workable solutions from the whole spectrum of opinions and needs. What works in San Anselmo may be useless in Cotati! That is why local determination is so important. After local government speaks, it's that state's turn to come up with the right answers.

YOUR ASSEMBLYMAN IS THE LINK BETWEEN LOCAL GOVERNMENT AND THE STATE. HE'S GOT TO DO MORE THAN SHAKE YOUR HAND!

He competes with 80 representatives from other districts for the State's attention to your problems. How much you get from the State Legislature will depend on his ability to work with government on a local and state level, and his general knowledge of how you get things done in a practical and efficient manner.

MICHAEL WORNUM:

"I feel that an Assemblyman's greatest duties are:"

1. to hear every community's determination for itself and to provide the proper state support for that determination.
2. to take a planning over-view of the entire district and adjoining districts so that no one city or district's growth pattern will be accidentally damaging to another.
3. to reach across political and social boundaries to create legislation for all people. Representation at the state level is too big a job to be exclusive or narrow minded about.

ON JUNE 4TH – DON'T CHOOSE SIDES – CHOOSE AN ASSEMBLYMAN THAT CAN HELP YOUR COMMUNITY WIN AT PLANNING!

New Garbage Recycling Plan Viewed

A recycling program for Novato, which would require residents to separate garbage into three categories, has been proposed by Neill Smith of Marin Environmental Cooperative of San Rafael.

The program, a combination of mandatory and voluntary actions, could result in "75 to 90 per cent recycling within a year," Smith said.

In a draft of the program presented to Novato Sanitary District directors Monday, Smith proposed that residents be required to maintain three garbage cans.

One would be for paper, another for organic garbage, such as food waste and clippings, and a third for trash, the remainder of the household garbage.

To be encouraged would be voluntary recycling of easily separable and valuable items such as newspapers, cardboard, bottles, rags and metals, he said.

Under the volunteer program, local organizations interested in recycling could collect recycable items "which can provide an excellent additional source of income," possibly by setting up depots in neighborhoods for collected items.

As an example of the income potential, he estimated that newspaper prices range from $17 to $28 a ton and corrugated paper $32 a ton.

If there were 50 per cent recovery of recyclable items in Novato the value would be $22,232 a month, Smith estimated.

Smith also recommended establishing a compost plant and a countywide pyrolysis plant, for chemical decomposition of trash by heat. He estimated the pryolysis plant could cost from $3 million to $8 million depending upon how much waste is to be recovered.

In 1971-72 when voluntary recycling was at its peak about 20 per cent of the population was involved, and in 1973 several refuse companies began collecting newspapers, but tonnage dropped, Smith said.

Smith suggested a pilot project in one of the Novato neighborhoods "for a long enough period to establish public reaction to this new form of garbage collection."

He said the program would offer a complete recovery system which would require the cooperation of the sanitary district, Novato Disposal Service and the residents.

The district's refuse disposal committee took his program under study.

Petaluma Board Receives Master Plan For School

The Petaluma Board of Education last night got its first glimpse of the master plan for Casa Grande High School, but decided not to approve it until June 11.

The plan outlines future development on the 70 acres around the existing East Petaluma campus, and acceptance last night was snagged by the proposed location of physical education facilities in the northernmost portion of the roughly-square tract.

Architect Charles Low explained that the existing campus is located in the south central part of the tract, with parking to its east and space for a future junior high school to the west.

North of the schools, according to the blueprint displayed last night, is space for a football stadium and track plus room for a baseball diamond.

Members of the district women's physical education faculty questioned whether students using the open area near the baseball diamond could be injured by the occasional baseballs likely to be batted out of the playing field.

Low said the plan allows enough distance to prevent such accidents.

Board member Dr. Wesley W. Ebert noted that the district hopes to build the track next year, and he urged the board to determine whether its proposed location east of the baseball area is suitable in light of the heavy use both facilities would receive simultaneously.

While chairman Daniel B. Plumley cautioned the board that the plan is only a general statement of long-term intent for development of the campus, the board decided to postpone action until the June meeting so that district patrons and faculty can present their views.

As proposed by Low, who presented the Porter and Jensen architectural firm, the junior high school would be a separate facility from the senior high school, with the two sharing only the playing fields to the north. Entrance to the junior high campus would be by a drive connecting with a future subdivision west of the school area.

The Petaluma Board of Education also:

FITNESS — Heard women's physical education teachers ask for better facilities for their programs, which they claim take third place in budget considerations after athletics and men's physical education.

JOB TRAINING — Heard teacher Fran Stevens report that a six-month program financed by a one-shot $22,000 state grant has helped non-college bound high school students tailor their studies to anticipated careers and make better grades, even though many showed no motivation before the program began.

GIFTS — Accepted donations of gymnastics equipment from Shirley Collins' fourth and fifth grade class at Penngrove School and a desk and several chairs from Raymond Van Buskirk.

SIDEWALK — Granted the City of Petaluma an easement to widen by one foot a sidewalk along McDowell Boulevard near McDowell Elementary School.

PERSONNEL — Accepted the resignation of nurse Lucy Mitchell and approved hiring of high school teacher Donald Singerman and adult education teacher Lawrence Broderick.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 7 p.m. May 28.

Two Receive Press Awards

Two Marin County high school journalists have been awarded prizes in the 29th annual journalism scholarship awards competition sponsored by the Press Club of San Francisco.

Martha Sherratt of Sir Francis Drake High School took second place of $150 in the feature division, and John May of Tamalpais High School took a third prize of $100 for a news story.

Novato Councilmen Accept Ridgeland For Open Space

A gift of 36 acres of ridgeland, covered with scrub oak, shrubs and grass, was accepted last night by the Novato City Council and slated for open space.

Councilmen voted unanimously to accept the land at the end of Garner Drive, south of Indian Valley Road from Crown Development Corp.

About 25 residents of the area, opposed to intensive recreation development of the land, favored limiting it to open space by deed restriction.

Robert A. Abeling of 1625 Indian Valley Road said the intent in seeking limitations wasn't "to make it isolated, but we don't want the wrong use by the wrong people."

Frank Torr, owner of property at the end of Garner Drive, said he hoped the city wouldn't create "an attractive nuisance by building in trails and advertising the fact" that it wanted people to use them.

Mayor David Price Jones and Gail M. Wilhelm favored having an open space only provision in the deed, but were on the short end of a 2-to-3 vote for that motion.

Councilmen then unanimously voted to accept the land without the deed restriction, then voted 4-to-1, Jones dissenting, to prohibit any use but hiking, in effect making it open space.

Jones reported that a group from Japan will visit city hall May 29 with the hour not yet set.

The council introduced an ordinance to revise the San Marin Master Plan, rezoning most of the lots along San Marin Drive, from San Carlos Way to San Marin High School, from multiple-family to single-family.

The planning staff reported the proposed revisions would decrease the population density from 140 dwelling units to about 95 units.

Pittsburgh Press Will Resume Runs

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsbargh Press Co., having settled a Teamsters strike and contract disputes with three craft unions, planned to resume publication tonight for the first time in seven weeks.

The afternoon Scripps-Howard newspaper said yesterday it was told 45 paper handlers "unanimously approved a new contract," clearing the way for morning editions tomorrow of Post-Gazette, which the Press prints under contract, to be on the streets tonight. "The first editions of the Pittsburgh Press should be out tomorrow, May 16," a Press spokesman said.

Amnesty Bill Approved By Turkey Assembly

ANKARA (UPI) — Turkey's national assembly passed a controversial amnesty bill today that will benefit foreign drug offenders but may force the government to resign.

As a result of the bill, British teen-ager Timothy Davies, serving a prison term for a drug conviction, will be freed.

Three Americans sentenced to life imprisonment for marijuana smuggling will have their sentences reduced to 12 years. The government wanted the bill to include freedom for political prisoners, including Communists and anarchists convicted of "anti-constitutional" crimes.

Twenty members of the National Salvation Party, the right-wing coalition partner in Premier Bulent Ecevit's government, voted against the two clauses and the amnesty was limited.

Politicians predicted that the failure to gain freedom for political prisoners would force the government to resign.

REMAINS A STUDY PUZZLE

The U.S. Geological Survey in Washington, D.C., is still hard at work analyzing assorted lunar specimens brought back by U.S. astronauts. One of the more unusual is this micrograph, taken on a scanning electron microscope equipped with an X-Ray analyzer. The sphere portion measures about 26 micrometers (about one one-thousandth of an inch) and consists of meteorite iron and iron sulfide imbedded in a matrix of lunar glass. (UPI Telephoto)

Country Club Group Wins Merger Round

Residents of the unincorporated Country Club tract seeking annexation to San Rafael have won another skirmish in their bid to reopen merger talks.

The city today received notification from the First District Court of Appeals in San Francisco that it must resume annexation proceedings with Country Club or show cause in writing before June 20 why it should not.

City Atty. Fred C. Robbins said he will seek guidance from the city council on a course of action.

The ruling is a victory of sorts for John and Jane Levinsohn and Reatha T. Godwin of Country Club, who filed the suit seeking resumption of annexation proceedings.

The city dropped annexation of the area after owners of 57 per cent of the land involved opposed merger with San Rafael and so killed consolidation under state law.

The Levinsohn and Godwin suit declared unconstitutional state law linking merger with property values, saying "The issue is whether landowners of an unincorporated area have the power to deny the people of that area the right to vote on whether said area should be annexed to an existing contiguous city."

The suit claimed state law unjustly allows a minority of voters of an area to deny local self government by a majority of voters, and cited a Supreme Court ruling that held unconstitutional state code relating to the right of landowners to deprive the electorate of a voice in incorporation proceedings.

Report On Townhouses Is Rejected

Deciding that more information was needed in an environmental impact report on a 30-unit townhouse project, the Larkspur Planning Commission last night sent the report back to its consultant.

John E. Roberto, city planning director, said Environmental Science Associates were asked for significant effects of grading plans for Skylark Phase Three.

He said commissioness think runoff should be considered a significant rather than a slight matter and want information on the total percentage of the site to be graded, amount of earth which will be moved and how much earth will be imported and exported.

The commission also directed that a full soils report be done before application for a use permit will be reviewed.

Roberto said the consultant will now prepare an adendum to the original report.

The Larskpur Planning Commission also:

SLOPE — Rezoned all residential land to R-1 zoning so that the city slope ordinance covers all residential land.

GROWTH — Appointed commissioner Helen A. Heitkamp to a committee which will report to the City County Planning Council of Marin on what Larkspur has or will do on growth control.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to May 28 at 8 p.m. in city hall.

12 Pct. Hike In Property Values Seen

Preliminary figures released today by the Marin County assessor show a record $400 million or more than 12 per cent increase in the market value of property during the last year.

According to Assessor Bert W. Broemmel, thousands of local property owners will be notified this week of increased assessments on their homes, businesses and land.

In all, 48,000 notices will be mailed by mid-June. The bulk of those, approximately 36,000, will be sent this week, Broemmel said. Property owners began receiving them yesterday.

The $400 million increase pushes the total value of property in Marin to the $3.75 billion level. Broemmel attributed last year's record increase not only to new growth but high building costs and soaring land values as well.

A complete list of estimated increases for Marin's 11 cities and 18 school districts will appear in the Independent-Journal tomorrow. Final figures will be released in July.

Foxx Can't Work Outside Series

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Red Foxx was barred from outside appearances when a superior court judge ruled yesterday that if the star won't appear in the television series "Sanford and Son" he can't appear anywhere else, either.

The judge granted a request from Tande Productions, producers of the series, for a preliminary injunction barring Foxx, a big draw as a night club comic, from making any public performances except on the NBC television series.

Tande is suing Foxx for $10 million for breach of contract because Foxx will not show up to begin preparing episodes for next fall.

MONKEY BUSINESS

A Japanese macaque monkey surveyed the surroundings yesterday from his precarious perch at the Oregon Regional Primate Research Center in Beaverton, where sex and reproductive studies are major projects being conducted with some 150 monkeys living on a free-roaming, two-acre complex.

Nude Bathers Bother Resident Of Bolinas

A Bolinas woman complained county's antinudity ordinance as it applies to private property bitterly to county supervisors yesterday about the growing number of nude sunbathers on the beach in front of her home.

Beatrice FitzGerald of 35 Terrace Avenue said she was "frustrated by the inadequacy of any law enforcement" to deal with her problem.

"What do you plan to do?" she asked the board.

Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini responded that last year a Marin judge tossed out the county's antinudity ordinance as it applies to private property.

Since the beach is not public land, he continued, the county is powerless to arrest skinny-dippers.

The board referred Mrs. FitzGerald to the county sheriff's office, which instructed her to make citizen arrests and file complaints with the district attorney's office if the sunbathers trespass on her property or engage in improper activities.

Job Program For Students Is Disputed

Marin County supervisors played referee to a dispute yesterday between the Marin YMCA and another group seeking to coordinate summer employment for high school students.

The matter came before supervisors as the director of the human relations department, Douglas H. Bosco, asked for $2,176 to hire two youths to help set up the new program.

Bosco said the program was worked out during a series of meetings with the county youth commission, industry and education council, state employment development department and work experience counselors.

Each is currently involved in a separate employment program for youths, he said, and the new program would seek to coordinate activities through the use of a computer, among other things.

Rex Silvernale of the YMCA protested, however, that the new program would duplicate his group's summer hire program. He urged that the money be given the YMCA program.

While three supervisors agreed to go along with the new program, Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. said he wanted more information about the YMCA program before making a decision.

Since four votes were needed, and Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere was absent due to a back injury, the matter was put over one week.

Sausalito Redevelop To Be Eyed

Reversing an earlier stand, Supervisor Michael Wornum agreed late yesterday that the board of supervisors should look into Sausalito's proposed redevelopment agency.

Earlier in the day Wornum had blocked a move by Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. to place the matter on next week's agenda, saying the Sausalito City Council hadn't considered it yet.

Informed later that the city council had the matter under review, Wornum dropped his opposition and urged the board to discuss Sausalito's redevelopment plan next week.

As outlined by the city planning director, Herb Case, redevelopment could be used to siphon off funds from other taxing agencies — such as the county and school districts — in order to finance municipal improvements.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

FAIR — Accepted a progress report on the 1974 county fair and established admission charges at $1.75 for adults, up 25 cents from last year; $1 for senior citizens and children 12 to 18, no change; and free for children under 12, no change. Fair manager Marcelle McCoy said this year's fair is expected to draw the largest attendance ever.

ANIMALS — Referred to the Marin County Animal Health and Control Advisory Committee a staff recommendation that the humane society —as contractor for animal control in Marin, — also take over medical treatment of all injured stray animals. The service is provided on an emergency basis by private veterinarians. Humane society executive director John N. Gill said his board had not authorized such a service, but said his office could help reduce costs, now about $7,000 over budget. The committee is to meet today on the issue, and report to the supervisors May 21.

GOLDEN GATE — Unanimously adopted a resolution asking Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton to add a planning commission member to the Golden Gate National Recreation Area Advisory Commission, which already has 15 members. The resolution was asked by the Marin Conservation League.

FAIR — Asked interested citizens and groups to submit nominations and biographical data to the supervisors by June 4, for a seven-member, advisory commission to help manage the county fair, auditorium and cultural programs.

TRAVEL — Unanimously adopted a resolujion asking that $500,000 originally budgeted for the ongoing Golden Gate recreational travel study but impounded by the federal administration, be restored.

HEARINGS — Set May 21 for public hearings on rezoning the Sleepy Hollow area between San Rafael and San Anselmo, the Hayden's Market area in Marin City, and on the biennial revisions to the county building code and inspection fees.

ELECTION — Unanimously declared candidates James C. MacNichols and Kenyon Spalding elected as directors of the Homestead Valley Sanitary District and Richard D. Haman and Joseph J. Brezina of the Almonte Sanitary District, because they face no contests on the June 4 ballot.

INDIAN VALLEY — Awarded a contract for drainage work on Indian Valley Road west of Novato, to Ray N. Bertelsen Co. of Marysville, lowest of seven bidders at $64,049 — 16 per cent below engineers' estimates of $75,000 for the work.

ANNEXATION — Approved transferring the Marin Valley Mobile Home Country Club from the Marin Municipal Water District to North Marin County Water District jurisdiction. The property is south of Hamilton Reserve Air Force Base.

MASTER PLAN — Approved a master plan for eight apartment dwellings on Tiburon Boulevard, east of Altena Street, near San Rafael. The approval overturns planning commission denial of the proposal submitted by John H. Head and Jules Becker of Ross.

GNOSS FIELD — Agreed to close the Gnoss Field access road off Highway 101 once a new frontage road to the airport is completed as part of the Novato Bypass Project. Nearby property owners had sought an agreement between the county and state that an intersection would be built near the airport sometime in the future.

RECLAMATION — Endorsed a proposed water reclamation project proposed by the North Marin County Water District to be financed with federal funds if a grant is approved.

Microwaven Oven Claim Rejected

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A superior court jury has rejected a $200,000 claim by a restaurateur who said he was blinded by radiation leaks from a microwave oven.

The jury found in favor of Litton Industries, which made the oven, and Kent Trading Co., which sold it.

Thomas King, 54, charged that he installed the oven in his Capitola, Calif., restaurant in June, 1968. Within a year and a half, he said, radiation leakage inflamed a small cataract in one of his eyes and started a new cataract in the other.

The trial was believed to have been the first microwave oven radiation damage action in the United States.

County Won't Boot Firefighters

Although Uncle Sam is increasing the cost of Marin County fire protection by $200,000 a year, the board of supervisors yesterday refused to accept a recommendation that it get out of the firefighting business and hire the state Division of Forestry to do the job. (Another Marin Supervisors story, page 1.)

County Administrator John F. Barrows had recommended either cutting the county firefighting force by about 12 men or contracting for protection from the state, in trying to hold the line against higher costs resulting from a new federal wage-hour law.

Under the federal law, effective Jan. 1, 1975, for all state and county public safety employees, the maximum work week will be cut from the present 84 hours to 60 hours. The cost of hiring more men to fill the gap would be about $200,000 a year, Barrows reported.

"I think it's absolutely absurd to cut the level of fire protection" in the unincorporated areas of Marin, Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. said.

Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere, who was absent, sent his fellow board members a memo outlining proposed reactions — which were unanimously adopted by the board.

Roumiguiere urged that the county retain its present firefighting force, but talk with officials of Marin Municipal Water District, the Point Reyes National Seashore and Golden Gate National Recreation Area about shouldering part of the cost.

The county staff will confer with the cities and with the Marin County Fire Chiefs Association, to streamline costs and improve mutual aid agreements, and Barrows will explore alternate methods of raising the extra money needed to meet the increased hiring. In addition, the board agreed, other cities and counties in California will be circularized for their attitudes on the federal action. It was taken without any warning to local governments, the supervisors protested.

Some 30 county and city firemen and citizens attended the board meeting, but said only that they agreed with the supervisors' action on the issue.

Candidates Deep Into Own Funds

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Heavy personal investments in their own election campaigns, ranging up to $17,500, have been reported by candidates in the June 4 primary.

Deadline to file campaign finance reports with the county election office was Friday, but only 59 of the 124 local candidates for congressional, legislative, state, county and district contests met the deadline.

County Elections Officer Peter C. Meyer said those who failed to file in time will be fined $10 a day to a maximum equal to their total campaign recipts, or $50, whichever is greater.

The top spender by far of his own funds was Jack R. Felson of Forest Knolls, candidate for the Democratic nomination in the Ninth Assembly District. He reported contributing $15,500 of his money and a $2,000 loan from relatives in San Diego.

Felson also reported spending $23,998 through May 7, the end of the first reporting period, and receipts of $21,661. He listed 18 other contributions, mostly for $100 and a few for $200. State law requires an itemized list of contributions only for those at $100 or more.

The second highest personal spender was a rival for the Assembly nomination, Michael Wornum of Mill Valley. He reported a $5,000 loan from his mother, a $2,500 gift from her and a $1,000 contribution of his money.

Wornum's expenditures, $12,428, also were roughly half the total reported by Felson. Receipts, including the family funds cited above, totaled $15,622. He reported 18 contributions of $100 or more totaling $6,200. Stephen Heller and H. David Sokoloff, both San Rafael architects, were down for $500 each.

The third biggest personal spender was another candidate for the same nomination, George J. Silvestri Jr. of Novato. He reported a $5,000 loan from his father-in-law. Unlike other campaign "loans," which commonly carry no interest, Silvestri's was at 9.5 per cent. "This is a very businesslike family," he said.

Silvestri reported $12,928 in receipts and $16,437 in expenditures. He showed 23 contributions of $100 or more, including $500 from Proctor P. Jones of Stinson Beach, president of the Stinson Beach County Water District.

Silvestri, who as deputy Marin County counsel is the legal adviser to the water district, also reported a $200 contribution from John L. Jones, another member of the district's board.

Louis J. Sasselli of Corte Madera, a fourth candidate for the Democratic nomination for Assembly, reported $3,732 in receipts and $3,515 in expenditures. He itemized 10 contributions totaling $1,900, including $800 from Elmo E. Sasselli of San Francisco.

The fifth candidate in the Democratic race for Assembly, Harry J. Moore of Novato, failed to file a report.

On the Republican side of the Assembly race, A. Alan Hill of San Rafael reported spending $5,980 against $6,934 in receipts. He listed seven contributions of $100 or more totaling $4,325, including $2,500 from a Los Angeles-based organization, United for California. It is composed of 46 oil, aerospace, construcion, insurance and food companies and banks.

Hill also showed a $1,000 contribution from Ralph E. Smith of Ventura and $525 from the Friends of A. Alan Hill.

Another Republican in the race, Gerald J. Hood of Mill Valley, reported spending $2,070 and receipts of $1,420, including two $100 contributions.

The other two GOP candidates, Susan A. Delaplane of Tiburon and Albert J. Schloegel of Rohnert Park, did not file reports. Nancy V. Gunn of Penngrove, Peace and Freedom Party candidate for Assembly, raised less than $500.

The biggest spender was Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, candidate for his party's nomination in the Fifth Congressional District and for election to the same seat for the remainder of this year.

Congressional campaign reports on file cover only the first two months of this year, but for this period Burton reported spending $25,185. Receipts for the same period were $15,336, backed up by $34,201 in cash on hand from last year.

Burton listed a $3,000 contribution from Adolph Schuman of San Francisco, $2,000 from Stanley K. Scheinbaum of Santa Barbara, and 14 others of $1,000 each.

The 14 included two from New York and three from Beverly Hills.

He also reported $1,000 contributions from the Association for Better Citizenship (an arm of the California Teachers Association), Marin Engineers Beneficial Association, Service Employees International Union COPE Fund and Machinists Non-Partisan Political League.

Another candidate in the congressional races, Alan F. Reeves of San Francisco, reported $6,336 in receipts and $5,932 in expenditures. He listed four contributions totaling $900. The other two Democratic candidates in the race, Terrence V. McGuire of San Rafael and Alan D. French of San Francisco, did not file reports.

The three Republican candidates, Thomas O. Caylor and Jean M. Wall of San Francisco and Sean McCarthy of San Rafael, and the Peace and Freedom Party candidate, Rev. Raymond Broshears, did not file.

In the contest for the GOP nomination for state Senate in the Second District, incumbent Peter H. Behr of Tiburon reported spending $11,274 of $19,644 in receipts.

He listed 51 contributions of $100 or more, including $2,500 for a poll paid for by the California Medical Political Action Committee and $1,000 from Fred Drexler of Mill Valley.

His opponent, Sonoma County Supervisor Robert Theiller, reported spending $3,511 of $5,848 in receipts. His contributions included $1,000 from Pacific Lumber of Scotia, $300 from Simpson Timber and $250 from Chenoweth Lumber.

On the Democratic side of the Senate race, Mendocino County Supervisor Ernest Banker reported $2,968 in receipts and spending $400. He reported a $1,000 contribution from the Public Lands Association of California, Fort Bragg.

Leslie A. Grant of San Rafael filed a short form declaring total receipts under $500, as did Toni Novak-Sutley of Petaluma, Peace and Freedom Party candidate.

In the contest for Marin County Superintendent of School, incumbent Virgil S. Hollis of Tiburon reported spending $6,013 against $5,176 in receipts. Contributions included $1,027 of Hollis's own money, $1,000 from the assistant superintendent, Robert E. Spain, $300 from the deputy superintendent, Byron W. Mauzy, and $100 each from Joseph Amato, director of business services in the schools office, and Theodora Faiola, its director of regional occupation programs.

Hollis's challenger, Joseph D. Gargiulo of Novato, reported spending $6,704 against $5,609 in receipts, including $1,906 of his own money and $100 from his wife.

In the Fifth Supervisorial District, incumbent Arnold M. Baptiste reported $10,965 in receipts, including a $2,000 bank loan, and $627 of his own money and expenditures of $6,939.

Baptiste's challenger, Betty Machado, reported $688 in receipts and $155 in expenses.

In the contest for Marin County district attorney, incumbent Bruce B. Bales reported $12,694 in receipts and $7,362 in expenses.

Assistant Dist. Atty. Joshua W. Thomas gave $150 to the campaign, and Fred Mantegani of Tiburon gave $649.

Neither of Bales' challengers, Edward M. Krug and Harry A. Connick, filed reports.

Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, seeking reelection as county coroner, reported $3,090 in receipts and $1,670 in expenses. His contributions included $800 of his own money. His challenger, Dr. Ervin J. Jindrich, did not file a report.

In the race for county clerk, Peter C. Meyer spent $4,934 and raised $2,408. Howard Hanson spent $3,746 against $6,447 in receipts, including a $5,000 loan from his wife. John F. Musser Jr. raised $1,719 and spent $1,489. Junetta Younglove spent $1,586 and raised $275, $100 of it contributed by former Marin County Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner.

In Marin Municipal Water District, Division 1, Richard J. Boylan raised $1,141 and spent $550. Betty Forry raised less than $500. Rufus B. Alwin, Winifred S. Frederick and Graham H. McPhail Jr. failed to file.

In Division 3, Dr. William J. Filante raised $2,192 and spent $2,073. Margaret Neese raised less than $500, and Joan Seminario raised $1,019 and spent $484.

In Division 4, Robert C. Walker raised less than $500, and Pamela W. Lloyd failed to file.

In Division 5, Bernardino A. Farlatti raised $560 and spent $225. He said he raised $500 in contributions of $100 or more, labeling nine persons as having made "anonymous indeterminate contributions." His report did not make clear how nine persons could give $100 or more each, yet give a total of $500.

Dorothy E. Gibson and Robert Lee Grant reported raising less than $500 each. Polly O. Smith and Willard A. Hall did not file. Hall dropped out of the race too late to have his name scratched from the ballot.

In Tamalpais High School District, Elaine Brockbank raised $2,277, including $1,662 in her own loans to the campaign, and sepnt $1,871. Dr. Darrell F. Smith raised $770 and spent $583.

In the Ross Valley Sanitary District, under $500 short forms were filed by George C. Davison and Eugene A. Ostaggi. John K. Brunswig and James G. McDonald did not file.

Most of the other candidates who failed to file are running for the GOP and Democratic central committees.

Second Hung Jury In Gun, Drug Case

For the second time in a little over two months, a jury in Marin Superior Court has been unable to decide if William Reid Lane of San Francisco violated two drug laws and a weapons count.

The jury yesterday told Judge Joseph G. Wilson it was deadlocked 10-2 on a charge of possessing a gun silencer, 9-3 on possessing hashish oil and 8-4 on the sale of cocaine.

The majority in each case favored acquittal, jurors said.

A jury before Judge Henry J. Broderick hung on the same counts in March, while convicting the 39-year-old construction worker of possessing marijuana and cocaine.

Yesterday's deadlock followed 12 days of trial and four of deliberation.

Sentencing of Lane on the two counts for which he was convicted has been delayed pending his retrial.

Wilson told Lane to return to superior court June 3 for a pretrial conference and a decision by the district attorney on whether the case will be tried a third time.

Transcript Fee May Be Chopped

A policy change to eliminate a $1 fee charged students for the first two verified copies of their transcript will be considered by Marin Community College District trustees when they meet today at 8 p.m. in room 101 of the College of Marin Science Center.

Trustees split 3-3 on the change earlier this month (Trustee Joseph E. Doherty absent) and Gregory C. Fearon, a pre-law student and former College of Marin student body president, filed suit charging the fee violates state law.

Diabetes Meeting

A meeting for parents of diabetic children will be held by the Marin County Diabetes Association at 9 a.m. tomorrow in Marin General Hospital's Blue Room. The session will be conducted by Dr. George J. Monteverdi, a pediatrician, and Dr. Conrad Ellner, a psychiatrist.

KENNETH A. GIBSON
Wins on moderate course

Mayor Of Newark Is Reelected

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Newark, N.J., Mayor Kenneth A. Gibson, who has steered a moderate course as the first black mayor in a major Eastern city, won reelection to a second term yesterday by defeating the leader of the city's white community.

Gibson, a 43-year-old engineer, defeated New Jersey state Sen. Anthony Imperiale 41, an ex-Marine and a karate expert, 42,313 to 33,652 in Newark. Three other minor candidates polled only a handful of votes.

Gibso, who became the first Negro mayor of a big Eastern city when he was elected in 1970, campaigned on his record in dealing with the problems of the predominantly black city. Imperiale was unable to capitalize on his charges that Gibson was unable to guarantee stability in Newark.

Imperiale first gained attention as the leader of vigilante neighborhood patrols after the city erupted in riots in 1967. The head of his own public relations firm, Imperiale won election to the state assembly in 1971 and to the state senate in 1973, running both times as an independent.

Marsh Fund May Grow By $110,000

The fund to purchase the Heerdt Marsh in Corte Madera may grow by $110,000.

Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, said he has obtained a $110,000 addition to the proposed state budget. The budget augmentation was approved by the Assembly Ways and Means Subcommittee on Natural Resources.

The money would bring the fund to $130,000. The Audubon Society has collected about $10,000 in private donations and Marin County officials have pledged an additional $10,000.

Several developments have been proposed for the virgin marshland on the East side of Highway 101, but none has been approved. A developer who proposed a marina for the area sued several agencies, including the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, after he failed to obtain a permit for his project. The suit is now pending in the courts.

The marsh, owned by W. J. Heerdt of San Francisco, has a market value of $108,600, according to a spokesman for the Marin County assessor's office.

Burton said he sought the budget appropriation at the request of the Marin Conservation League and Corte Madera Councilman Jana Haehl.

The state budget containing the marsh funds is expected to clear the Legislature by early next month, then go to the Governor for his signature.

Cadillac Bucking Small Car Trend

DETROIT (UPI) — With all the excitement over small cars this year, it took Cadillac —The No. 1 builder of really big cars —to set a sales record in early May while most sales reports were showing steep declines.

Cadillac dealers delivered 7,342 of the luxury models in the May 1-10 period, up 5 per cent over last year's record and a further indication of the renewed interest in larger cars.

With Ford Motor Co. sales figures due later today, the industry is expected to record a 30 per cent sales drop in the first 10 days of May from last year with sales of about 207,000 cars. The sales rate was not as strong as during some periods in March and April.

General Motors, Chrysler and American Motors reported sharp drops yesterday in early May sales, but said there was steadily increased demand for both new and used cars. Ford sales figures today were expected toshow a 22 per cent decline from last year, not as sharp as its competitors.

"The current sales levels continue to show a gradual increase in consumer demand for both passenger cars and commercial vehicles which has been building since January," said Mack W. Worden, GM vice president for sales.

"With the continued strengthening in the used car market, particularly in regard to full "sized used car prices, we are confident of an improved outlook for both new and used cars," he said.

GM dealers delivered 106,340 cars in the May 1-10 period, off 32.5 per cent from 157,514 cars in the period a year ago. So far this year, sales by the No. 1 auto company are down 32.8 per cent from last year's record pace.

Chrysler dealers delivered 32,367 cars in the May 1-10 period, a 23.8 per cent decline from 42,484 last year. Sales to date are trailing 1973 by 20.1 per cent.

American Motors showed a drop of 27.1 per cent in the early-May period with sales of 9,336 cars, compared with 12,798 a year ago. However, AMC officials attributed the drop to parts shortages and strikes and pointed out that AMC, alone of the U.S. auto companiee, is still ahead of last year's pace with a modest 2.1 per cent increase.

No Election

Lagunitas School District is not having an election this year, contrary to an incorrect report in yesterday's Independent-Journal. The error appeared in a story about a candidates' night to be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Lagunitas School. It will feature hopefuls for Tamalpais High School District trustee and county clerk.

Union Arm Ends Backing Of Brown

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The political arm of the AFL-CIO last night withdrew its endorsement of Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. and Rep. Jerome Waldie as Democratic candidates in the gubernatorial race.

In a closed meeting, the Committee On Political Education (COPE) vocally voted overwhelmingly to renege on its endorsements of the candidates because of their support of the anti-lobby Proposition 9.

Brown addressed the COPE meeting and maintained his position that Proposition 9 was a strong pro-labor measure. He told the COPE representatives that he had telegrams from labor unions throughout the state supporting his stand on the Political Reform Initiative.

COPE, the executive branch of the AFL-CIO, said it would continue to support Assembly speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, and Mayor Joseph P. Alioto of San Francisco. The leadership said that although Moretti supported the proposition, he would not campaign actively for it.

Secretary Of State Hopeful Wants Changes

Herman Sillas, Los Angeles attorney seeking the Democratic nomination for California Secretary of State, has some ideas for making the office he seeks more effective.

Sillas said on a San Rafael visit yesterday that he would like to see control of corporations placed under the secretary of state's office.

Articles of incorporation now are filed with the secretary of state, but control of the firms rests with the state corporations commissioner. Sillas claimed there is little policing of corporate laws, with a result that many fly-by-night corporations are set up which defraud consumers — particularly in the home improvement field — then simply dissolve to escape presecution for fraud.

Sillas also would do away with the title of "notary public."

His reason for this, he explained, is that in Mexico, a notary is a lawyer with special status, whereas in the U.S. a notary is merely a person licensed to verify signatures on legal documents. In Southern California, said Sillas, notaries advertise in Spanish-language papers and take large fees from Mexican immigrants for services they are not even licensed to perform.

The candidate called at the Independent-Journal yesterday during a quick campaign swing through the Bay Area.

He said he opposes Proposition 9 on the June ballot because it "fails to cover all the bases" and because of its requirement that a person giving a political contribution of over $50 must list his employer. He pointed out that only statewide offices are covered by the spending limits in the proposition, and that "there is no limit on what a candidate can receive — only on what he can spend." The latter lack, he contended, will tend to build up "slush funds" which can be used to build political machines.

Sillas was founder of the California Coalition for Fair Reapportionment, which played a role in getting reapportionment of the state Legislature into the courts following the 1970 census. In 1967, he filed what he claims was the first lawsuit in the nation challenging the testing methods which placed many normal non-English speaking pupils in classes for the mentally retarded.

Sillas, who is 40, married and father of five children, received his law degree from University of California at Los Angeles. He has not previously held elective office. Organizations supporting him include the United Auto Workers, International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union, United Steelworkers and Mexican-American Labor Council.

Davis Says State's Check Accounts Much Too Large

California keeps more than $50 million of its state funds in non-interest bearing checking accounts; and that is too much, believes Gray Davis of Los Angeles.

Davis would change that if he were elected state treasurer, he said during a San Rafael visit yesterday. He is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the treasurer's post in the June 4 primary.

The young attorney, a Vietnam War veteran, also criticized investments of state funds by the state treasurer's office during the incumbency of Ivy Baker Priest, who is not seeking reelection. He noted that interest yields on funds invested by the treasurer have consistently been below those on funds invested by the University of California. "The treasurer, in my opinion, has not performed as well as we are entitled to expect as the largest and presumably best run state government in the country," he said.

Elizabeth R. Gatov of Kentfield is honorary chairman of Davis's campaign. He said Roger Kent, also of Kentfield, was among those responsible for his entering the race for treasurer.

His own experience in handling funds includes finance chairmanship of Tom Bradley's campaign for mayor of Los Angeles. He also headed a task force which drew up a plan for improving the handling of Los Angeles city funds, but noted that its recommendations have not been implemented.

Davis was interviewed at the Independent-Journal yesterday during a brief campaign visit to Marin.

He is a graduate of Stanford University and received his law degree from Columbia University.

His list of endorsers includes the United Auto Workers, International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union, Service Employees' International Union, Machinists Union, Orange County Labor Council, Southern Christian Leadership Conference-West, and African Methodist Episcopal Alliance.

Stanford Trustee Resigns His Post

Earlier this month, Jones and his aviation firm pleaded guilty to making illegal contributions to President Nixon's campaign fund.

Hit-And-Run Death Trial Is Underway

A Fairfax man went on trial today in Marin Superior Court on charges of felony hit-and-run and misdemeanor manslaughter in the traffic death of a bank official.

Woodrow Wilson Fitzsimmons, 30, is accused of running down Harmen Evers, 40, of Sleepy Hollow, as the Bank of America vice president cycled along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard last Nov. 23.

The trial is expected to last three days before judge Charles Read Best.

Action in a second felony case pending against Fitzsimmons has been halted until the hit-and-run case is decided.

Fitzsimmons attempted to plead guilty Monday to the Feb. 23 slugging of a sheriff's deputy at Marin County Jail. But Judge Best refused to accept the guilty plea for now.

Volkswagen Eyes U.S. Auto Plant

WOLFSBURG, Germany (UPI) — Volkswagen, citing increased demand for small cars and skilled American labor, today estimated it would spend more than $1 billion to build automobile production facilities in the United States.

Rudolf Leiding, chief of the West German automaker, said a final decision on massive investment project would be taken in the fall. He estimated the possible investment at between $1.2 and $1.7 billion.

Leiding said that the question of financing the project was still open. But he said he believed that this problem could be resolved.

Reagan Would Quit Race If Convicted Of A Crime

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan said yesterday if he were a candidate for public office and was found guilty of a crime, he would quite the race.

Reagan made the comment in response to a newsman's question about whether he expected Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke to resign as a gubernatorial candidate if found guilty of perjury.

The governor paused and then replied, "Let me put it this way, I would."

Later, Reagan, who appointed Reinecke as lieutenant governor in 1969, said despite Reinecke's indictment by a Watergate grand jury "nothing has happened to change my mind about his integrity."

Reinecke is scheduled to go on trial July 15 on charges he lied to the Senate Judiciary Committee in 1972 in connection with his knowledge of an offer by International Telephone and Telegraph to help underwirte the Repuglican National Convention then planned for San Diego.

Reinecke has pleaded innocent and has vowed to remain in the race for the GOP gubernatorial nomination June 4 against state Controller Houston I. Flournoy.

Reagan also told his weekly news conference Reinecke's loss of leadership position in the California Poll was to be expected. Flournoy overcame the lieutenant governor in the poll published today and took a 4-3 edge.

"I think this is just a reflection of the troubles of the moment that the lieutenant governor has," Reagan said. "I think it was to be expected and I'm quite sure it was no surprise to the lieutenant governor."

The governor turned aside other questions about whether Reinecke should remain in the race, insisting to answer them would violate his pre-primary position of neutrality.

Reagan, a frontrunning GOP presidential contender in the polls, also said he welcomes the call of Democratic Senate leaders to cool call for President Nixon's resignation and allow impeachment proceedings in Congress to take their course.

"I don't think resignation would solve anything," Reagan said, adding that unresolved questions about the President's role in the Watergate affair would remain unresolved.

"I am opposed in principle and philosophy to the idea that a president can be forced out of office every simply by accusation and indictment," the governor said.

Salad Can Become A 'Meal'

By GLADYS MASON
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

As housewives find themselves obliged to learn more about thrift, they are getting some interesting surprises. One is that a salad need be not only a side dish, but a meal in itself.

Many such hearty dishes may be "invented" by the cook just by looking around to see what leftovers remain in the refrigerator or pantry.

A very satisfactory salad "meal" is inspired by Spain, and need only be accompanied by a hearty bread and dessert.

SPANISH LAMB SALAD

⅓ cup olive oil
¼ cup lemon juice
2 tbsp. vinegar
1 tbsp. fresh chopped chives
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. basil leaves
⅛ tsp. pepper
3 cups slivered cooked lamb
½ cup sliced pimiento-stuffed olives
1 small green pepper
2 diced medium tomatoes
2 hard-cooked eggs
Lettuce

ADDING TUNA makes a tossed salad or even a classic Caesar salad into a very special main dish. And it is quick. With a soup, French bread and dessert, the whole meal comes together easily.

Some Tips For The Backyard Cookout Parties

NEW YORK (UPI) — Before you head for the grill at cookout time in the backyard, here are a few tips from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

First, build a big enough fire to haye a good bed of coals. But don't start cooking until the flames have died down.

Second, have the surface of the meat far enough from the coals so that flare-ups from fat drippings don't touch the surface of the meat.

Add Vinegar

A small amount of vinegar added to the water when cooking rice will reduce the likelihood of sticking.

Onions Can Play Key Role In Many Dishes

Zesty onions impart their flavorful goodness to a host of entrees, vegetables, salads, sandwiches, and soups. For a zippy salad, try egg salad in onion cups.

EGG SALAD IN ONION CUPS

4 medium-size sweet onions
Salt
1 3-oz. package cream cheese
Cream
¼ cup chopped green pepper
2 tbsp. chopped chives
½ medium cucumber, chopped
3 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
¼ cup salad dressing

Peel onions and cut a slice from the top of each. Scoop out the centers, Sprinkle onion cups with salt; invert on a plate and refrigerate. Blend cream cheese with enough cream to soften. Line onion cups with the mixture.

Combine green pepper, chives, cucumber, eggs and chopped centers from onions. Mix with salad dressing. Scoop mixture gently into chilled onion cups and refrigerate. Serve on lettuce with additional dressing.

Makes four servings.

Cut Radish Tops

Radishes won't go soft on you so quickly if you cut off the tops before storing.

Method For Storing Cooked Potatoes

Whn hou have leftover cooked potatoes to store tor in the refrigerator, if you place them in a plastic bag with an absorbent paper napkin they'll stay dry and fresh-tasting.

FACULTY COOKBOOK

Easy Version Of Chicken Gumbo

A quickie recipe for chicken gumbo recalled from his childhood in New Orleans has been contributed by Rome Robertson, school custodian, for the Strawberry Point School Faculty Cookbook.

The cookbook will be sold at the Mill Valley school's annual fund-raiser, "Circus Fair," on Saturday from 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on the school grounds.

File gives the gumbo its unique creole appearance and flavor, but oregano or marjoram may be substituted. Robertson has always been able to find file in a market in Marin City, he said.

At home in Petaluma, he prepares a more complicated version including crab, shrimp and oysters when entertaining as many as 50 guests.

CHICKEN GUMBO

1 large cut up stewing chicken
1 medium green pepper, chopped
1 medium onion, chopped
1 to 3 cloves garlic (depending on taste)
1 to 2 tsp. crushed leaf thyme
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. black pepper
1 to 2 cups chunk pepperoni or salami sausage, diced
4 Tbsp. cooking oil
2½ quarts boiling water
2 No. 2 size cans of stewed tomatoes
2 cups fresh okra (or a 10 oz. package frozen okra)
1 10 oz. package frozen succotash
1 Tbsp. file (oregano or marjoram)
steamed rice

Place cooking oil, chicken, onion, green pepper, garlic, spices and pepperoni in large pot. Cover and cook for about 15 minutes.

Then add water, tomatoes,okra and succotash and cover and simmer for about one and a half hours or until chicken meat can be punctured with fork. During last 30 minutes sprinkle file over gumbo.

Serve over steamed rice.

Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Strawberry Point School principal Clare Broadhead contributed the recipe for the beef stew she takes camping or prepares ahead of time at home for company.

"If you're a busy person and have an automatic oven, it can cook while you're gone," said the principal. The meat doesn't have to be browned, so time and extra pans are saved.

THREE HOUR BEEF STEW

2 lbs. beef stew meat
1 can mushroom soup
1 can onion soup
½ to ⅓ cup sauterne
1 can mushrooms
1 can water chestnuts cut in quarters

Mix all together in covered casserole. Browning meat is not necessary. Bake three hours at 350 degrees.

Serve over rice or noodles. Her favorite way is over feathered rice: Brown 1 cup regular rice on a cookie sheet in oven. Place in covered casserole with one teaspoon salt and two and a half cups boiling water. Bake at 375 degrees for 30 minutes.

Teacher Don Kline, who instructs the combination of third, fourth and fifth grade class, said his mother's carrot mold is his favorite.

CARROT MOLD

1 well beaten egg
¾ cup shortening
1 cup grated raw carrot
½ cup brown sugar
1 tsp. lemon juice
1 Tbsp. water
1 tsp. soda
1¼ cup flour
⅓ tsp. salt
Graham cracker crust

Cream shortening and sugar, add egg, lemon juice and water. Sift together flour, soda and salt and add to first mixture, beating well. Add carrots. Press graham cracker crust into bottom of greased mold. Pour mixed ingredients on top. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

Ground Turkey Meat: A New Market Arrival

Ground turkey meat is a relatively new product in Marin markets and provides a low cost dinner feature. Some suggestions for serving the turkey:

TURKEY 'N STUFFING PATTIES

1 tbsp. flour
1 pound fresh ground turkey
1 cup seasoned stuffing mix
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. pepper
1 egg
½ cup finely chopped onions
1 can (10½ oz.) chicken soup, undiluted

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Shake flour in small size (10" x 16") oven bag and place bag in a two-inch deep roasting pan. Mix next six ingredients together well, shape into six patties and place in bag. Spoon chicken soup over patties. Close bag loosely with twist tie; make six half-inch slits in top. Cook 40 minutes.

Makes four to six servings.

TURKEY STUFFED GREEN PEPPERS

1 tbsp. flour
1 pound fresh ground turkey meat
1 egg
2 tbsp. chopped onion
¾ tsp. salt
¼ cup rice, uncooked
⅓ cup water
2 large green peppers
1 cup tomato sauce

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Shake flour in small size oven bag and place in two-inch deep roasting pan. Mix next six ingredients together well. Cut peppers in half lengthwise. Remove all seeds.

Stuff with turkey meat mixture, and place peppers into bag. Spoon tomato sauce over peppers. Close bag loosely with twist tie; make six half-inch slits in top. Cook 40 minutes.

Makes four servings.

Try Golden Crust Beef Steak Next

It is difficult to broil thin steaks and have them juicy and flavorful when cooked, but there are other ways of turning them into delectable meals. Use top round steak cut about one-third-inch thick for this recipe. Let it stand in beaten egg about 15 minutes. Then dredge in a coating of equal amounts of flour and fine dry bread crumbs to seal in all the beef juices.

Fry the steak quickly in a small amount of hot oil until golden. Be sure to turn only once while cooking. The finished steak comes out crusty and golden on the outside and medium rare on the inside — and most delectable.

To complete the menu, start it off with a large mixed vegetable salad and accompany the steak with broccoli or asparagus.

GOLDEN CRUST BEEF STEAK

1 egg
2 tbsp. flour
2 tbsp. fine dry bread crumbs
¼ tsp. salt
Olive or cooking oil

Cut beef into two servings. Let stand in beaten egg 15 minutes. Dredge steak in flour mixed with bread crumbs and salt. Pour one-fourth-inch oil in skillet. Fry steak quickly in hot oil over high heat until golden, about three minutes on each side.

Makes two servings.

Apple Cheese Muffins Are Idea As An After The School Snack

Nothing can dress up an ordinary meal like a hot bread, and these apple cheese muffins are a good choice for any meal at anytime of day.

APPLE CHEESE MUFFINS

½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup sugar
2 eggs
1½ cups sifted all purpose flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. baking soda
½ tsp. salt
¾ cup quick-cooking rolled oats
1 cup finely chopped canned pie sliced apples, drained
⅔ cup coarsely grated sharp cheddar cheese
½ cup chopped walnuts
¼ cup milk (approx.)
12 to 18 slices pie-sliced apples
Cinnamon-sugar

Cream butter to consistency of mayonnaise. Add sugar gradually while continuing to cream. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Mix and sift flour, baking power, powder, soda and salt; stir into butter mixture. Stir in oats, apples, cheese and walnuts; mix well. Add enough milk to make a muffin batter consistency — this depends on the moisture still left in the chopped apples.

Stir just enough to moisten other ingredients. Fill well greased muffin pans two-thirds full. Dip apple slices in cinnamon-sugar. Press one slice into batter in each muffin cup. Sprinkle lightly with cinnamon-sugar.

Bake at 400 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes. Makes 12 to 18 muffins depending on size of muffin cups.

APPLE MUFFINS with butter are a good after-school snack or as a kaffe klatsch accompaniment.

This Dish Is Excellent With Beef

Menu variety can be achieved by gathering up a repertory of such recipes as this broccoli and cheese custard.

After cooking the broccoli, the casserole can go into the oven for the last half-hour when you are baking or roasting an entree for dinner.

1 bunch broccoli
1 teaspoon salt
3 eggs
⅔ cup milk
1¼ cups grated sharp cheddar cheese

Then cover and cook 10 minutes or until tender. Drain and cut into ½-inch pieces. Put into shallow baking pan. Beat eggs and add milk, cheese and salt and pepper; mix well and pour over broccoli. Set casserole in pan with about 1-inch hot water. Bake in 350 degree oven about 30 minutes or until custard tests firm with a knife. Makes six servings.

SOUVENIRS FROM Western Australia surround Kay Gillis in the garden of the Kentfield home of her parents. The adventure and travel-loving nurse spent six months in the "outback" country treating Aborigines. The dress she is wearing is from Malaysia, one of the ports of call of the freighter she took "down under." The painting is in vivid colors, typical of Aboriginal art.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA

Nurse Finds Her Job Challenging

By JOAN LISETOR

The gamble was well worth it, according to the adventure and travel loving nurse.

Miss Gillis happened to be in the Australian consultate office in San Francisco one day and saw an ad for public health nurses to serve in the "out back" regions of Western Australia treating Aborigines. She had been in Australia the previous year on a vacation visiting friends and liked the country. Her job as a school nurse here was not stimulating to her, so she applied to the Western Australia Department of Public Health and was hired.

Last July she took a 12 passenger Norwegian freighter, which took 51 days to reach Australia.

"OUR FIRST stop in Australia was a country town, Wydham," she said. "When we docked I was told I was in for a culture shock. Country town — Wydham is never-never country."

Still aboard ship, she traveled south to Perth, capital of Western Australia, for a three-week indoctrination period at the state's Community Health Services headquarters.

Her training completed, she was given a bush car equipped with two spare tires, a refrigerator, emergency equipment, a shovel, flare and a kangaroo guard. Arriving a few days later in Mullewa, she found squalid conditions with people living in shanties and animals roaming everywhere.

"The Aborigines are the most primitive people in the world," she said. "They are also very mobile, and many have gone into the cities to seek work. They have married whites and come back to the villages, so there are many half castes."

The nearest grocery store to Mullewa was 62 miles, which Miss Gillis drove in her bush car. The only water was rain water, which she collected off the roof.

"It was a hard, tough experience. I realized how little you need to sustain yourself," she said.

Entertainment was nil, she said. The highlight of the week was when the wives of men on the sheep stations around Mullewa came to town for a sewing class.

AFTER A month there she got back in the bush car and drove to Carnarvon.

"The trip was 300 miles of flat, red dirt," she said. "I had car trouble and soon learned why you never travel in the area without water and food."

She spent a few days in Carnarvon, which was once a satellite tracking station, decided she didn't like it and requested a transfer to Fremantle.

"Fremantle is a port town with migrants from all over the world," she said. "There are more health needs than you can imagine."

With the help of a half caste Aborigine nursing assistant, who was her contact with the Aboriginal community, she established a health department.

"We had the clinic, which we used as a land base. With a population of 100,000 we established a case load of 164 clients," she said.

Treating people usually meant going to them, she said, and often she found herself doing examinations in freezer works, meat packing plants and other places of business.

She treated trachoma, an eye disease, leprosy; and other tropical diseases as well as nutritional, maternal, child health and geriatric problems.

The health service stresses preventative medicine, she explained, which is not easy to teach with a language barrier.

"MOST OF the migrant do not speak English, so I used charades to teach," she said. "I worked that way through the little ones."

One day she went to an archaic prison and taught first aid, she said.

"There was freedom to experiment, and I was given full reign," she said. "There is so much more I could have done with more help, more of a staff."

She had some problems with the 107 degree heat and the attacking flies, she said, but the experience was what she wanted, a nursing challenge and a "pipe dream come true."

With the offer of a job in the United States in March, she booked passage on a freighter home. When the ship arrived in Yokohama she found out that the job already had been filled. The disappointment didn't spoil her trip, she said. She particularly enjoyed Indonesia, the Philippines, Japan and Malaysia.

In Penang, Malaysia, she witnessed an acupuncture clinic, when several persons were being treated for a variety of ailments. She collected from the post office in Penang brochures on birth control and family planning, printed in Malaysian. The brochures along with many souvenirs and photographs are catalogued in a scrapbook that she has been working on since arriving home last month.

"I'm looking for a job, something challenging, although I know it will never be as challenging as the experience I had," she said.

In time she thinks she might like to go back to Australia to see how the project is going, she said. She would also like to see the good friends she made there, who have a caring attitude, more than she has experienced anywhere else in the world.

College Reentry Presents Problem For Older Women

By KAREN PETERSON

Older women returning to the college campus often "can't identify with the high school girl and feel left out." To aid with assimilation, groups are now being formed to "try to help women and make them feel comfortable."

Representatives of reentry programs at the College of Marin, Indian Valley Colleges and Dominican College described their programs last night at the Knowledge Is Power program on "Women Returning to School", sponsored by the Young Women's Christian Association and the Women's Center.

The centers help because a "woman would rather go to a woman — someone they can identify with and someone who knows the problem firsthand because they've been through it," said Mary Estrada, research assistant with the Women's Educational Re-entry Program at the College of Marin.

The federally-funded, two-week-old program is "a response to a need felt in the community," said coordinator Diane Wickstrom, "but it is not unique in this community."

THE PROGRAM plans to recruit women to come back to school, added Miss Estrada, "Our objective is simply to reach women."

"We're planting the seeds of hope," said Mrs. Wickstom. "And we follow up on everyone contacted. We continually stimulate the idea that we're here."

"Women are going back to school in droves across the country. They need some kind of supportive services," she added.

At the College of Marin, Indian Valley Colleges and Dominican College, all of which have a large number of returning older women, student programs are being organized so that these women can gather together for support and encouragement.

Emerging Women at the College of Marin was one of the "first things that got started" for women to get together, said a member of the audience. (Emerging Women is now an independent studies course.)

"When I started at the College of Marin, I was scared to death. I was frightened of all these young people," she said. "My fear was that I would be going into a young people's territory and they would resent it."

"Women have never been exposed to all the positive things that happen at school. There's a kinship going on that doesn't occur in the classroom setting," she added.

She also said Emerging Women, which meets on Thursdays, is a place for "women who may want to come back to school but aren't sure."

"EMERGING WOMEN," said Miss Wickstrom, is "there to see that women who enter the College of Marin stay. It's a place to go to rap," she said, and offers "supportive services."

Although Indian Valley and Dominican Colleges do not have specific classes for the reentering woman, there are class situations where they can come together.

Of the 850 students at Indian Valley, one-third are women over 30, said Joan Sweeney of Novato. "I was a Depression child, and many women didn't go on to college. I had fear and trembling," about returning, said Mrs. Sweeney, who has been married for 25 years.

"I chose Dominican as a place where I wouldn't be overwhelmed," said Carmen, a freshman at Dominican. "To me, education is being nurtured. I had to feel like I was an entity," she said, and choosing a four-year college, she added, meant that there would probably be other women there in the "same situation."

Dominican does attract "a lot of older women," she said, many of whom are working on master's degrees.

"IT WAS quite a decision to make to come back" to school, she said, "how to keep up with those bright, bushy-tailed minds."

"It was a fear of not being able to handle assignments and being embarrassed in front of younger students," she said. "Some women are returning for professional reasons. For others, their education had been interrupted. Mine was looking for a new purpose in life — a new direction."

HELEN HELP US!

Homeowner Finds That Living With Easement Is A Hassle

DEAR HELEN:

I know how "Homeowner" feels when she was fined for "maintaining a nuisance" after boys climbed into her back yard and drowned her cat in the pool.

I live with an easement: that is, I must cross over my neighbor's yard to get to mine. Of course the realtor never told us what a hassle it would be.

Poison sumac grew near this easement strip for 15 years, with no trimming. My car scratched; a rash for every year; doctor's visits —these were a few of our problems.

My young son trimmed the branches — a big job in boiling hot temperatures. No one offered to help. Instead, our neighbors called the police and told them he was cutting down their flowers. (Not even dandelions grew here.) After four weeks deliberation, the judge fined our boy for destroying property and trespassing. — B.O.V.

DEAR B.:

Seems to me you might have counterclaimed that the poison sumac was an "attractive nuisance."

Problem here is one many wrongfully accused persons face: the expense of legal assistance. They settle for paying a fine, even though they burn with indignation, because they can't really afford a lawyer, or don't want to go through the hassle of a trial. . .Pity! — H.

P.S. What happens when the wrongfully accused is forced to face a court trial? Read on. . .and weep. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

You hear a lot about the rape victim these days. But think of the man who is accused — and can't prove his innocence.

A middle-aged woman identified me as her attacker. I had never seen her before, but she said she "recognized" me on the street near where she had been raped. Brutally. She was a prominent citizen, and "above reproach."

I spent several days in jail before I could raise the bail, which was high. I hired a lawyer who I thought believed me. (The court-appointed man didn't.) Bills mounted up, and it got worse when my boss suggested I "take off" for awhile. He meant "quit," and I did. No other firm would hire me.

Friends drew away. Even my family looked at me strangely. The tension of trying to prove nothing was changed made everything in my life change.

I was broke, in debt to the lawyer, jobless, nearly friendless and damn near hopeless.

For good reason. I was convicted of a crime I didn't commit and was on my way to jail when my accuser identified the real criminal, an almost carbon copy of me who was picked up on a drug charge. He confessed, and I went free.

Yes, I'm free, but people remember the headlines when I was "guilty," not the few lines about my release.

The woman's accusation was not made with malice, and so I can't get redress. It will take years, even if someone will give me a decent job, to pay my legal bills. I find it hard to accept the friends who suspected me back then, and I don't feel open enough to make new ones.

I feel sorry for a rape victim, but in the fever to protect her, let's not forget she can cry "Rape" and bring down a nightmare on an innocent man! — THE ACCUSED

PARENT AND CHILD

Teachers Fooled, Not A Student

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

In a recent "Parent and Child" column Josh Binswanger told how an editorial he had written about President Nixon had been censored by the principal of his school. The editorial was intended for the school's Grade six newspaper.

A number of readers, including several members of a grade six class whose teacher had invited them to respond, sent in comments.

Three readers thought Josh shouldn't have pressed his case. Not because he was in the wrong, but because they thought Josh might get in trouble later when he grew up.

Many of the children and several adults wrote their letters directly to Josh urging him not to become disillusioned or bitter and assuring him that he had followed his conscience and shouldn't suffer because of it.

COMMENTING ON the response Josh said, "In my first story about my school newspaper incident, I did not tell you what my real opinion was.

"My opinion was and still is that the (school) administration was afraid that they might get in trouble with the parents of the kids in school and therefore, as an excuse, told me that they could be sued.

"The most irritating part of this incident happened three weeks after they refused (to print) my editorial. It was then that I was told that this school's newspaper would not allow editorials about religion or politics.

"Why didn't they tell me this right away.

"I think that the school could have stopped this from happening by: letting me print my editorial; waiting to see what the public's reaction would be; and then, if found controversial, invite others to print editorials or letters in reply.

"This way our schoolnewspaper could have given both sides of the controversy a chance to express themselves.

AND FURTHER Josh adds a message for those who responded: "Thank you to those of you who sent in letters and showed your interest about my story that never got into my school newspaper."

All of this recalls a visit to a small independent school in Connecticut. Invited to speak at morning assembly, I started out by asking (with a show of hands) how many of the students thought that a private person or a corporation had the right in the United States to print and distribute a newspaper or magazine that would favor one political party or one point of view.

The children were unanimous in stating that no person or corporation could print and distribute literature favoring one point of view. Although somewhat stunned by the children, I was even more appalled by their teachers, who beamed with delight that the children had gotten the answer "correct."

Then I talked for 20 minutes, never using the phrase "freedom of the press," and asked if any child had changed his mind. There were puzzled looks, but no one raised his hand.

The principal of the school beamed with pride. "You weren't able to fool them," he stated.

I then met with the faculty and explained that what I had described was the freedom of the press guaranteed by the United States Constitution.

MY FAITH in sixth graders was restored, though, when I went to my car.

It was a "Josh." His name was Peter. He confided that he had not dared to raise his hand in the assembly because he knew what the teachers thought. And then he said, "But weren't you describing Freedom of the Press from the First Amendment?"

I assured him that I had been.

oldest freshman at Dominican, said returning "was pretty exciting" after graduating from high school nearly 40 years ago. She also said she discovered that her "life was not totally without education. I knew many things from my own living experiences," she said.

For some women, going back to college can, after the first year, mean marital problems.

"I don't want to see marriages fall apart because women went back to school," said Miss Wickstrom.

"It's not recognized as a problem yet but I recognize it as a tremendous problem... The impact of education on a relationship can be positive or negative. On the child it is quite positive.

The first semester, she said, the husband is proud of his wife's decision to go back to college. But the second or third semester, she said, "the relationship tends to change."

THE WOMAN is taking more courses and dividing her life between student, mother, wife and whatever else she may be, said Miss Wickstrom.

At the same time, she added, the woman is devoting the "same amount of time to being a wife and mother as she did before."

"Their life is very structured," she said, "these women are probably the most organized."

Miss Wickstrom hopes to begin a series for both the husband and wife on the problems of returning to school.

Miss Wickstrom is available for information on reentry at the College of Marin in the afternoons and at Indian Valley Colleges in the morning. Booths with information about the program are set up at various shopping centers in the county.

Slay Charge Admitted In Plea Switch

PUEBLO, Colo. (UPI) — A Texas carnival worker, implicated along with his father-in-law in a nationwide murder spree that claimed 22 lives, changed his plea to guilty today in the rape-kidnap murder of a Colorado doughnut shop waitress.

He was sentenced to a mandatory life prison term without possibility of parole.

Carl Robert Taylor, 37, entered the change of plea in the death of Lenora Rose Looney, 20, in August, 1971.

Miss Looney's body was discovered three days later near the Colorado-Wyoming border. An autopsy revealed she had been raped and shot twice at point-blank range.

The plea agreement, arranged between defense and prosecution attorneys, contained stipulations Taylor would be allowed a visit from his wife, Ginger McCrary Taylor, and a kidnapping charge against him would be dismissed.

Taylor also agreed to make statements to authorities in Hunt County, Tex., and Elko County, Nev., concerning murders there with a guarantee of no prosecution. Similar stipulations were agreed to by authorities in Utah, Oregon, Washington and Florida.

Taylor was to be taken to Dallas, where he agreed to plead guilty to a charge of armed robbery and receive a life sentence to be served consecutively with the Colorado sentence. He currently is serving a life sentence at San Quentin for the attempted murder of a California police officer.

Taylor's father-in-law, Sherman McCrary, was convicted of first degree murder in connection with Miss Looney's death and currently is serving a life term in the Colorado State Penitentiary at Canon City.

Taylor's was moved to Pueblo on a change of venue after Jefferson County District Judge Daniel Shannon approved a defense motion claiming there had been excessive pretrial publicity.

PIPERS TO PLAY IN PARADE

The Prince Charles Bagpipe Band, composed of lads and lassies from various Bay Area counties, practices in anticipation of the San Rafael Centennial parade to be held May 26 at 1 p.m. on Fourth Street. Many musical units, floats and horses will be featured in the colorful affair, the first parade in San Rafael in many years.

A Smoldering Fuss Leads To Shooting

A long smoldering dispute between two brothers resulted in the shooting today of one of the brothers and a friend in the front yard of a Sausalito home, police reported.

Officers said Joey Edward Covington, 28, also known as Joey Machno, at 2:10 a.m. fired six shots from a .357-magnum pistol through a peeophole in the front door of his house at 14 Second Street.

Three bullets struck Covington's 33-year-old brother, Lewis A. Machno of 15 Chester Avenue, Fairfax, lodging in his thigh and buttocks and creasing the bridge of his nose, police said.

Machno's companion, Stephen Frankel, 30, of 141 Lansdale Avenue, Fairfax, was wounded in the knee.

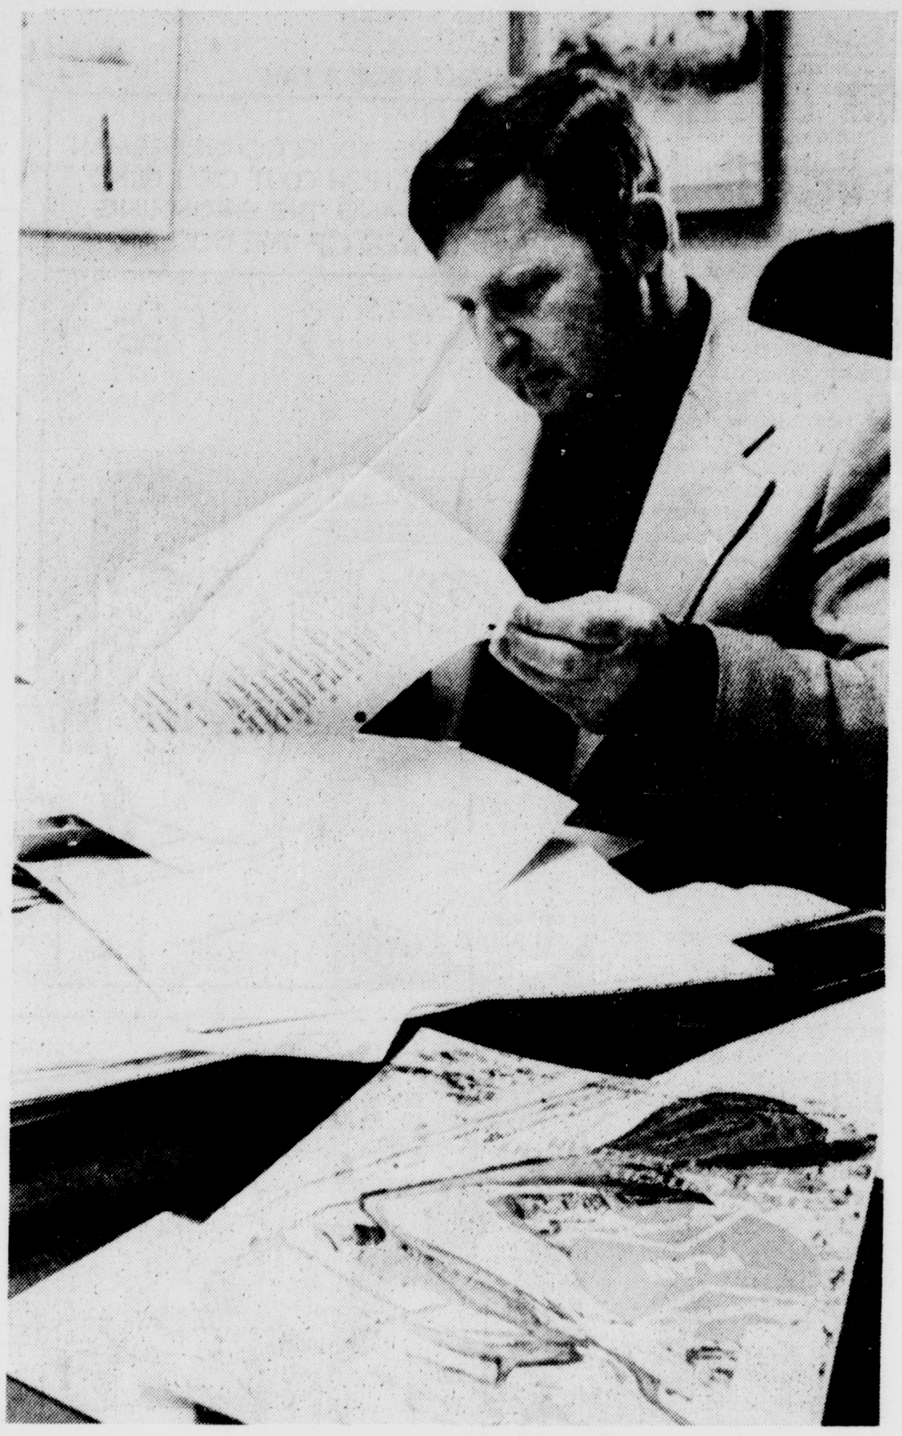
Before collapsing on the sidewalk, Machno and Frankel broke through the front door and disarmed Covington, who was arrested a short time later without a struggle and booked into county jail on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon. He was being held in lieu of $3,000 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Machno was taken by ambulance to Kaiser Hospital. He reportedly was conscious this morning but his condition was not known. Frankel also was taken to Kaiser Hospital, then transferred to Marin General, where he was released.

Police said Covington went home angry after an argument with his brother at the Boathouse nightclub on the Sausalito waterfront. Machno telephoned his brother from the club and said he and Frankel were coming over. They were approaching the front door when gunshots rang out, according to investigators.

Meeting Is Off

The regular meeting of the Housing Authority of the County of Marin scheduled for tonight has been adjourned to next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. An agenda will be drawn up before the meeting, according to Wallace K. Shepherd, housing authority executive director.



ON THE JOB IN FAIRFAX

Fairfax Town Administrator Robert E. Crowe, fired by the town council last month but reinstated by a Marin Superior Court Judge yesterday, sits at his desk at city hall as he examines "the great backlog of things that haven't been done" in his absence. Crowe returned to work today and logged his first day on the job administering town affairs since March 5, an absence stemming from a post-election brawl for which the administrator faces criminal charges of assault with a deadly weapon. Crowe today worked largely on the town budget, and declared that departmental fund requests far exceed anticipated town revenues.

Fire Budget Depends On Tax Vote

The Novato Fire Protection District has two preliminary budgets, one assuming its June 4 tax rate hike measure is approved and another assuming it isn't.

Directors last night approved a preliminary 1974-75 budget of $1,019,779 to finance operation at the current level and a preliminary budget of $1,656,133 that would expand the department if the tax measure passes.

The district limited to a tax rate of 71 cents per $100 assessed valuation is asking voters to raise the tax rate ceiling by 57 cents.

The first budget, continued operation as at present, is $216,568 higher than the current budget.

It includes a 7.5 per cent pay increase for firemen, hiring of two additional firemen and purchase of a new tanker for $30,000.

The budget also includes increase costs for retirement, health insurance, social security and state compensation payments.

Because of a new state law setting the work week at 60 hours starting Jan. 1, 1975, the district allocated $16,602 to pay overtime. Firemen on a 63-hour week will be paid time and a half for three hours a week starting Jan. 1.

Among the new programs in the bueget is the hiring of high school students as cadets during the summer at acost of $9,000.

Director William L. Boyle estimated the preliminary budget was about $100,000 higher than expected revenues under the 71 cent tax limitation. The board expected that reappraisals would hike the assessed valuation in the district an increase property tax revenue for 1974-75.

The second budget contains funds for a new fire station, $250,000; hiring 16 additional firemen, a new tanker, at $30,000, a new engine, $60,000, three ambulances $54,000 and a workshop, $50,000.

The board adjourned until 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Health Panel Is Seeking More Help

The Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin County is seeking additional members, especially those who do not make their living in health fields, according to Dr. Howard A. Levenson, president.

The council's main activity is in planning for health care facilities, and members of the council through this function, "can slow down rising costs (and) encourage competition but eliminate unnecessary duplication of services," Levenson said.

About one-third of the total membership serves either on the board of directors or on committees of the council.

Committees include those interested in child health, community health, emergency medical care, environmental care and mental health as well as volunteers who provide office and fiscal skills.

Those interested in serving on the council may contact the office at 710 C Street in San Rafael.

Marin City Residents Given First Crack At Housing Jobs

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Marin City residents will get first chance at jobs in the $350,000 remodeling now going on in public housing apartments in their community, the Marin County Housing Authority promised yesterday.

The housing agency's concession, which came after a settlement conference in U.S. District Court here yesterday was a partial victory for the Marin City Public Housing Tenants' Representation Association.

The tenants' group has filed suit to stop the authority from spending $177,000 in federal funds to landscape the apartment buildings as part of its $350,000 remodeling projects.

The residents have asked that the money instead be spent to make additional repairs in their apartments, particularly in the heating systems.

The suit also charged that the community unemployed have not been given equal opportunity to work on the modernization project and that tenants have been given no say on priorities in planning the renovation.

Authority officials called for a settlement conference yesterday in the court of Judge C.B. Renfrew and attorneys for the agency and the tenants met for five hours. The move followed a day of testimony on Monday.

The promise to give Marin City residents top priorities in hiring came out of the meeting, according to William Cummings Jr., an investigator for the Legal Aid Society of Marin, which is handling the tenants' case.

Cummings said the authority promised that no other persons would be employed in the renovation project until Marin City residents qualified to fill the jobs are hired. He said about 25 positions are at stake.

The authority also agreed to post notices of all jobs available in the modernization program at four locations, to be announced, around the community.

In addition, the authority tentatively agreed to hold an election among public housing tenants in the next two weeks to choose a modernization committee which would advise the agency on the project, according to Cummings.

Still unanswered is the question of how the landscaping funds will be spent and whether more money will be used for additional repairs to apartment units, he said.

Cummings reported that attorneys for the tenants plan to find out if the Department of Housing and Urban Development will provide additional money to correct "the inadequate heating systems" in the units.

Judge Renfrew ordered the settlement conference, which will include HUD representatives, to resume at 5:30 p.m. Friday.

San Quentin Inmate Is Stab Victim

A San Quentin inmate, serving a life sentence for kidnapping for ransom from Inyo County, was stabbed twice in the back this morning as he left his cell in the North Block.

The wounded man, Donald H. Smith, 36, managed to walk down from the fifth tier to the first to notify a guard of his wounds, prison officials said.

He was taken to the prison hospital, where he was reported in good condition with two wounds in his back.

Smith had been at San Quentin since last October.

No weapon was found by officers and there was no suspect.

The attack of Smith was the 16th stabbing at San Quentin this year. Two convicts have died after such assaults and another remains in critical condition.

Sanitary Board Member Resigns

Vernon B. Coleman resigned last night from the Alto Sanitary District board after serving about two and a half years as a board director.

Coleman, who was appointed in September 1971, cited business committments as his reason for leaving, according to Daniel R. McNeill, board secretary.

McNeill said the board will appoint a replacement after Coleman leaves July 1.

Milk Boycott Is Described As A 'Flop'

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The three-day, statewide milk boycott sponsored by eight consumer groups in an attempt to force down retail prices was described as a "flop" yesterday by a dairy industry spokesman.

"The way it looks to us at this time is that the milk boycott is a flop," said George Woodward of the California Milk Advisory Board.

"A spot check of supermarkets all over the state shows virtually no change in the sale of fluid milk or powdered milk," Woodward said.

The consumer coalition has urged citizens to purchase powdered instead of fluid milk in the week-long boycott initiated Sunday.

But Woodward said, "Sales of fluid milk are continuing and there has been no increase in the sale of powdered milk."

Roy Alper, a member of the California Citizen Action Group and a leader of the boycott, disputed Woodward's assessment of the boycott.

"Needless to say the industry is not going to say it (the boycott) is not having any effect," Alper said.

Alper compared the milk boycott to last year's meat boycott.

During the meat boycott, he said, the industry claimed it was a flop, but "now you see the prices are down."

"It takes quite a while to get the full impact," Alper said.

The boycott was initiated after a series of price increases were granted by the State Department of Food and Agriculture's Milk Stabilization Unit.

In the last 16 months the state-regulated price of a gallon of milk has risen by about 30 cents. The cost of a half-gallon container now ranges from 68 to 73 cents.

New Salvation Army General Is Announced

SUNBURY - ON-THAMES, England (UPI) — Clarence Dexter Wiseman, 66, of Toronto, Canada, is the 10th general of the Salvation Army. Wiseman, the son of Salvation Army officers will succeed Erik Wickberg of Sweden July 5, the day before Wickberg's 70th birthday.

Wiseman was chosen in a secret ballot by the 40-member High Council after a nine-day conference at Sunbury-on-Thames.

He was picked over three other candidates, a Briton, an American and a fellow Canadian to head the 2.5 million member army. He said, "People have such affection for the Salvation Army that sometimes I feel a little alarmed that we live up to the expectations of people around the world."

Two Old Movies Will Be Screened

"Intolerance" will be screened Saturday and Sunday and "Hutchback" will be shown May 25 and 26. The films begin at 8 p.m.

ALMANAC

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Today is Wednesday, May 15, the 135th day of 1974 with 230 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

American novelist Katherine Anne Porter was born May 15, 1894.

On this day in history:

In 1918, the first regular air mail service was established between Washington, Philadelphia and New York.

In 1969, Justice Abe Fortas, under fire for an admitted lifetime money deal with jailed financier Louis Wolfson, resigned from the United States Supreme Court.

In 1972, Alabama Gov. George Wallace was shot and critically wounded at a presidential campaign rally in Laurel, Md.

A thought for the day: American novelist William Faulkner said, "I believe that man will not merely endure, he will prevail."

Opening lead — ♣ Q

WEST'S LEAD

West opens the queen of clubs, and let's see what happens if you win the first trick with the ace.

You draw trumps with the ace and king. Then you lead a low diamond from dummy and shrewdly finesse with the nine. This forces West to win the trick.

West leads the five of clubs and East wins with the king. And now you are in trouble, for East leads the queen of spades. The defenders promptly take two spade tricks, defeating the contract.

DANGEROUS OPPONENT

As you can see, East is the dangerous opponent. If he leads a spade, you will lose two spade tricks. There is no such danger if the first round of spades is led by West.

FROM START

You must plan the play from the start to keep East out of the lead. For this reason you should refuse the first club trick. Now East can never gain the lead with the king of clubs.

You will have time to develop the diamonds and get a spade discard on dummy's fourth diamond. It's fine to play the diamonds properly — leading low from the dummy and finessing with the nine from your hand — but you must also handle the clubs to shut the dangerous opponent out of the lead.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one no-trump (16 to 18 points) and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - Q J 10 8
♡ - 7 3
♦ - Q 8 3
♣ - K 8 7 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs, the Stayman Convention, asking partner to bid a major suit of four or more cards.

If he bids spades, you will raise to three; if he bids anything else, you will bid two no-trump.

ART REVIEW

Terra Linda Show Offers Broad Selection Of Ideas

By ADA GARFINKEL

The Terra Linda Art Association's "See, Touch, and Perceive Show" directs attention to sensory data in a broad interpretation of individual ideas.

Texture, so important in the visual arts, is beautifully realized in Marni Myles "Ceremony," a pictograph sandpainting with abstracted Indian floral and bird symbols. And cork, used as a support for Bonnie Meyer's acrylic painting "Gabriola Island," lends an unusual pointillist texture to this rustic scene.

Other avenues of contact — sound, taste, and smell — are subtly explored. All three senses are stimulated in Donna McGinnis' acrylic painting "Country Kitchen," while Carol Zogg's brilliant orange-red and violet "Ultra Vibes" conjures up the cacophony of sound in certain modern musical arrangements.

And Marilyn Cohen's "Metamorphic Explosion" — a delightful fantasy of butterflies, caterpillars, and spring flowers in pen, ink, and tempera — is like an audible paean to nature.

How we perceive and interpret the input of sensory data is a uniquely personal experience as examined by Deborah Sarantakis in "Touch and Reaction," a pencil drawing in which youth and old age — presented as hands touching a youthful face — react physiologically and aesthetically.

Zora Sweeney's "Fruit," a black-and-white charcoal drawing on gray paper, Eve Von Neumann's mixed-media "Fragment," and Estermae Riley's "Moon Mosque," a wood relief-assemblage are also well-integrated into the current theme.

"Best-in-Show" was awarded to Mary Ellen Wehrli, and merit awards were given to Marilyn Cohen, Donna McGinnis, and Eve Von Neumann.

School Boundary Shifted And Enrollment Reduced

Boundaries of Sinaloa Junior High School attendance area were changed and enrollment curtailed last night by the Novato Unified School District trustees.

The 6-0 vote came after consideration of several possibilities and was a compromise on one option suggested by the administration. Trustee Betty Machado abstained saying she did not have enough information from the staff.

Trustee Ronald D. Schenck told her she was just playing politics so she would not have to make an unpopular decision before the June election. (She is running for supervisor from the Fifth District against Arnold Baptiste.)

The area transferred from Sinaloa Junior High School to Hill Junior High School is nearly all of San Marin from San Marin High School east to Simmons Lane.

Sinaloa Junior High School was constructed to house 960 students, but in recent years has housed 1,100. The board has faced the problem for two years, but done nothing about it. It held a special meeting on it two weeks ago, but did not reach a decision then.

Novato Unified School District Board Also:

GIFTS — Accepted $1,264 from San Ramon Parent Faculty Club and $375 from the Lynwood Parent-Teacher Association, both for educational materials; $125 from the Marion Parent-Teacher Association to be used at the principal's discretion and $70 from Rancho Parent-Teacher Association for library books.

ALTERNATIVE — Received a report by three professional educators praising the alternative school. Several parents also praised it for what it had done for their children. The board approved continuing the school for another year.

CONTRACT — Renewed its contract with Sonoma County for a parttime teacher for the blind at a cost of approximately $1,400 per year.

CONSULTANTS — Hired three educational consultants at $150 per day plus expenses to interview superintendents to replace Supt. James G. Bunker, who is retiring next year. Those hired are: Dr. James Corson, retired executive secretary of the California Superintendent's Association; Dr. Harry McPherson, retired superintendent of Napa Schools, and Dr. Theodore Reller, professor of education of the University of California at Berkeley.

HELICOPTER — Permitted Marine Corps helicopter to land at Novato High playing area May 28 to 31 in connection with other armed forces in a job opportunity program.

GRADUATION — Granted Rosanna de la Torre and Leita Elliott, both juniors at Novato High School who have enough credits, to graduate one year early.

POLICY — Received and set May 28 for action on it, a policy of equal employment.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. May 28 when the board will discuss the physical education and athletic policy, and the preliminary budget.

CLOSED — Went into closed meeting to instruct their representatives on salary negotiations.

Recreational Area Travel Funds Will Be Discussed

A warning that budget cuts could turn the Golden Gate Recreational Travel Study into a "paperwork" exercise, will be heard by the studies board of control at 5:30 p.m. tomorrow at Fort Mason in San Francisco.

The protest comes from the board's citizens' advisory committee which recently heard that National Park Service requests for funds to operate trial transit runs as part of the study have been deleted from the 1974-75 budget by the Office of Management and Budget.

"A study of transportation without field work would be a theoretical exercise, based on a commuter rather than recreational patronage projection . . . in short, a paperwork transportation study," the committee statement says.

It notes that local transit systems, now designed to serve weekday commuters, have idle vehicles on weekends or holidays. Copies of the statement, asking Congress to allocate $153,000 for field trials, have been sent to California's U.S. senators and the House Appropriations Committee.

The board of control will also select consultants to investigate methods of predicting recreation travel by mode to design and monitor experimental transportation systems and to design and evaluate public information systems. Budgeted amounts for the three consultant services total $92,000.

College Plans Fall Classes In Petaluma

A spokesman for the college said the trustees approved two Petaluma staff positions Monday night, one for a coordinator and another for a clerk-typist. Faculty members for the Petaluma center will be full-time and part-time teachers from the junior college.

The Petaluma annex will be located at the San Antonio High School building, where the Petaluma High School district's adult education program is based.

The spokesman said the classes will be general in nature and won't require specialized equipment.

The 20 courses offered will be the first daytime classes taught away from the Santa Rosa campus, the spokesman said.

Potential Winner Missing From Race

A primary race that might have drawn the greatest attention, in California and across the nation, has instead stimulated less than usual interest, because of California's election laws and a court decision.

We refer to the race for the Republican nomination for United States Senate.

S. I. Hayakawa of Mill Valley, former president of San Francisco State University and widely renowned semanticist and conservative political philosopher, planned to make the race. Had he done so, national attention would have been focused on the contest, and we suspect Hayakawa would have emerged as primary winner and proved a very formidable opponent for incumbent Democrat Alan Cranston in November.

However, Hayakawa changed his registration from Democrat to Republican last August. State law requires registration in a party for one year before being a candidate in its primary. Hayakawa's challenge of the law's constitutionality was rejected by the federal courts.

THIS LEAVES three principal contenders for the GOP Senate nomination — none of them anywhere near so colorful as the Mill Valley educator. They are State Sen. H. L. (Bill) Richardson of Arcadia; Earl W. Brian, who was state secretary of health and welfare until he resigned to make the race, and James E. Johnson, state director of veterans' affairs.

Johnson has been director of veterans' affairs since last year, and prior to that was a divisional head in the veterans' affairs department. We do not consider his political background sufficient to qualify him for the United States senatorship.

Earl Brian is one of the leading "bright young men" of the Reagan administration. He was appointed to head Medi-Cal in 1970 at the age of 27, and in 1972 was made secretary of health and welfare. In that position, he was in charge of administration of the welfare reform program which has reduced welfare costs for most California counties.

Brian, who is a physician, is a young man of great self-confidence, full of "pat" answers to the state's problems. Many of his answers, however, prove on examination not to be answers at all but mere sweeping generalities.

THAT BRINGS US to Bill Richardson. We confess some hesitancy about a candidate who is a former John Birch Society official with a reputation as ultra-conservative. However, as state senator Richardson has been a keen and hard worker, not afraid to expose shortcomings in the government structure wherever they are found. He was among the first to attack the system of subsidizing counties to keep felons out of prison as a way to cut state prison costs, and documented his findings with undeniable figures. He is a fiscal conservative at a time when fiscal conservatism is especially needed in the federal government. And on many issues, he appears less "extreme right" than does Brian.

So we'll have to go along with H. L. Richardson. We wish Hayakawa were in the race.

As for Cranston, he has no Democratic opponent to worry about in the primary and can save his efforts for the November election campaign.

'Equalization Now' Spur To Voucher Plan

By RUS WALTON

Back in 1971, in Serrano vs. Priest, the California Supreme Court held that a contention that a challenge to constitutionality of the state's method of financing public education through the local property tax deserved hearing. The court suggested that differences in district tax rates and assessed values deprived students in low wealth areas of educational opportunities equal to those afforded kids in wealthier districts.

Said the court: children should have the same educational opportunities, regardless of where they live. It told California to get cracking on a plan to equalize school expenditures per student. Since then the battle has been raging between the "hawks," who want "equalization-now" and the "doves," who favor "gradualism."

IN 1972, Assemblyman Bill Bagley, R-San Rafael, came up with a formula to achieve partial equalization. It curbed the growth of expenditures in high wealth districts while allowing low wealth districts to hike their spending.

Here's how the Bagley formula works: Say a high wealth district has an assessed value of about $60,000 per student. It could increase its 1973-4 expenditures over 1972-3 by about 1.5 per cent. However, a low wealth district, with an assessed valuation of only $4,000 per student, was permitted an increase of 24 per cent. That's without voter approval.

The plan served to close the gap. Today the disparity has been cut in half. The problem with the approach, though, is that the property owners in the low wealth and middle income districts, which are allowed the largest tax increases, are already paying the highest tax rates.

At any rate, by implementing the Bagley formula as part of SB 90 in 1972, about 95 per cent of the school districts could be within five per cent of "equality" in from 15 to 16 years.

RECENTLY A SUPERIOR court judge in Los Angeles said that wasn't good enough. Quit messing around, said the judge; find a way to achieve equalization of expenditures among the 1,100 school districts within about six years.

Now, as Bagley puts it, "The appellate courts face a frightening task and the state faces an ominous fiscal problem. If 'instant equalization' is ordered, we will see either an instant ripping-off of districts with enriched programs, resulting in mediocrity . . . or, the state will be required to raise taxes to the tune of about one billion dollars to increase levels of expenditures of all 'lower wealth' districts."

Either way, says Bagley, it could bring educational, social and economic chaos.

BILL CAMPBELL, a former school administrator and state legislator who is running for the Assembly this year, sees the court decree as another reason to adopt the education "voucher" plan.

Under that plan, the state would subsidize the student rather than the system. Each year it would provide the parents of a school child with an education voucher. The voucher would increase in dollar value as the child progressed through the grades and could be "spent" at a school of the parents' choice.

Says Campbell, "In view of the courts' decisions, the voucher plan would instigate an equalization of expenditures per student while holding state intervention in local school policies to a minimum."

And there, of course, is the dark side of the equalization demand. If the state takes over the funding of local schools — if it institutes a statewide property tax, for example, and distributes that to the local districts — it will sure as heck gradually take over complete control of the schools.

The voucher plan is being tried in New Hampshire. California should give it a look-see

ERNEST B. FURGURSON

President Nixon's Travail: Two Views

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — The night before the House Judiciary Committee began its historic hearings on the evidence against Mr. Nixon, Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Me., made a broad, thoughtful speech in Erie, Pa., on "Congress and the Presidency." His prepared talk may have been the only sustained conversation in the country that night that did not even breathe the word "impeachment."

Muskie's name is not on everyone's lips as a possible presidential candidate now, the way it was at this point before the 1972 primaries began. But while the masses may not be clamoring for him this month, Muskie himself still thinks in presidential terms. He is being statesmanlike.

When he talked about Congress and the presidency, he looked backward only long enough to tick off the institutional grievances this Congress holds against this president and his predecessors, and he looked forward beyond what is happening at the capitol this week and next.

PRECISELY BECAUSE both Congress and the President have sunk so low in public esteem as measured in the polls, there should be support now for reforms that met only disinterest before, he said hopefully.

Some of what he had to say was mooted by the House Democratic Caucus' vote that very day to reject the noble congressional reform package pushed by Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo. But Muskie dealt mainly with interbranch relations, rather than Congress' management of its own houses.

As Muskie said: "The imbalance of power between Congress and the president is a fact of life today. It will not disappear through wishful thinking . . . It undermines the meaning of our experiment in constitutional democracy, and we must come to grips with it . . ."

But the issue that is the key to congressional assertion of its own status is the one Muskie tried to avoid at Erie, on grounds that he soon may be sitting as a member of the jury involved. It is impeachment.

NOTHING CONGRESS may do about its own rules and about the interbranch inequities Muskie admits are too complex and abstract for everyday excitement — none of this will matter a whit if either house of Congress comes up to the day of decision on impeachment and backs down despite the facts.

A few months or even three weeks ago, there was a vague consensus here that just that might happen. There was an unscientific assumption that the Judiciary Committee probably would return a bill of impeachment, the House might vote impeachment, but the senate probably would not convict the president.

That was before Mrs. Nixon let go the tape transcripts, and before he openly defied the committee's subpoena for more data. Now, those earlier assumptions have changed. Now there is a growing feeling of inevitability in the capital.

Very few senators will comment for the record on how they will vote on all this. But with the help of colleagues who monitor both public statements and private gossip in Congress every day, and carefully giving Mr. Nixon the benefit of every doubtful vote, I have added up the senators who, as of now, can be classified either (1) nearly certain or (2) probably-possibly on Mr. Nixon's side on the ultimate roll call.

THE NEAR CERTAINTIES include James Allen, D-Ala.; Henry Bellmon, R-Okla.; Wallace Bennett, R-Utah; Norris Cotton, R-N.H.; Edward Gurney, R-Fla.; Russell Long, D-La.; Paul Fannin, R-Ariz.; Roman Hruska, R-Neb.; James Eastland, D-Miss.; Carl Curtis, R-Neb.; Strom Thurmond, R-S.C.; William Lloyd Scott, R-Va., and perhaps Jesse Helms, R-N.C., John Stennis, D-Miss., and John Tower R-Tex., a maximum of 15.

The probables and possibles include John McClellan, D-Ark.; Peter Dominick, R-Colo.; Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.; J. Glenn Beall, R-Md.; William Brock, R-Tenn.; Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii; Hugh Scott, R-Pa.; Howard Baker, R-Tenn.; Dewey Bartlett, R-Okla.; Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M.; Robert Griffin, R-Mich.; Clifford Hansen, R-Wyo.; J. Bennett Johnston, D-La.; James McClure, R-Ida.; Ted Stevens, R-Alaska; Harry Byrd, Ind.-Va., and Robert Taft, R-Ohio, which is being extremely generous, counting several who already have expressed serious reservations. Even with them, the total reaches only 32. The president needs 34 to survive in office.

Yet there is one proviso about any advance head count. No present senator has ever voted on such a matter before. There is still the chance that some will flinch at the moment of truth. But if they honor their consciences when this vote comes, then all the other problems of congressional status that Muskie is worried about will shrink into perspective.

1974, Baltimore Sun.

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Unless President Nixon is prepared to plead guilty to an impeachable crime — and he avows he has no reason to do so — it would be far better for him to stand trial before the Congress of the United States than to resign.

Resignation will resolve little. But it would provide a haven to save every congressman from having to stand up and be counted and, however the votes, possibly putting his re-election in jeopardy. Pressing for resignation is just a cowardly way out.

The impeachment process will resolve much.

RESIGNATION BEFORE the evidence has been heard and judged would perpetuate all the agonizing uncertainties which now grip the nation. It would make it difficult, perhaps nearly impossible, for a successor president to bring about the reconciliation and trust so urgently needed.

Only the orderly process provided by the Constitution can effectively resolve the guilt or innocence of the president and gain general acceptance of the verdict whichever way it goes.

The impeachment process can be a restorative and would help the nation recover its political health, poise and self-confidence.

Impeachment is the only constitutional way of dealing with this problem.

THE WHITE HOUSE appears to accept the prospect that the Judiciary Committee will recommend articles of impeachment. This means that the House will soon be engaged in debating — on live television I hope — what its decision should be.

As important as the verdict itself will be the willingness of the American people to accept that verdict in good spirit. Public opinion should not dictate the verdict any more than it should dictate the verdict of any jury. But if the impeachment verdict, for or against, is to be accepted by most Americans in good faith so that we can get on with healing the republic, then Americans must be in a position to listen to all of the evidence, not just part of it, and get it direct, not filtered through reportorial selectivity.

TWO OTHER FACTORS should be borne in mind.

As we begin pondering the impeachment evidence, there will likely be a good deal of talk about "what's good for the country." That's not the issue. The issue is whether a president has committed a criminal act which is impeachable. The issue is what verdict the evidence will require. The issue is justice and fairness.

If the verdict is visibly just and fair, stemming demonstrably from the evidence, that will be the best possible medicine for the country. Under such a verdict the country will take care of itself.

Finally, whether one is friendly to the president or hostile, it seems to me that all of us ought to do our best, as the board of trustees of Freedom House recently urged, to "reach a judgment, not on prejudiced or frivolous grounds but on grounds which would apply equally to any president in another time and circumstance."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Felson Defends Proposed Legislation

I noted the letter by Clyde Jones of May 6 criticizing my efforts to have responsible state legislation passed to alleviate the water shortage problems at Fort Barry, Fort Cronkhite, Muir Woods and Wolfback Ridge.

The original state water code was developed many years ago in direct response to the needs of irrigation districts in the San Joaquin Valley. The legislation introduced by Assemblyman John Knox is an attempt to modify the state code to meet current water supply needs. At present the water district cannot supply separate water users during a threatened emergency water shortage and would necessarily have to cut off users who have been traditionally supplied for many years . . .

With the unanimous approval of the MMWD board, I asked Assemblyman Knox . . . to introduce the bill for the MMWD. Hearings on AB 3859 will be held June 19 and we encourage all interested parties on both sides of the issue to appear.

Housing Authority Procedure Explained

In an article entitled "Problems of Single Mothers" published May 7, Brenda Volberg reported she had applied with the Housing Authority of the County of Marin for a leased housing unit and was told she would have to be without housing for three months in order to qualify.

The eligibility requirements for housing operated by this authority are based on income and family composition. Income information provided by the applicant is verified prior to the application interview. During the interview, the priority of the applicant is established based on his housing need. At that time the applicant's name is installed on the application waiting list according to their priority, date of application and unit size required.

It is not the policy or practice of the Housing Authority of the County of Marin to require an applicant to be actually without housing for a minimum period of time before they would be considered eligible . . .

The length of time it takes to house an applicant is wholly dependent upon their priority, date of application and the rate at which vacancies occur.

Smith Corrects Error In Editorial Statement

I appreciate your recent editorial discussing some of the basic issues in the Tamalpais district school board election and especially the consideration you gave my proposal for an academic option in all three high schools. However, I would like to clarify one point in the article. I served on a district advisory committee concerned with a specific issue, not the general district citizens advisory committee . . .

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Frills And Field Trips — And Girl Who Didn't Learn

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Of the many letters received in response to this weekly column, two recent ones seem so important they should be shared with other readers.

Roger Colman of Sherman Oaks capsuled what seem to be the concerns of many so neatly that I pass on his words:

"EDUCATION STARTED off to teach everyone to read, 'rite' and 'rithmetic' — this to give everyone the tools to achieve more or higher education if they wished.

"I do not mind paying taxes for this. I do object to paying for educators who are building an empire through which they get high salaries (compared to their teaching ability) and a tenured position.

"I am very opposed to paying for such things as classes in high school on 'Learning To Find Yourself' or other such nonsense. If a student wants this he should pay for it separately. Also I am mildly opposed to sex education and field trips. These are the responsibilities of the parents.

"I paid my taxes and found the time to take my children to museums, to the harbor, to factories, to the beach or to nearby mountains to show them the marvels of nature. So in addition to paying to do these things, I paid taxes so that other parents had a baby sitter to take their kids on school-sponsored trips."

THE SECOND LETTER is from a reader in Sepulveda. Because of its personal nature, I will not use her name. It was written in direct response to a recent column reporting the contention of San Francisco Unified School District, in a suit brought against it on behalf of "Peter W. Doe," that the schools have no responsibility to teach.

"The day before your article appeared in the Herald Examiner," wrote the Sepulveda reader, "I took my seventh grade 12-year-old daughter to a psychologist for an academic evaluation. She has been getting failing grades this school year.

"All through grammar school she received high grades — and excellent grades in conduct and effort, as she still is.

"The results of testing were astounding to the psychologist and to me. The child has a very definite learning disability, including audio and visual perception problems. The psychologist asked me if anywhere along her grammar school years any teacher remarked to me about her learning disabilities. Unfortunately, never had any of these so-called educators done so. Therefore our only conclusion after reading your article is that she has been 'warehoused' by the damn system for seven years.

"The doctor said it was amazing how the child has held up emotionally as well as she has, considering the inner frustrations she has had.

"From here we must go into expensive education therapy, which possibly could have been avoided had this problem been picked up four or five years ago."

THE LITTLE GIRL in Sepulveda was promoted annually because her conduct was good and she was obviously trying hard to learn. Finally, in seventh grade, she got a teacher who reported honestly that she was not learning, and this caused her parents to try to find out why.

If she had been retained in one of the lower grades, because she was not learning, the need for corrective therapy might have been discovered much earlier — obviously to the benefit of the child.

But the philosophy of the public schools (nearly all of them, anyhow) is that a child must remain with his or her "peer group," regardless of learning or lack of it.

Besides, the little girl's behavior was good, and she tried hard. And this good behavior itself may have prevented her being referred to the school psychologist (assuming the district has one) — for, after all, she was no problem to the teachers.

She probably enjoyed the field trips as much as any of the other children. And if she had continued to receive passing grades for failing work until she reached high school, she could then have taken a course in "Learning To Find Yourself."

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By MARY LEYDECKER

Casual Suggestion Turns Into A Rousing Centennial

It seems to me it happened about a year ago at a dull session where the San Rafael City Council was discussing its budget for the coming year.

Someone, maybe Mayor C. Paul Bettini, mentioned that 1974 was San Rafael's centennial year and said something to the effect, "I guess we ought to do something — maybe have a parade."

Someone else suggested that maybe the Chamber of Commerce would like to take over the whole project or the Parks and Recreation Commission.

For some months, not much of anything happened. Then last fall, the city council tentatively set September and October for a centennial celebration. A committee was named, and the public was invited to join in.

And join in, they did.

FROM THE SMALL ACORN of a few casual remarks that it would be nice to do something, a very large oak has grown.

It is not only a large tree — but probably the most colorful one in San Rafael's history.

As every San Rafael schoolchild now knows, the centennial will become a reality at the end of this week — with 10 days of an extravagant list of activities planned.

The parade, proposed at first in such an offhand manner, has turned into the biggest in Marin's history — and some say, in Northern California's. It also well may be the noisiest, with a large number of bands and other musical groups entered.

More than 40 floats have been entered, along with lots of horses, surreys, antique cars, and marching units.

But the parade, on Sunday, May 26, is only a small part.

There will be performances of "Jubilee," a musical written especially for the occasion, concerts, displays, a country fair complete with a hot-air balloon, fashion shows, luncheons, a ball with old-time favorite Ernie Hecksher's orchestra, a yacht regatta, fireworks, and an old schooner on display.

I've probably forgotten several more events —many of which, like daily tours, will involve local schoolchildren.

WHILE SOME RESIDENTS of outlying regions like Novato and Sausalito have been heard to grumble about San Rafael's centennial, San Rafael residents seem to have developed an enthusiasm probably unprecedented in a city not especially noted for cohesiveness.

Oldtimers, newcomers, school children, civic groups, merchants, and endless others are joining in the effort.

Maybe in today's world, where most things seem beyond local or personal control, the chance to relive the past, participate in something intended only to be fun, and get to know one's neighbors is irresistible.

A Community Recycling Proposal Given To Novato Sanitary Board

A community recycling proposal that would involve separation of garbage has been presented to the Novato Sanitary District board by Neill Smith of Marin Environmental Cooperative.

The program, designed to encourage recycling, was referred Monday night to the district's refuse disposal committee for study, Dist. Mgr. Charles A. Joseph said.

As proposed garbage would be divided into paper, organic garbage, such as food and clippings, and trash, Joseph said.

Under a voluntary program recyclable items such as cans, bottles, newspapers and metals would be taken to depots and sold to Marin Environmental Cooperative.

The board also authorized spending $3,600 for sludge pump equipment at the Novato treatment plant, and adjourned to 6 p.m. May 28, instead of the regularly schedule May 27 meeting because of Memorial Day holiday.

THE MIND I LIVE IN

'Preventive Probation': Can It Fit The Crime?

By ROB TREICHLER

An unusual sentence was handed down to a pickpocket in Los Angeles Superior Court. Besides one year in jail, the light-fingered felon will be required to wear mittens whenever venturing out into public for the next five years.

This sentence brings to mind many hoary chestnuts about the deterrent effects of punishment on crime. In medieval times, when pickpockets were publically beheaded, the crowds present for the festivities were always well worked over by the the pickpockets. And in jurisdictions where the punishment fit the crime, and pickpockets' hands were severed, the public's pockets were nimbly fleeced by one-hand thieves.

SENTENCING SUCH as this, if it caught on, would have some interesting ramifications. Can you imagine the difficulty of maintaining parole if you lost your mittens in mid-summer? It is also possible the judge may inadvertently have brought into existence a new type of crime, pocket-picking with mittens.

Preventive probation, I guess you would call it.

Firebugs would have to learn to use flint and steel if prohibited from playing with matches. "I'll light your cigarette for you, my dear. You don't happen to have any dry tinder, perchance?"

Second-story men and others whose crimes are committed in stealth, I suppose would be required to wear bells and bright orange jerseys with "thief" emblazoned front and rear. I guess they might work in a service station with this outfit and no one would be the wiser.

We might even return to the scarlet letter emblazoned on the forehead of ladies of the night. Actually, the gentlemen that find these ladies so accommodating have never really been interested what goes on in their minds, and it is doubtful they would be concerned with what is on it either. Beginners in the profession would undoubtedly aspire to earning their "letter" to insure a steady flow of business.

SOME CRIMES don't lend themselves readily to proper preventive probation. What would one do with convicted perjurers and politicians legally removed from office? Face it, this type of crime will account for an ever-larger segment of our prisoners of the future, and we must prepare intelligently for them. Many, if the fall from grace begins from a high enough position, profit handsomely by writing a book of memoirs. Maybe a prohibition on writing anything for publication under their name would suffice. Then they would have to serve a time of penance by selling cars or real estate, and in these professions most persons would automatically be wary of all their claims.

If all the solutions could be worked out, it would be hard to fault the Los Angeles judge on his originality and aptness of thought, but one must question his touch with reality. Considering the extremely large percentage of criminals that go back to jail for new crimes and/or parole and probation violations, it would be extremely easy and embarrassingly simple to be known to the world as the judge who sent a man back to prison for not wearing his mittens.

Skull Believed 200,000 Years Old Is Found

PARIS (UPI) — French paleontologists working in Ethiopia told the Academy of Sciences yesterday they have found part of the skull of a prehistoric man who lived at least 200,000 years ago.

Their report said that if confirmed, the find would be the first trace of the primate pithecanthropus discovered in East Africa.

Jean Piveteau, a paleolontologist and a member of the Academy who introduced the report, said the find was made during diggings conducted by a French team, led by Jean Chavaillon, at Melka-Kontoure, in the Upper Aouache valley, 30 miles from Addis Ababa.

The skull apparently belonged to a young person, according to the report. Its owner apparently in an era near the extinction of the race. Paleontologists have found remnants of a prehistoric man known as Pithecanthropus some two million years old in Java and others at Olduvai, Tanzania, dating one million years back.

Son Of JFK Is Robber's Victim

NEW YORK (UPI) — John F. Kennedy Jr., 13, son of the late President, was robbed of his bike and a tennis racket yesterday in Central Park while on his way to a tennis lesson, the New York Times reported today.

He was not injured, the Times said.

According to the Times, a youth about 18 years old, grabbed the bike and tennis racket from young Kennedy at 5:10 p.m. on the park's East Drive at the 90th Street entrance, then rode off into the park.

The boy informed police of the incident and was driven around the park in a patrol car, but did not spot his assailant, the Times said.

WHAT'S IN STORE..... SUCH A TWIST!

Which amazing product can you use to freshen your garbage disposal, remove certain stains, polish copper pots or whip up a pie? It grows on a tree and is often maligned when its name is used to describe a manufactured failure. Of course, it's the lemon.

Just a twist of its juice brightens a fish dish, a fruit cobbler or a cool beverage. "Ubiquitous" seems almost inadequate when describing its multiple uses.

A cut lemon lasts for days if placed in the refrigerator. It even refreshes the interior of the box while waiting to perform its next miracle as a garnish or to yield grated lemon rind for a vegetable or dessert dish.

Having grown up in the middle of a citrus grove, I learned at an early age to appreciate the potency of this natural Vitamin C-packed package. Licking a lemon was our real "cure-all" for wintertime ailments. But a more satisfying benefit from that early environment was Mom's lemon meringue pie. I'll share the recipe.

LEMON MERINGUE PIE

1 cup sugar
1/8 tsp. salt
4 tbsp. flour
1 cup boiling water
1 large lemon, juice and grated rind
3 beaten egg yolks
3 stiffly beaten egg whites
1 tsp. butter
3 tbsp. sugar
9" baked pie shell

Pie Filling

In top of a double boiler, mix one cup sugar, salt and flour. Add boiling water and stir to a paste. Put mixture over — not in — hot water in the bottom of the double boiler. Beat egg yolk with juice of a large lemon. Add grated lemon rind. Mix small amount of the hot mixture with egg and lemon mixture, then add to the rest of the hot mixture. Cook until thick. Remove from heat. Add butter and 1/3 of the beaten egg whites. Stir quickly. Put filling into baked pie shell.

Meringue

Add 3 tbsp. sugar to the remaining egg whites. Beat until stiff and glossy. Place over pie, carefully sealing to crust. Bake in 300°-325° oven until golden.

Reeves Denounces Burton For Having Arrest Record

Alan F. Reeves of San Francisco, candidate for the Democratic nomination in the Fifth Congressional District and for the election to the same seat for the remainder of this year, today denounced a fellow candidate for having an arrest record.

Reeves cited three arrests of Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, one of which led to a conviction.

The sole conviction was for putting slugs in a parking meter in 1958. Burton was fined $25, according to Reeves.

A second arrest, while Burton was a deputy attorney general for the state during 1962, was on suspicion of bookmaking, Reeves said. Burton was found not guilty after a trial by a judge, Reeves reported.

The third arrest cited by Reeves was on suspicion of "transportation of illegal gambling machines," but he said he did not know the outcome of the case.

Reeves conceded that Burton's "record" appeared minor, but argued that "this is the year of Watergate." Candidates for high office should be above reproach, he said, adding he himself never has been arrested.

"It is high time that the people of San Francisco and Marin counties know the full record of those who present themselves to the electorate," Reeves declared.

SILVESTRI — George J. Silvestri Jr. of Novato, candidate for the Democratic nomination in the Ninth Assembly District, has asserted that "population control belongs in our bedrooms, not on our water boards." Marin Municipal Water District's moratorium on new connections, he said, "is unconscionable without detailed, careful study of both short and long term effects. We need to control development by comprehensive land use planning, not by simplistic 'water politics.' All we have received as a result of the latter are artifically inflated housing costs and climbing MMWD litigation expenses," he said.

Campaign parties for Silvestri will be held: 8 p.m. today at the Ignacio home of Mrs. Michael J. Collins Jr., 1050 Calle Empinado; 3 p.m. Sunday at the Mill Valley home of Mrs. J. Patrick Goggins, 475 Throckmorton Avenue; 8 p.m. next Wednesday at the Kentfield home of Mrs. Alwyn K. Safholm, 340 Kent Avenue, and noon on May 25 at his campaign headquarters, 1011 Lincoln Avenue.

TRANSPORTATION — Candidates for Congress and the state Legislature have provided statements of their views on transportation to Marin Alternative, and copies of their statements have been filed with public libraries throughout Marin.

NOVATO — Arnold M. Baptiste, seeking reelection as Marin County supervisor in the Fifth District, and his challenger, Betty Machado, will speak before the Novato Chamber of Commerce at noon on May 23 at the Alvarado Inn, Ignacio.

FELSON — Jack R. Felson of Forest Knolls, candidate for the Democratic nomination in the Ninth Assembly District, has called for "total revision" of the state's tax code to shift taxes to incomes and away from middle and lower income property owners and renters. Without reform, he said, middle-income taxpayers may face a 10 per cent hike in taxes next year to equalize school district financing throughout the state.

A fund-raising "family day" at Felson's Forest Farm Camp will be held from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday. Activities will include horseback rides, swimming and other sports. A coffee for Felson will be held at 8 p.m. next Wednesday at the Petaluma home of Anthony Caetano, 319 Howard Street.

MACHADO — Betty Machado, candidate for the fifth supervisorial district seat, will speak at a meeting of the Novato Jaycees at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at Pickering's restaurant, Novato. Mrs. Machado also will appear before the Marin Valley Mobile Homes Association, Ignacio, at 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday.

Coffees for Mrs. Machado will be at 8 p.m. Friday at the home of C. Ray Roe, 1456 Novato Boulevard; 10:30 a.m. next Wednesday at the home of Shannon Murphy, 19 Carisa Court; and 8 p.m. May 24, at the home of Neil Battaglio, 8 Thornton Court.

LAFOLLETTE — A reception for Marian W. LaFollette, candidate for the Republican nomination for state controller, will be held at 8 p.m. Friday at the Fairfax home of Gloria Duncan, 340 Olema Road.

CANDIDATES — A candidates' night for contestants for Marin County district attorney and Tamalpais High School District trustee will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Redwood High School's English Resource Center.

CAYLOR — Thomas O. Caylor of San Francisco, candidate for the Republican nomination in the Fifth Congressional District and for election to the same seat for the remainder of this year, opposes Proposition 9, the ballot measure to limit campaign spending. Saying it "contains some dangerous inroads on First Amendment freedoms," Caylor objected its reqquirement that contributors to campaigns list their employers could subject them "to harrassment and intimidation from their employers."

A wine tasting party for Caylor will be held at 4 p.m. Saturday at the Shelter Ridge Clubhouse, Mill Valley. Speakers will be Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr. of Los Angeles and San Francisco Supervisor John L. Molinari.

BROCKBANK — Coffees for Elaine Brockbank of Kentfield, candidate for Tamalpais High School District trustee, will be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Fairfax home of Mrs. Michael Dunia, 99 Porteous Drive, and 8 p.m. Friday at the Mill Valley home of Dr. Mardi Horowitz, 350 LaVerne Avenue.

FLOURNOY — Houston I. Flournoy, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, has named his Marin campaign officers: Stevens Manning Jr. of Belvedere, chairman; Nathan Edward Jones of Tiburon, cochairman; Kathe Thayer of Tiburon, cochairman and treasurer, and Gerald D. Wilson of Ross, finance chairman. The campaign has opened headquarters at 1029 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

CONNICK — Harry A. Connick of San Rafael, candidate for Marin County district attorney, has called for more emphsasis on research into alcoholism. He termed it "one of the most serious illnesses in the country," needing the sort of intensive medical reserach now given cancer and heart disease.

GALLINAS VALLEY — A candidates' night for contestants in Marin Municipal Water District's Division 1 and for Marin County district attorney will be held by the Las Gallinas Valley Presidents' Council at 7:30 p.m. May 23 in the planning commission chambers at the Civic Center.

BRUNSWIG — A coffee for John K. Brunswig of San Anselmo, candidate for Ross Valley Sanitary District director, will be held at 8 p.m. today at the Fairfax home of Michael E. Folster, 433 Oak Manor Drive.

DELAPLANE — Susan A. Delaplane of Tiburon, candidate for the Republican nomination in the Ninth Assembly District, has called for elimination of tenure for public school teachers, "an inadequate teacher can bluff it through for two years and then get a sinecure for life," she said.

TUNNEY — Gene Tunney of Glen Ellen, candidate for Sonoma County District attorney, has promised to have an "open door policy" in his office if elected. Tunney said he would have certain hours set aside each week in Santa Rosa, Petaluma and Sonoma offices so residents would not be kept waiting "inordinate amounts of time" when they have business with the district attorney.

NEUER — Paul Neuer of Santa Rosa, candidate for Sonoma County sheriff, has attacked incumbent Sheriff Donald Striepeke for using "childish vocabulary" in a "silly attempt to moralize the law." Neuer said the sheriff's use of the term "bad guys" in speeches and interviews is improper because "we don't need a sheriff to tell us what is good and bad. It isn't his place to make such judgments. It is his place to enforce the law, not moralize it."

JOERGER — Philip L. Joerger of Petaluma, incumbent second district Sonoma supervisor seeking reelection, has said he will urge other supervisors to join Petaluma in appealing the federal court decision which struck down the city's growth control policy. He said the county must protect growth control policies which will be included in the county general plan, and which are threatened by the Petaluma ruling.

INITIATIVE — An initiative to make it easier for minority parties to qualify for the California ballot is being circulated in Marin until May 28, the deadline to get the measure on the November general election ballot. Alan W. Barnett of Mill Valley is handling the petitions. The "voters choice initiative" would cut from 10 to 1 the percentage of registered voters needed to qualify a party by signing its petitions.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

'1974 Nonsmokers' Bill Reaches Assembly Floor

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation restricting smoking in restaurants, hospitals and public meeting rooms and banning it in theaters has reached the Assembly floor.

The two companion bills (AB2755-2766) by Assemblyman John V. Briggs, R-Fullerton, were approved yesterday on a minimum 4-0 vote by the Criminal Justice Committee.

The legislation, dubbed the "1974 nonsmokers' bill of rights," requires nonsmoking areas to be designated in restaurants, hospitals, public meetings and common carriers such as trains. Smoking would be prohibited in theaters, except in lobbies.

Smoking violators would be punishable by a fine up to $50. Any citizen could bring legal action if he or she caught a person smoking in a nonsmoking zone or if the proprietor failed to designate nonsmoking areas.

No testimony was taken at the committee hearing yesterday. At past hearings, the bills were opposed by tobacco companies and supported by citizens who contended they had a right to nonsmoking areas in public places.

Similar legislation by Briggs was killed last year by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, which will not consider this year's measures for technical reasons. The bills would take effect on April 1, 1975.

PLAN KILLED

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A proposed constitutional amendment outlawing strikes by public employees has been killed by the Assembly Employment and Public Employes Committee.

The measure (ACA105) by Assemblyman Mike Antonovich, R-Glendale, died yesterday for the lack of a second to move it out of the committee.

INTEREST PLAN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Reagan administration has indicated it will support legislation giving state employees 2 million in interest earned on money set aside to finance 10 months of retroactive pay.

The state attorney general's office, in a letter yesterday to the California State Employes Association (CSEA), said it agreed the interest, averaging 4.5 per cent, should go to the employees.

The letter quoted state Finance Director Verne Orr as saying the legislation would be needed to free the money.

SPEED LIMITS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill designed to increase the speed limit to 65 miles an hour on remote rural California freeways but maintain the 55 m.p.h. limit in all other areas has passed its first committee test in the Assembly.

The Transportation Committee yesterday approved the bill (AB3610) by Assemblyman Robert Badham, R-Newport Beach, on a minimum 9-4 vote and sent it to the Ways and Means Committee.

REWARD OFFERS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation offering large state rewards for the capture and conviction of political kidnapers such as the Symbionese Liberation Army has advanced in the Senate.

The measures (SB1861-62) by Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, cleared the Senate Judiciary Committee yesterday on 9-1 and 9-2 votes and were sent to the Finance Committee.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Sun Is Helpful For Psoriasis But Too Much Can Be Harmful

Psoriasis victims find that exposure to the sun improves their skin condition. During the summer, however, they should avoid sunburn because it may produce a more serious form of the disease. Sunburn is a form of injury, but any damage to the skin of a person with psoriasis should be avoided because new lesions often develop over areas that have been cut, scratched, or irritated with strong chemicals.

PSORIATIC PLAQUES have cropped out in a tattoo, infected insect bite, fresh vacination, or around a nail damaged during a manicure. New lesions may also develop in the anal area from the overzealous use of toilet tissue. A carpenter with psoriasis is likely to have more trouble with his right hand due to mechanical trauma. It is also well known that the silvery lesions are more common on the elbows and knees which are subject to considerable wear and tear.

Old Sol is a double-edge sword, especially when the individual has been sensitized to the rays by taking certain medications or using certain soaps, lotions, or ointments. In contrast, tar is a favorite remedy because it sensitizes the skin (photosensitivity) to the ultraviolet or the rays of the sun. But when these kinds of products are used, the individual should avoid overexposure.

SKIN REACTIONS to certain drugs may also precipitate a psoriatic outbreak. As a result, sensitivity tests should be done before taking penicillin or other antibiotics. Risk is also involved when victims of psoriasis undergo plastic surgery.

Psoriasis is an unpredictable skin disorder. Trivial forms of psoriasis may be considered cosmetic defects easily managed with simple salves and ointments. Severe forms of the disease tax the ingenuity of the physician and his patient. Large, coherent plaques covered by silvery scales are the most conspicuous feature of the disease. One or two areas or two-thirds of the body may be involved. Favorite sites include the elbows, knees, scalp, back, and chest.

Dr. Van Dellen welcomes reader questions. While he cannot reply to them individually, he will answer those of general interest in his column. Write to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

HANDICAPPED KIDNEYS

J. A. writes: What is meant by overworked kidneys?

REPLY

This term could mean frequent or excessive urination or handicapped kidneys that are struggling to do a normal job. You ought to ask your physician what he meant, because "overworked kidneys" is not a diagnosis and may just be one of his pet expressions.

FOODS, COMPLEXION

B. C. writes: What foods will improve the complexion?

REPLY

This is an individual problem, because certain foods cause blemishes in some, but not others. Outside of a balanced diet, no particular food will improve the condition of the skin. Many factors play a role along this line, including exposure to the sun and wind, cleanliness, and heredity.

URIC ACID AND MUSCLES

B. L. K. writes: Can uric acid affect the muscles as well as the joints?

REPLY

Yes — also the skin and kidneys. But joint involvement is the commonest manifestation of gout.

Comments On Yosemite Cabin Plans Are Sought

I-J Special Report

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK — Deadline for public comment on a proposal to replace 150 rustic cabin units in Yosemite National Park with 150 new units is next Tuesday, a Sierra Club spokesman said today.

The replacement proposal by park concessionaires Yosemite Park and Curry Co. violate the National Park Service's long-time policy of phasing out tourist accommodations on the valley floor, according to Gil Deane, Sierra Club spokesman.

He said a poorly publicized public hearing on the proposal was held in Yosemite May 7, but that public comment on the matter may still be mailed to the superintendent of Yosemite National Park, P.O. Box 577, by a May 21 deadline.

Fewer Students But Spending Is Reported Up

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — There were fewer students in California schools during the 1972-73 school year and more money was spent on them, Controller Houston I. Flournoy reports.

In an annual report on school financing, Flournoy yesterday disclosed that during the previous school year:

Enrollment, based on average daily attendance, dropped three-tenths of a per cent or 13,514 to 5,202,728 for kindergarten through junior college.

School spending was up 6 per cent for a total of $6.26 billion, an average of $1,202 per student which was an increase of $135 from the previous year.

School revenues increased 9 per cent over the year to total $6.42 billion.

Live People Coming Back On Children's TV Shows

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Real people are coming back to Saturday morning children's television.

Not only are live-action shows replacing some animated cartoons, but the shows are being infused with social and educational values. Each network has its own educators and counselors to advise it.

The three networks will present nine live-action shows in the fall season, compared with five last year. For the first time, producers previously involved only in nighttime entertainment will have children's shows.

What it adds up to is yet another new look for Saturday morning.

Children's television, constantly under pressure from the government and activist groups such as Action for Children's Television, has undergone numerous facelifts in recent years.

Joseph M. Teritero, NBC's vice president for children's programs, said, "What these people are talking about has a great deal of merit. It's made the industry stop and take a look at itself.

"But even without it, I would have felt this responsibility because of my own concern for what my own children watch."

What the trend toward live-action shows will mean for children's programming remains to be seen. The networks say that this year is better than ever, but they always say that.

Cartoons have been associated with what critics say is wrong with Saturday morning programming — superheros, violence, shabby production values and mindless entertainment.

Cartoons originally squeezed out live-action shows in the early 1960s because they could be made more cheaply. Live-action costs skyrocketed, but in recent years they have leveled off. And the costs of animation have caught up.

This, more than anything, was the reason for the new live-action trend.

Teritero said, "One of our new live-action shows is 'Run, Joe, Run,' about a runaway dog. We had a similar concept presented to us in animation. But we went with the live-action show because the appeal is that of a real dog."

The producer of that show, Bill D'Angelo, is one of the nighttime producers moving into Saturday morning. D'Angelo is a former executive producer of "Love, American Style."

Frank Peppiatt and John Aylesworth, who did "The Julie Andrews Show" and "Hee Haw," will produce CBS' "Harlem Globetrotters Popcorn Machine," which promises important social messages within the framework of music and comedy.

Allan Blye and Chris Bearde, producers of "The Sonny and Cher Comedy Hour," have CBS' "The Hudson Brothers Razzle Dazzle Comedy Show." The Hudsons, in the Marx Brothers style, will intertwine their comedy with messages on family love, fair play, honesty and the rights of the individual.

Hollywood Unions Seek Limit On The Number Of TV Reruns

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Does the television season get shorter every year? Reruns seem to come earlier and earlier.

The fact is that season has been rather stable for about five years. With an average of 22 to 24 original shows, repeats have begun in early March since 1969.

Is the season too short? Nearly everyone shares this view, except the three television networks.

More than 50 per cent of all network nighttime programming during a year is devoted to reruns. But hefty network profits in 1973, up substantially from the previous year, could weaken the network argument that increasing the original shows would have a shattering economic impact.

A "consumer petition" by a film editor is before the Federal Communications Commission to limit the number of reruns of a weekly show to 13 a year. The petition, which may be acted on soon, asks that the networks be required to air 39 original programs within a year, as they did in 1960 before reruns began to increase to the present level.

The Caucus for Producers, Writers and Directors is calling for a minimum of 32 original programs in a year.

The networks, citing the high cost of production, have countered that the present number of reruns is essential to the economic stability of the industry.

This year the reruns actually started a bit later than usual because the shows premiered later in the fall due to a writers' strike.

At CBS, where all of the weekly series run to 24 original episodes, "Hawaii Five-O" began reruns March 5. "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," "M-A-S-H" and "The Bob Newhart Show" went into reruns March 9.

The Hollywood unions see the large number of reruns as a significant contributor to the industry's chronic unemployment and underemployment. The unions banded together nearly two years ago to organize a campaign called STOP — Save Television Original Programming.

The FCC is considering a petition from Bernard A. Balmuth, a film editor, to limit the number of reruns to 13 shows a year. The Hollywood unions have joined in the petition. The FCC staff is now preparing a report on the possibility of proposing a rule change and calling a hearing.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Women After More Broadcasting Jobs

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — A national women's group whose members work in the communications industry hopes to reduce claims by some industry executives they can't find "qualified" women for key jobs in their firms.

"We want to make it harder to say that," says Patricia L. Nealin, a Chicago broadcast executive installed last weekend as the new president of American Women in Radio and Television—AWRT.

She said the AWRT effort doesn't involve legal action, but instead consists of a soon-to-be-published national registry that will list the qualifications and abilities of AWRT members.

The idea, she says, is to give communications industry executives a helping hand when they're looking for women to fill positions in broadcasting, advertising, public relations and allied fields.

Miss Nealin, who said her organization has 2,333 members, said the registry needn't be used "strictly for a job exchange, although that would be one use of it.

"It also will enable us to supply names of women for service on federal commissions and for honorary appointments to various advisory committees.

"This information has been requested of us from time to time, and we haven't been able to pull it all together in one spot until now. So we're going to do that in the next two or three months."

Miss Nealin, manager of films at WGN-TV in Chicago, said the registry will be available at AWRT's office in Washington, D.C.

It'll also be mailed, she addd, to the National Association of Broadcasters, the National Cable Television Association, the Federal Communications Commission, state broadcasters' associations and probably radio and TV stations in the nation's major markets.

With the booklet, she said, "we are going to be able to say to management, in broadcasting and allied fields, 'We have all of our members registered professionally. If you need help in finding experts, expertise, executives, managers, ask us.

"We think we can help you.'" Miss Nealin, whose organization was founded 23 years ago, said the organization traditionally has believed in persuasion, not litigation, as means of opening job opportunities for women in broadcasting.

Theft Count Dismissal Requested

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The attorney for Butte County official D. C. 'Bill' Swinney today asked that charges of grand theft and concealing stolen property against his client be dropped because the statute of limitations had run out.

Attorney Charles V. Weedman made the request in a written motion filed with Sacramento County Superior Court Judge Robert W. Cole.

However, Cole postponed a decision pending oral arguments in the case set for next Monday.

Weedman said in his motion that the statute of limitations on the crimes of grand theft and concealing stolen property was three years. Past that, Weedman said, there "is no jurisdiction to prosecute the defendant." He said the alleged crimes were in 1968.

Swinney, county tax collector-treasurer, was indicted on charges of stealing five $5,000 school bonds from a Gridley neighbor and of concealing them.

The indictment came about as the result of a civil trial which disclosed Swinney had used the previously reported missing bonds as security on several personal bank loans.

Swinney's trial was transferred to Sacramento from Oroville after a change of venue was granted.

Quoting from a transcript by the grand jury that indicted Swinney, Weedman said the five $5,000 school bonds were discovered "missing" Sept. 6, 1968.

The grand jury returned its indictment against Swinney March 5, 1974.

However, Butte County Deputy District Attorney Gerald Hermansen said the Sept. 6, 1968 "discovery" did not in fact conclude the bonds were "stolen" but merely "missing." Hermansen argued it was a "continuoss" crime from the date of its commission and thereby not open to the statute of limitations.

Ex-Prisoner's Dog Reported Missing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — MaCo, the peppy puppy whisked out of a North Vietnamese prison camp one year ago by an American POW, has disappeared from her home in Virginia.

Navy Lt. Cmdr. Edward A. Davis, 34, told UPI Monday the dog failed to return home after being let our of the house a week ago. It wasn't known if the animal had strayed or been stolen.

Five-Period Teaching Day Is Approved

A bid by the Terra Linda High School English Department to retain a four-period teaching day failed last night as the San Rafael Board of Education endorsed a five-period day.

Department teachers appeared last night to appeal a decision by Supt. Donald Leisey that they teach five classes of students each day, rather than only four.

Departmental teachers argued that teaching four 50-minute periods daily rather than five 50-minute periods allowed them time to correst test and composition papers, but the board embraced Leisey's decision.

Leisey said his move will allow smaller class sizes and more interaction between teachers and students, among other things.

The San Rafael Board of Education also:

SALARY — Made no comment on proposals by Local 400 of the North Bay Public Employees Union, representing about 50 classified employees, for a $157 monthly across-the-board pay hike, and from the California School Employees group, representing about 150 classified employees, for a 15 per cent pay hike.

SMOKERS — Said a special section of board meeting chambers will be set aside for nonsmokers.

EXPENSE — Said it will cost $4,878 to install a curb around the San Rafael High School track, a job to be done by Ghillotti Brothers.

MEETINGS — Announced this schedule of future board meetings: 7:30 p.m. May 28, district office; 7:30 p.m. June 11, Short School, and 7:30 p.m. June 25, district office.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to May 28.

Shipwrecked Sausalitans Reported In Good Shape

SANTIAGO (UPI) — Two Sausalito couples shipwrecked off the stormy coast of southern Chile more than a week ago were reported to be in good condition today by the Chilean navy.

A spokesman of the 3d Naval District in Punta Arenas, on the extreme southern tip of Chile, said Mr. and Mrs. Al Kohlwess were flown from Puerto Williams—near the spot where the couples shipwrecked—to Punta Arenas Tuesday.

The other couple, photographer Hal Roth and his wife, Margaret, stayed in Puerto Williams to oversee shipment of the couples' fiberglass yacht, the "Whisper," to Punta Arenas, the spokesman said.

The couples were rescued by the Chilean navy after the 35-foot sloop "Whisper" was dashed against the rocky coast of southern Chile by gale-force winds.

In Santiago, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said he had been informed that the two couples steered the "Whisper" into a small harbor to ride out the storm and despite weighing two anchors the glass fiber craft was dashed against the rocks.

The "Whisper" was taken to Puerto Williams, on the island of Navarino, by the Chilean navy.

The spokesman said the craft would be shipped to Punta Arenas aboard a Chilean navy ship where it would be repaired.

It was the second boating mishap for Roth. In August of 1965 his 36-foot sailboat, the Golden Father, burned and sank in Hospital Cove at Angel Island. Roth was aboard the $20,000 craft when the flames broke out but escaped by jumping in a dinghy and rowing to shore.

Both the Roths and the Kohlwesses live aboard their boats in the Sausalito Yacht Harbor. The Kohlwess' craft is the German sloop, Proessa.

Sewer Discussion

The San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce will discuss the city downtown sewer project with contractor Alf Burtleson and Ross Valley Sanitary District officials when it meets at noon tomorrow in the Pepperwood coffee shop in Redhill Shopping Center.

A Swim To Help Marin Red Cross

When I was asked to be honorary chairman of the second annual Marin Red Cross "Good Neighbor" Swim-A-Thon I quickly accepted, thinking my role would be that of administration. You know, sitting behind a big desk, dictating letters to a pool of pretty secretaries between puffs on a cigar.

But I found out differently. "Of course you will want to swim in this event, won't you?" I was asked by Nancy King Hayden, the lovely woman who is handling public relations for the swim.

HOW COULD I refuse? So here I am, waiting for the swim event Saturday, with hopes of staying afloat. I will surely put the Red Cross program to severe test. No doubt the Red Cross life guards will have to jump into the College of Marin pool to save me after a few minutes in the water.

I have been stuck with the label of Ralph the Rockcod and will be swimming sponsored laps at 11 a.m. with some others who will be giving their all for the Red Cross.

Each of us talked friends into sponsoring us by pledging to donate a certain amount to the Red Cross for each lap we swim. Nancy sat down and penned other names for the swimmers who will be in that special 11 a.m. heat.

Some of my sponsors have been laughing at me when I tell them I'll be shooting for 15 or 20 laps. "I just hope you make it to the other side," said one. "Swim in either lane 1 or 8 so you can grab the side of the pool before you go under," sneered another.

IF OUR SPECIAL heat isn't enough for you, just wait 'til the special politicians' heat at 11:30 a.m., open to all those running for public office in Marin County. That's some kinda way to pick up a vote.

Supervisor Michael Wornum will be out of town but has his nephew, David Fletcher, filling in for him. Fletcher is a descendant, on his mother's side, of Mrs. Louis Gerstle (as in Gerstle Park), who was vice president of the San Rafael Red Cross Society in 1898. So Fletcher, a 20-year-old College of Marin student, will be perfect for the part.

THESE SPECIAL events will be started by Mrs. Beth S. Kaufman of Greenbrae, the woman who originated age group swimming and member of both the Olympic and Helms Athletic Foundation's swimming halls of fame.

The Swim-A-Thon will last throughout the day Saturday, from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. In addition to the pool at College of Marin, pools at Tamalpais, Drake, Terra Linda and San Rafael high schools will be used, as will the one at Hamilton Air Force Base Officers Club.

Now, if I can just keep my head above water and kick my feet I might make it across the pool.

Gaylen Pitts? He's A's Latest Hero

OAKLAND (UPI) — You have to admire Gaylen Pitts.

Here he has been in the minor leagues for nine years without ever getting even a chance to train with a big league club let alone play with one and now he's in the majors strictly as a stopgap.

He has no illusions about staying up, so he has to make the most of a limited opportunity.

His big chance came yesterday in the nightcap of a twi-nighter between Kansas City and Oakland. The Royals had won the opener 4-2 on a two-run homer by Cookie Rojas and had the A's tied 1-1 after nine in the second.

Ted Kubiak, another parttime player as the A's wait out a series of injuries to regulars, singled with one out in the bottom of the 10th. Pitts was the next batter and after he and Kubiak missed connections on a hit and run, he hit a pitch by Lindy McDaniel, a 20-year veteran in the majors, over left-fielder Jim Wohlford's head and Kubiak scored from first to break things up.

"I didn't think the ball was going to go out," said Pitts, "but I knew I hit it good. I hoped, though, it would go over his (Wohlford's) head and maybe Kubiak would have a chance to score. I'll say this for Kubiak, he's a smart player and he did a great job of making it home all the way."

Pitts' game winning hit was a double and it was his third hit of the game. Earlier, he singled and doubled, with his first double scoring Angel Mangual.

Thus in the four games he has played for the A's, the 27-year-old Pitts, who started out in St. Louis organization nearly 10 years ago, has five hits in 14 at-bats for a .357 batting average.

"He's a battler," said Manager Alvin Dark. "He's played a lot of baseball in the minors and he knows how to play. He's not afraid to get dirty."

Pitts was called up from Tucson of the Pacific Coast League last Sunday after Dal Maxvill was spiked severely. He played his first game in the majors at second, then was shifted to third for the next three and he did a fine defensive job, too.

"Even though I've never been in the majors, I feel comfortable," said Pitts. "I feel pretty lucky to be here and I figure anything I can do to help is a plus. I probably won't be around long but this is a funny game. You just never know."

Rollie Fingers pitched one-hit relief over the final three innings and got his fourth win in five decisions after Glenn Ab-

TOP RIVALS — Doug Carlisle (left) of Terra Linda High School and Henry Jacobson of Redwood, bundled up against the stiff wind which whipped through Larkspur yesterday, battled in the No. 1 singles match. Carlisle won, 7-5, 2-6, 6-2, but Redwood went on to a 4-3 team victory which virtually assured it of a seventh consecutive Marin County Athletic League tennis championship. Redwood Shows Awesome Power

In an awesome display of power, Marin County Athletic League baseball champion Redwood High School clobbered host Marin Catholic yesterday, 14-0.

The Giants won their 11th straight game by scoring 13 runs in the second and third innings behind a grand slam home-run by Rob Long in the second and a three-run homer by Marty Frey in the third.

Giant Jeff Lucchesi pitched five innings, picking up his fourth victory without a loss. Lucchesi struck out nine, while only walking one. No Wildcat advanced past second base.

San Rafael Clinches Second

San Rafael High School, held hitless for five and two-thirds innings, erupted for five runs before the third out could be made yesterday for a 6-4 baseball victory over Terra Linda at Albert Field.

The Bulldogs improved their Marin County Athletic League record to 9-4 and clinched second place ahead of Tamalpais (7-6) and Terra Linda (6-6).

Trojan pitcher Mike Bird entered the sixth with a no-hitter, but after two walks and two outs, George Saunders singled home a run, Mike Farris belted a three-run home run and Kevin Loughlin followed with a solo homer.

Caldwell Is Keeping S.F. Afloat

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Mike Caldwell is a sinker ball pitcher but the 25-year-old left-hander is doing a great job of keeping the San Francisco Giants afloat in the Western Division title race.

"The guy is sure no dummy. He knows what he's doing out there on the mound," said an admiring Sparky Anderson after Caldwell blanked the Cincinnati Reds 4-0 last night for his sixth victory in seven decisions.

REDWOOD EDGES TERRA LINDA

Tennis Dynasty Survives

The insurgents made a tremendous effort, but they could not topple the dynasty.

Redwood High School held off Terra Linda's bid yesterday to achieve a 4-3 victory which virtually assured the Giants of their seventh straight Marin County Athletic League tennis championship.

An estimated 70 fans crowded around the doubles court after the singles matches were over to watch Redwood's Mike Arleo and Josh McIntyre win second doubles to wrap up the victory.

Redwood won its 11th straight match and 71st of its last 72 in the MCAL to improve its record to 12-1 with one match left. Terra Linda is 11-2.

The matches were close. Terra Linda won first singles with Doug Carlisle, third singles with Joel Garrett and first doubles with Greg Henricks and Robert Reamey, all requiring three sets. On the Redwood side, Mark Strasser took second singles in three sets, Herman Bauer took fourth singles, 7-5, 7-5, and only John Fernbacher in fifth singles and Arleo-McIntyre won easily.

"This league has gotten awfully good," said Redwood coach Glen Dickey, "and it's going to get better. There are some fine young kids. It's going to be much more interesting from now on."

In another development, Novato coach Carolyn Barnato said her team would forfeit its three unplayed matches because players had not been attending practice.

RESULTS

Redwood 4, Terra Linda 3, at Redwood. First singles — Doug Carlisle (TL) d. Henry Jacobson, 7-5, 2-6, 6-2.

San Marin 4, Marin Catholic 3, at San Marin. Frank Casella (MC) d. Don Goldbeck, 6-2, 6-0.

Foreman Doesn't Show Up

NEW YORK (UPI) — Muhammad Ali won the first skirmish of his forthcoming ring war with George Foreman when the champion failed to put in an appearance at today's news conference about their Sept. 24 title match in Kinshasa, Zaire.

"A real champion don't do that," Ali said. "George is acting like a little child, and that kind of thing kills boxing."

Not only was Foreman not present, but he was totally without representation, this leaving the field clear for Ali to stage one of his customary news conferences where he does most of the talking.

MARIN UTILITY MAN

Bianchini All-Conference

The man who does everything has received some recognition for it.

Don Bianchini, who plugs virtually any hole which College of Marin baseball coach Vic Petreshene finds in the lineup, has been named first-team utility player on the Camino Norte Conference all-star team.

The team was announced this morning by Petreshene, chairman of the league's baseball coaches, the group which made the selections Monday at College of Marin.

Bianchini, a sophomore, was a regular starting pitcher with a 4-3 league record. He also regularly played first base and served as the designated hitter, compiling a .254 batting average.

Bianchini was named second team utility last year, when his duties also included catching and third base. Teammate Tom Olson was first-team utility last year.

Two Marin players were named to the second team — outfielder John Billings, who hit .370, and infielder Steve Sherry, who hit .286.

Tamalpais Goes On Hitting Spree

Tamalpais High School went on a batting spree yesterday, pounding out 18 hits during a 17-4 Marin County Athletic League baseball romp over visiting Drake.

Peter Lea drove in five runs with a three-run home run in the first inning and a two-run single in the fourth, and Alvin Hall knocked in four, including a long three-run homer in the sixth.

Mariner Qualifies For Meet

PLEASANT HILL — Dan Turek got an early look at the site of Saturday's Northern California junior college track and field meet, and he must have liked what he saw.

The college of Marin distance runner finished fifth in his heat in the 3,000-meter steeplechase trials at Diablo Valley College here yesterday to earn a berth in the Nor Cal meet.

Top four finishers in each of the two heats and four other runners from either heat with the best times qualified for Nor Cal. Turek ran 10:04.4. Marin's Mike Killeen also was fifth in his heat but in the slower time of 10:13.8, and did not qualify. The Tars' third entrant, John Streett, was hampered by an ankle injury and did not qualify.

Petaluma Approaches Championship In Golf

Petaluma High School is now just one victory away from an undisputed North Bay League golf title.

The Trojans (11-2) yesterday clinched at least a tie for the championship with a 304-328 victory over Vallejo. Petaluma finishes its season tomorrow with a home match against second-place Ukiah (10-3).

In other local high school golf yesterday, Rancho Cotate (6-4) closed out its Sonoma County League season with a 378-431 victory over Healdsburg.

Petaluma 304, Vallejo 328, at Petaluma Golf and Country Club. Medalist — Alan Keller (P), 72.

By GARY HUGHES

Everybody's Happy; Even Vida Blue

Everybody's happy in an 11-2 win. Even Vida Blue.

Monday night in the Oakland Athletic's clubhouse there was no griping. This was a first for me.

Manager Alvin Dark had played every available man, exclusive of pitchers. He had allowed Vida Blue to complete his first game of 1974. According to catcher Ray Fosse, "Blue had his best stuff of the year. He only shook me off once. His curve ball was excellent."

I asked Fosse why he spent so much time talking to Vida on the mound. He answered, "I sometimes have to slow him down. He gets ahead of himself and doesn't concentrate. That's when he gets in trouble."

FOSSE HAS ONE of the fastest releases in the game and he needed it throwing out Amos Otis. He was very pleased when I informed him that it was the first time Otis had been thrown out this year.

The Royals, by the way, are leading the American League in stolen bases. Little Fred Patek has already stolen 13.

A story that has gone largely unnoticed concerns the fact the Roayls have closed their Baseball Academy at Sarasota, Fla. Ewing Kauffman, owner of the Kansas City Royals, has lost almost $3 million since 1970 in operating the academy.

THE IDEA OF the academy was to take young natural athletes and through concentrated work train them to be professional baseball players. One graduate, infielder Frank White, has already made the major league team. Others may follow. It's a shame that the program became too much of an expense.

Another program, which I'm sure the Royals will keep, is their visual program instituted by Dr. William Harrison of Dvis and Dr. William Lee of Petaluma.

I first heard about this visual concept of the game from Jim Fregosi of the Texas Rangers He spent three days with Dr. Harrison undergoing tests and visual training. He feels that the experience was extremely beneficial.

I SPENT SOME TIME with Dr. Harrison Monday evening both on the field and in the press box. He took a great deal of time working with hitters around the batting cage.

Jim Wohlford, a young Royals outfielder, credits Dr. Harrison with helping him on defense, as well as offense. He feels that through the visual exercise program he is able to relax and that his concentration has been greatly increased.

Other sports, notably football, have gone a long way toward incorporating outside techniques into their programs. The Kansas City Royals are the forerunners in baseball.

Oakland, on the opposite side of the coin, does very little scientifically. They just send up more of the best players in the game than anyone else. On Monday night they humiliated Kansas City.

I STOPPED BY Alvin Dark's office after listening to the Vida Blue of milk commercial fame for 10 minutes. Alvin was his usual self. This particular evening he was lavishing praise on Campy Campaneris for his 100 per cent effort (something, I believe, that all 24 A's are paid to do).

In the middle of his conversation Dark got a phone call. After two "yes sir's" and one "no sir," he very politely asked seven reporters to leave his office, closed his door and resumed his telephone talk. Big brother is always around.

1. John Summers, rf.
2. Campy Campaneri, ss.
3. Larry Haney, c.
4. Jesus Alou, lf.
5. Vida Blue, p & dh.
6. Pat Bourque, 1b.
7. Angel Mangual, cf.
8. Ted Kubiak, 2b.
9. Gaylen Pitts, 3b.

How many of those names do you think will appear on your all-star ballot?

FOUR'S A CROWD — Kansas City Royals manager Jack McKeon (jacket) shoved pitched Paul Splittorff (right) away from umpire Larry Barnett in the third inning last night while catcher Fran Healy (left) looked on. Splittorff objected to a balk called by Barnett, but went back to pitch the Royals to a 4-2 victory over the A's in the first game of the doubleheader. The A's won the nightcap, 2-1.

bott held the Royals to five hits in seven innings.

In the opener, the score was tied at 2-2 when Rojas homered with John Mayberry aboard in the sixth. The blow saddled Jim Hunter with his third loss in nine decisions and rewarded Paul Splitorff with his fourth victory in seven decisions. Doug Bird had to pitch out of bases loaded jams in the eighth and ninth to close it out.

The split kept the A's, who now have won six of their last seven games, atop the American League West, a half game ahead of Chicago. Oakland is idle today, before a 10-game road trip.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Scott Thinks Brewers Almost Ready To Win All

But the way they're going right now, they don't seem to need a bit of help.

The Brewers ripped off their fifth straight victory last night, an 8-3 rout of the Baltimore Orioles with the kind of balanced hitting that is their trademark.

Pedro Garcia and Bob Mitchell each hit two-run singles, John Briggs hit his seventh homer and Scott chipped in with three hits, including a pair of run-scoring singles. The victory kept the Brewers five percentage points ahead of Cleveland in the tight Eastern Division race.

The encouraging thing for the Brewers is that they're 12-5 against the Eastern Division clubs.

"We've got the hitting, defense and the right-handed pitching," Scott beamed after the game. "If there's any doubt, it's that we don't have a left-handed relief pitcher. You can't tell in the early part of the season why you'll need a guy like but he can sure come in handy late in the season to challenge those left-handers. If we get one in a trade, we can win it all."

Indians 6, Red Sox 2

George Hendrick and Frank Duffy hit homers and Gaylord Perry pitched a five-hitter to pace Cleveland over Boston. Perry is now 9-1 in his AL career against Boston and 5-1 this season. Reggie Cleveland suffered the loss.

Tigers 5, Yanks 2

Ralph Houk made his first appearance in New York in a non-Yankee uniform and managed the Tigers over the Yanks. Mickey Lolich pitched a three-hitter for Detroit, Aurelio Rodriguez banged out four singles and Ed Brinkman had three hits. They're the last two batters in the lineup.

Cubs 7 Pirates 1

Rick Reuschel pitched a four-hitter and Jose Cardenal had three hits to lead the Cubs to their victory, which handed the Pirates their fourth straight loss. Jerry Reuss was tagged for eight hits and three runs in six innings and suffered his third loss for the Pirates.

Braves 3 Padres 2

Frank Tepedino's two-run bases-filled single was the big blow for the Braves in their victory over the Padres. Phil Niekro went six innings to raise his record to 4-3 while Bill Greif, tagged for three runs and eight hits in five innings, saw his record drop to 2-6. Dave Winfield homered for the Padres.

"But the guy's record tells you he's not lucky," said Anderson. "Check it. You will see he has given up only 53 hits and 22 walks in 65 innings and he went into tonight's game with a 1.93 ERA."

"Sure, we hit seven or eight balls real hard," he added, "but most of them were on the ground. And that's what a pitcher is supposed to make a batter do."

"Caldwell is a bulldog on the mound," said Charlie Fox, the Giants manager. "He keeps coming at you. He doesn't waste any time out there."

"I like to keep the game moving," said Caldwell. "It keeps your teammates on their toes and it doesn't give the opposing hitters any time to try to outguess you.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Be Prepared For Fires On Boat

There are now stringent laws in many states against transporting and storing gasoline in small quantities in cans or other containers. The fuel shortage has increased such handling of gasoline as it applies to automobiles. There have been many accidents.

It has always been this way in boating. The dangers of handling gasoline or other petroleum fuels are very great in boats.

Because most boat fires begin under similar circumstances, the National Fire Prevention Association (a Boston organization constantly investigating fires) offers a few important suggestions to boatmen to cover these dangerous conditions.

They are:

1. Enforce a strict "No Smoking" rule during refueling operations. Extinguish all open flames. Keep fuel away from ignition sources. Wipe up any spilled fuel immediately.

2. Put portable fuel tanks ashore for filling. Use approved safety containers for any extra fuel carried. Never store spare fuel in living or engine compartments.

3. Ventilate the engine compartment thoroughly before starting the engine. Make sure that there is no smell indicating the presence of fuel vapors.

4. Keep bilges clean of fuel or oil. Don't allow rags, especially oily ones, to accumulate. Keep matches away from children. Be a good "boatkeeper."

5. Use only marine-approved stoves aboard. Don't use portable LP or gasoline stoves.

6. Avoid portable heaters of any type.

7. In case of fire, every motorboat should have one Class B flammable liquid) fire extinguisher ready for use. The larger the craft the more extinguishers it should have. Be sure all extinguishers are in first rate working order at all times.

If a fire breaks out on your boat get into action fast. Chances of putting out the fire usually exist for only a very short time, before it gets beyond control.

Don't think of saving the extinguisher. Give the fire the biggest blast you can. Don't be panicked by the heat. The material in dry chemical extinguishers and the carbon dioxide in CO2 extinguishers absorb tremendous amounts of heat. Bore right in, and get to the source.

Use a rapid fanning action of the extinguisher to embrace the outer edges of the blaze. Attack the primary source of the burning fuel first. Go right to the gasoline leak or whatever is supplying the fuel to the blaze. Put the fire out at the source first, then work back to the remaining areas of the blaze.

Q. How about a fire drill on a 25-foot boat . . . ?

A. No matter what size the boat, its skipper should have a plan of action for a fire emergency. He should know exactly where the fire extinguishers are, how to grab one, and how to put it into action as rapidly as possible. He should run through the actions himself, without an audience, because misguided people have a tendency to sneer at such precautions. He should also tell every new passenger how to get out of the way in the emergency.

Q. Are fuel vapor detectors fool proof? How sensitive are they?

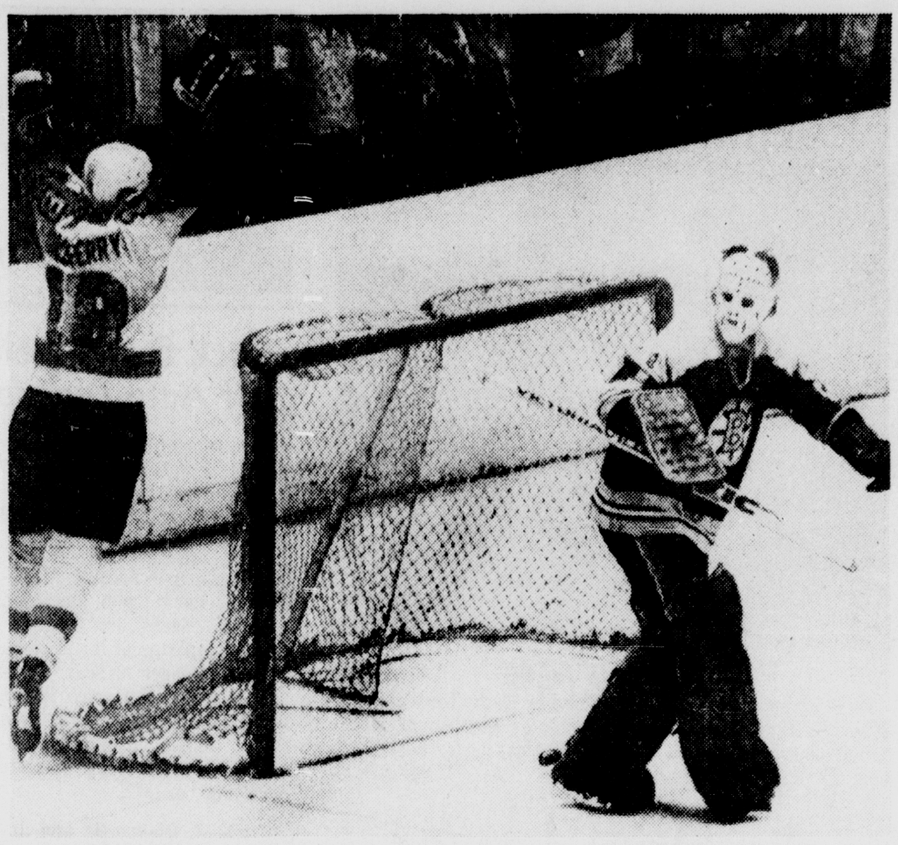
A. Like all mechanical or electronic devices fuel vapor detectors or "sniffers," as they are called, are very effective until they break down. They have to be checked periodically. I also double check by sniffing the bilges with my own nose. Most sniffers will detect less than one fifth of the amount of leaded fuel needed to cause an explosion, and this is a good margin of safety.

Q. How do fuel detectors work?

A. The bilge sniffer or vapor detector uses a sensing device in the areas where vapor may collect. The sensor is a platinum wire through which an electric current flows. In the presence of combustible vapor, the resistance of the filament increases. This is measurable and shows up on the dial of a sensitive instrument.

Q. How much do they cost? Are they worth it?

A. Sniffers cost around $150 and up. What is your life worth?



CELEBRATION — Philadelphia's Ross Lonsberry (left) lifted his arms in delight last night after the Flyers scored their third goal of the third period en route to a 4-2 victory over visiting Boston and a 3-1 lead in the Stanley Cup finals. Prep Golf Is Going To Wire

The Marin County Athletic League golf race will go down to the last day, and possibly beyond, following Novato High School's 207-209 victory over San Rafael yesterday.

Novato (10-3) and San Rafael (10-3) need victories over lesser opponents tomorrow to create a three-way tie with Redwood (11-3) for the championship.

The MCAL champion is supposed to go on to the North Coast Section tournament next Wednesday at Silverado Country Club in Napa. The method of choosing a team in the event of a tie has not been determined, but coaches are considering sending whichever of the teams has the best score in Friday's Rancho Cotate Invitational, San Rafael coach Marion Houze said yesterday.

STANDINGS

Redwood 11-3, San Rafael 10-3, Novato 10-3, Terra Linda 7-6, Marin Catholic 7-7, Drake 3-10, Tamalpais 2-10, San Marin 2-10.

RESULTS

Novato 207, San Rafael 209, at Indian Valley. Co-medalists — Bill Corbett (SR), Craig Vogensen (SR), 39.

Rancho '9' Keeps Title Hopes Alive

Rancho Cotate High School kept itself in the running for the Sonoma County League baseball crown yesterday, while Casa Grande fell by the wayside.

The cougars (8-4) edged visiting Piner of Santa Rosa, 4-3, to come within one game of the league-leading Prospectors (9-3). Casa Grande (7-6) was routed, 18-2, by visiting Sonoma (7-6).

Rancho Cotate's win was due to some poor fielding by the prospectors.

Pitchers Alan Lundquist and Tom Varley limited Piner to three singles and a double, with Varley getting the win.

Casa Grande's pitching corps was battered for 17 hits by Sonoma, including a home run, two triples and two doubles. The Dragons broke the game wide open with an eight-run rally in the third inning.

Flyers To Hear Coach's Sad Tale

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Fred Shero has a story to tell his team today. It is guaranteed to leave them crying.

What Shero plans to tell his men is about the last time he was on a team that came within a single game of winning the Stanley Cup. As you can probably gather, it has a sad ending.

Shero, the Philadelphia coach, was reminded of his previous predicament last night after the Flyers beat the Boston Bruins 4-2 to take an impressive 3-1 advantage in the best-of-seven Stanley Cup final. If the Flyers can win again at Boston tomorrow night, they will become the first expansion team ever to capture the NHL Championship.

But before they do, they'll have to hear this story:

"I was with the Rangers in 1950 when we had a 3-1 advantage (it was actually 3-2) over Detroit and led by two goals in the last two games," Shero related. "We wound up losing the whole thing. That was the last time I was in the finals. I'm lucky, though, because I'm getting a second chance. Most other guys get only one.

"We were close then and it got away. I want these guys to know what can happen."

Poor Week For Marin Players On Farm Clubs

It was not a particularly productive week for three Marin County baseball players toiling in the minor leagues.

Player Periscope statistics showed that Marin City's Clifford Hall hit .286 for the period to elevate his batting average to .222 for the Chicago Cubs' Newport News club in the Carolina A League. The outfielder had four hits in 14 at-bats including one double and four runs batted in.

Terra Linda's Dewey Forry pitched in his second game for Waterbury of the Eastern League, and it was disastrous. He hurled one inning and walked three while allowing two hits in taking the loss. His earned run average soared to 45.00 for the Los Angeles Dodgers' double A club.

Novato outfielder Tom Thomas was inactive last week with the Pittsburgh Pirates' Thetford, Vt., team in the Eastern League.

Rancho Netters Fall

Rancho Cotate High School (2-8) closed out its Sonoma County League tennis season yesterday with a 4-1 loss to Piner (Santa Rosa).

Question About Questor Shares

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. My wife and I hold 400 shares of Questor Corp. (NYSE) purchased back when it was Dunhill. The dividends have been regular. Since we don't need the money, we decided not to accept the company's offer to buy the shares at $11. I feel that the company is sound, diversified and in some good fields, so that when market conditions improve it can only go up. What is your opinion? — N.K.

A. I am somewhat less enthusiastic than you about this company for a number of reasons. Two deficit quarters, December 1973 and March 1974, may be followed by a third before Questor is able to turn operations around. Despite this the dividend still appears secure. Although many of the factors contributing to the red ink — start up costs, price increases, raw material shortages, severe competition and strike — were temporary, some of these problems may persist.

Questor's automotive replacement parts business suffered during the gasoline shortage; and original equipment, which represents a smaller portion of sales, has felt the pinch from the drop in car manufacturing. The lumber shortage which created order fulfillment difficulties for Questor's juvenile toy operations has not eased significantly. The declining birth rate is another dampening factor on the growth of this division which also produces baby nursing bottles. Sports equipment sales have been, and should continue to be, strong.

Q. I have Salem Fund at a higher cost. My primary concern is preservation of capital. What should I do? — E.P.

A. The sole objective of this fund is capital appreciation and for that reason is too speculative for your conservative goal. Exchange your shares for either Fidelity Bond-Debenture Fund or for the Puritan Fund.

Marin Firm Purchases Simi Winery

The announcement came today from Michael G. Dacres Dixon of Kentfield, chief executive officer and chairman of Scottish and Newcastle, and Russell H. Green Jr., president of Simi Winery, located at the north edge of Healdsburg at the entrance to Alexander Valley.

Dixon said that Green and his staff will remain in their present positions and operate the winery for Scottish and Newcastle.

"Many factors were involved in our selection of Simi Winery," said Dixon. "We are convinced that Alexander Valley is producing the finest varietal grapes — equal to the highest quality or better, anywhere in the world.

"Scottish & Newcastle will concentrate in bringing Simi wines to many new areas around the world — many places not yet familiar with the Simi varietals which have garnered gold, silver and bronze medals in domestic competition as well as in Europe."

Stocks Drift Lower As Trading Is Dull

Inflation, climbing interest rates and Watergate kept most investors sidelined.

Investors largely ignored two economic reports from the Commerce Department. Business inventories rose an adjusted 1.1 per cent in March, somewhat below the 1.4 per cent rise in February.

The most sizabel losers in early trading were the gold mining stocks, reflecting in part a decline in bullion prices overseas. Domes Mines dropped 3 ¾, Campbell Red Lake 1 ¾, and Homestake Mining 1 ½.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange declined in quiet trading. Amerada Hess warrants, the volume leader, dropped ¼ to 4 ⅞ on 16,900 traded.

New owner is Jack E. Mitchell of Ignacio, who has been with the Sears and Roebuck service department for 24 years is now manager of Sears Service Center on Francisco Boulevard. Mitchell bought it from Hilary Lunginbull of San Francisco, who had owned it since September of 1972.

Triple J. Diagnostic and Automotive Center will be managed by Mitchell's son, Jack E. RAINBOW MARKET in Larkspur, at 483 Magnolia Avenue, will be back in the hands of its former owner, Ernest (Ernie) Epidendio on June 1.

Fuad J. Balat of Corte Madera, who bought the market from Epidendio on Aug. 1 last year, is giving it up and hopes to operate another small grocrey in the county.

Epidendio, who ran Rainbow Market for 35 years until last year's sale, said he plans extensive remodeling of the market when he regains ownership on June 1. "I'm putting in new produce cases, new shelving and new freezers," said Epidendio. "I'll also have the same policies as before, including delivery service, charge accounts and lowest possible prices."

The market was started by Epidendio's father, Peter Epidendio, about 1930. There is no change in the Rainbow Market's meat department, which continues under the ownership of Charles Young, who has operated it for almost 21 years.

The new store is open six days a week from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

NINE REALTORS and salespersons of the Marin County Board of Realtors returned last week from a professional seminar tour of Moscow and Leningrad. They are Bernice Andron of Sausalito; Vance Barnett, James Gallagher, Jerry Newbauer, and Alex Pohoriles, all of San Anselmo; Henry Behr of Novato; Betsy Broman of Mill Valley; James Hendrick and Ralph McClurg of Kentfield.

OCTOPUS Restaurant and Fresh Fish Grotto in Novato plans to expand its seating capacity by 30 to 35 next month and start serving hard liquor in addition to beer and wine.

Israel Vilner of Novato, who has operated the Octopus for eight and one-half years, said he plans to remodel the rear storage area to provide more seating in the dining area, which can now accommodate up to 100 persons. He hopes to complete the expansion about the middle of June.

ANGEL'S CREAMERY at the southwest corner of Corte Madera Center was sold this week to Tiburon dentist Richard P. Netland, who will retain the same name and the same manager, Mrs. Roberta Ricketts of Mill Valley. He bought the business Monday from Stanley and Sharon Angel of Daly City.

Angel's Creamery is open seven days a week, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. weekdays and from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. weekends, serving all types of ice cream. The new owner said he hopes to build up the sandwich business, serving takeout sandwiches in addition to ice cream.

RONALD A. ERICKSON of Tiburon, an associate of the Stanley M. Weiland Jr. Aency of Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company in San Francisco, was one of 30 career agents who attended a five-day company seminar in Hartford, Conn., last week.

AN ESCORT SERVICE called Bonne Chance, which provides social companions (both men and women) or tour guides, opened this month in Novato.

Owner of the service is Marie McKern of 12 Stasia Drive, who worked for an export shipping firm and an escort service in San Francisco before moving to Marin last year.

"We offer attractive, bright escorts to take you out to dinner or for drives on weekends," said Ms. McKern. Clients may be individuals or groups. She said her service caters to such clients as the older single person, tourists, and visiting business people.

School For Deaf Is Given A Good Mark By Experts

"The strengths far outweigh the weaknesses," was the report given last night by a team of three experts who investigated Marin County's school for deaf children.

The report was given to the county Board of Education in the wake of protests by four parents who criticized the classes for the hard of hearing children and put their own youngsters into a private program in San Francisco.

"The teaching we saw was of very high quality," said Karen Jensen of the Fresno State College faculty after she and two other leaders in the field studied the Marin facility for two days.

She and the other experts, though, recommended some improvements, such as more in-service training, more frequent recording of the children's speech and supplying batteries in the classroom for hearing aids.

Phillip Bresler of Tiburon, one of the parents who removed their children from the class last September, said the report "was not really relevant nor meaningful."

He said that his child and three others "had to leave the program because it was so bad." He said the children were very deficient in speech and reading.

Bresler did concede, though, that "there have been some improvements since then" in the Marin school.

He asked the board, however, to study the progress of the four children who are now in the San Francisco school and said he and the other parents still want reimbursement for the tuition they are paying there.

The parents each had asked the school districts in which they live to pay tuition (Bresler said it is $3,000 a year) at the San Francisco school under a state law which provides such reimbursement if a local district has no program for a handicapped child.

The parents were turned down by their local districts, appealed the matter to the county board and ultimately to the state level, but were turned down in each instance.

When Bresler last night said he wanted the "case reopened and the children looked at individually," board President Glen E. Robinson told the parent that the board can do nothing more.

"You're in the wrong court," added another trustee, James A. Carroll.

The Marin County Board of Education also:

TRANSFER — Approved an inter-county attendance agreement which will allow Cynthia J. Larsen, who lives in the Petaluma High School district, to attend Novato High School district.

MATERNITY — Granted a maternity leave without pay to Nancy Wartena, teacher of hearing handicapped, for the 1974-75 school year.

JOBS — Approved a contract to operate two California Youth Corps summer programs at Mount Tamalpais and Angel Island state parks which will provide jobs for 85 young people.

Western Weekend Festivities Slated

"Western Weekend 1974" will be held by the St. Patrick's Men's Club in the parish hall of the church at Magnolia and King Streets, Larkspur, Friday and Saturday.

Games, food, a bar, music, square dancing, prizes, and gift booths will be featured. Hours of the event are from 6 p.m. to midnight Friday and 3 p.m. to midnight Saturday.

Bodies Of Couple Found After Their Boat Sinks

The bodies of a Southern California couple were found floating yesterday near an overturned dinghy and debris from their sunken cabin cruiser about 10 miles south of Point Reyes.

The victims were Henry and Marjorie Schaefer, both 58, of Arcadia. One of their two sons, Chris, lives in Greenbrae.

Schaefer had radioed for help about 12:30 p.m. Monday, saying his 46-foot cruiser, the Margy-M III, was taking on water and was in danger of sinking.

He reported his location as a few miles southwest of Bodega Bay in the Pacific.

An intensive air and sea search by the Coast Guard began immediately but nothing was found until about 3:30 p.m. yesterday when the bodies were sighted by a plane and a helicopter.

It was too windy and the seas were too rough for the helicopter to recover the bodies, but a boat was sent later, a Coast Guard spokesman said.

He said a suitcase was floating near the bodies as well as the overturned small boat.

It was not known what caused the boat to sink.

Schaefer was a retired businessman, the Coast Guard said.

Nine Perish

Police Write 103 Tickets In Campaign

Sgt. Greg Rossoff said five officers have been at the intersection from 6 to 9 a.m. when the left turn is prohibited as a means to prevent commuters from using Corte Madera streets as a freeway bypass.

"We are having our hands full with some very angry people," Rossoff said.

He said five officers would be on duty at the intersection from 6 to 9 a.m. for the rest of the week at least.

Man's Case To Superior Court

David Lee McMillin 20, was ordered to appear May 28 following a preliminary hearing before Municipal Judge Robert A. Smallman.

McMillin is said to have broken into the Mary A. Lush home and Amber Griffin Books, both on Grant Avenue in Novato, and to have taken cash from Positively Fourth Street saloon on Fourth Street in San Rafael.

PASSENGER CAR TIRE GUARANTEE

Montgomery Ward guarantees each of its passenger car tires for a specified number of miles when used on passenger cars or station wagons, except taxis. If your tire does not give you this mileage because of:

- defects in material or workmanship,
- normal road hazard failure,
- premature tread wearout (2/32 inches or less remaining);

Montgomery Ward will:

1. During the first 10% of guaranteed mileage, replace the tire free.

Charge after first 10% of guaranteed mileage based on selling price in effect at the time of return at branch to which returned, including federal excise tax.

Passenger tires used on taxicabs, and motor vehicles other than passenger cars are guaranteed on the same basis against defects in materials and workmanship only.

Proper tire and suspension system maintenance are vital to obtaining maximum tire mileage. Montgomery Ward will therefore rotate your tires and inspect your suspension system free of charge every 5,000 miles, for the entire guaranteed mileage, at any of its retail or catalog branches having tire installation facilities.
